Grieving Young Farm Couple Hopes Their Experience Enlightens Other Families, Changes Milk House Detergent Labels

Luke and Susan Howard with a portfolio of their son Matthew. Matthew died last month from accidently injesting dairy pipeline cleaner.

Editor:s Note: At 5 p.m. March 22, 1991, playing hide and seek around the bulk milk tank in the company of his parents, little Matthew Howard, 17-month-old son of Luke and Susan Howard, Mt. Pleasant Mills, instinctively picked up a cup used to catch the drippings from the transfer tube on the milk house detergent container and drank less than an ounce of the liquid soap. In less time than it takes to blink an eye, a chain of events was put into motion that six weeks later left the little toddler dying in the arms of his weeping parents.

Matthew Howard died April 27, 1991, and is buried in a church graveyard that can be seen from the family farm.

This story of human love, almost unexpressable grief, and neighborly, church and clinical compassion, also projects a vivid warning: sodium hydroxide found in many milk house detergents is lye, not salt, as many farmers have perceived it to be. The chemical is often found in a form more concentrated than what is used to unclog drains. The danger warning on the label should be strictly heeded.

Read, weep, and take the warning.

MOUNT PLEASANT MILLS (Snyder County)—"He was the perfect little boy, that's for sure," said Luke Howard affectionately. "That's the Howard chin," he said pointing to a snapshot of little Matthew Howard, age 17 months. "And of course he had my ears too. My dad confirmed that the first time he saw him after he was born."

What happened in the milk house that Friday evening when this young farm family was preparing to milk their 48 Holstein cows, has happened before. And because farming is a most hazardous occupation, accidents on the farm will happen again. But Luke and Susan Howard tell their story in hopes that out of their grief, some other farm family may be enlightened, and some additional warnings will be placed on the labels of milk house detergents.

As soon as Matthew ingested the soap, Luke and Susan read the label and saw that the antidote

Attending Physican Thinks Farm Toddlers Need Protection Too

DANVILLE (Montour Co.)—One of the attending physicans at the Geisinger Medical Center who helped treat Matthew Howard said the ingestion of caustic alkali found in common milk house pipeline detergent is quite common in farm children and that as a pediatric intensive care specialist, these accidents are disheartening and disturbing to treat medically.

Dr. George Tenedios, MD, anesthesia, said these children can be devastated by the effects of ingesting caustic agents. "The accidental ingestion can lead to death as well as increased morbidity

Pittsburgh Pirates, PDPP Score With Dairy Promotion Program

PITTSBURGH (Allegheny Co.) — A milk promotion deal between the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program (PDPP) and the Pittsburgh Pirates has gotten underway and is bringing public attention to both the dairy industry and the baseball organization's shortstop.

The PDPP is a non-profit generic dairy product promotion program that is supported with funds from the Pennsylvania dairy farmers.

On May 12 at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh, the program got off to its start for the year with Jay Bell Growth Chart Day and Dairy Day at the Ballpark.

The growth chart program features a large poster of Jay Bell with a measurement gradient printed so youth can follow their own growth on the Bell poster.

That, combined with Boyd Wolff, state secretary of agriculture, throwing out the first ball to start the game provided a way to give the dairy message to the 12,000 youngsters who received growth charts and the more than 21,000 fans who attended the game.

The Pittsburgh Pirates/PDPP dairy promotion campaign gets another chance to take its message of wholesomeness and growth to the youth and adults attending a baseball game when — for the sixth year in a row — they kick off June Dairy Month on June 4, again at Three Rivers Stadium.

The state's dairy industry will arrive in Pittsburgh and start festivities at 11 a.m. with a celebrity milking contest, followed by product sampling, dairy entertainment and industry presentations.

In the milking contest, participants are to be Bell and a dairy industry spokesperson, who are to compete against Stan Belinda, the Pirate's relief pitcher.

The cow is to be provided by the Marburger Farm Dairy of Evans City, in Butler County.

Along with the milking contest, the several of the state's dairy princesses are to perform skits carrying a message of the benefits of having dairy products as part of a diet.

In addition, there is to be entertainment for the youth from a ventriliquist dummy, Ms. Udderly. Also scheduled is a country-western band, "Woodsmoke."

The annual event is sponsored by the Dairy Industry Association of western Pennsylvania, the Mid-East United Dairy Industry Association and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program to recognize Pennsylvania's outstanding dairy industry.

Pittsburgh Pirate Shortstop Jay Bell and Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff kick off dairy promotion activities at Three Rivers Stadium.

Tobacco Plants Have A New Job — Harboring Viruses

VACAVILLE, Calif. — And you thought tobacco was made only for chewing and smoking.

Just when some farmers are giving up on growing tobacco from a depressed national market, scientists are making new use of the plant — for harboring viruses.

That's right — viruses. According to a story which recently appeared in "The Wall Street Journal," a company called Biosource Genetics Corp. is spraying tobacco plants with a virus so the plant can manufacture a drug known as "Compound Q" (technical name, trichosanthin). The drug is used on AIDS patients. Other drugs made by the plant include alpha amylase (a food enzyme to convert starch to sugars). Still other plants are creating human proteins, according to the newspaper.

Biosource calls the technology "Geneware" — a possible new source for chemicals used by the medicine and other industries.

Basically, a "mosaic virus," (the same one that threatens tobacco fields), containing the gene material, is sprayed onto the plant. The material goes into the plant cell, and a few processes later, the proteins are genetically created inside the cell. The gene matter reproduces itself and migrates to other cells, where the process begins again.

Right now, the company has moved their operations to the actual field to begin the process of obtaining the new chemicals from the plants.

This may provide another way for tobacco farmers to possibly make better domestic use of their crops, according to experts.

"The system will allow tobacco farmers to have wider market opportunities since they will be able to contract their crops to companies that use the Geneware system to make commercial products in tobacco plants," said Robert L. Irwin, Biosource president, in the "Wall Street Journal."

If the test is successful, according to the Journal, Biosource plans to continue using other material in similar tests and possibily build a processing plant in North Carolina to handle the work.

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE Prices were unchanged The market tone was mostly steady to somewhat fully steady in the Midwest, South Central and Southeast regions Retail, food service, and breaker demand was fair to good, best into retail channels with features Floor stocks were usually adequate, and additional offerings were generally available with ungraded class 1's and 2's in the shortest supply Breakers generally paid higher prices for shell eggs, and offerings became limited. Live hen markets were about steady, and plants worked shortened schedules

Northeast Chicken Parts

Wednesday, May 15, 1991

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS. FEDERAL-STATE: Trucklot buying interest was light and selective Offerings of boneless skinless breasts were adequate in light volume for immediate delivery, tight on large volumes, however, trucklot sales noted for late week and early next week arrival at inside of current price levels. Whole breasts were readily available and the bulk of current business was at lower levels. Leg items were fully adequate to ample and legs and leg quarters were slow in clearing, particularly yellow stocks. Wings were fully adequate

Jacques Scoreboard

Chief alfalfa

In 1988-89 Minnesota trials, Chief had the highest resistance rating against Phytophora and Bacterial wilt plus good scores on Anthracnose, Verticillium and Fusarium resistance. Big yields of top quality forage make this one an all-star.

Multi-plier alfalfa

Multifoliate with high yield potential and unmatched disease resistance ratings. In University of Wisconsin disease tests, Multi-plier scored 24 of a possible 25 points. Top quality forage, too.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

Ember Days, May 22, 24, 25.

May 20 1506, Christopher Columbus dies at age 55 in Spain May 21 1874 Nellie Grant only daughter of President and Mrs Ulysses S Grant is married in a White House ceremony to Englishman Algernon Sartoris May 23, 1785 Benjamin Franklin describes his new invention, bitocal eyeglasses in a letter to his friend, George Whately May 25 1935 Babe Ruth hits his 714th home run the last of his career at Forbes Field in Pittsburgh While you are doing one piece of work don't be thinking of another

Ask the Old Farmer: While riding through Canada and Maine we saw house after house with weatherbeaten ladders on their roofs Could you tell me why they are up on the roof? J L , Penn

They're sure handy when a chimney gets on fire

Home Hints: Raise herbs in various-sized pots around the patio to save garden space

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECAST

New England: This week is all wet First heavy rain and cold Then rain diminishes to drizzle, but cold temperatures remain The week ends with rain, again

Greater New York-New Jersey: Locally heavy rain and cool temperatures Clearing and turning warmer as the week progresses with a possible sunny ending

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Cloudy skies finally discharge rain as the week gets under way Cool to start, then changing to sunny and warmer with showers

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: A couple of days of clearing and warming, followed by cloudy skies and showers in the east Clear and hot for the weekend

OPINION

Hope Increase Gets To Producer

Late last week USDA Secretary Edward Madigan announced several steps to help alleviate the financial stress experienced by dairy farmers. "The dairy industry is experiencing difficulty, which is creating hardship for our dairy farmers. They need our help, and I'm going to do everything I can, given USDA's budgetary and legislative constraints, to ease their most pressing concerns," Madigan said.

According to the National Milk Producers Federation News Letter, USDA will take the following short-term relief actions:

- Make advance purchases this year for next year's school lunch and other domestic feeding programs.
- Temporarily suspend the resale of CCC cheese and nonfat dry milk stocks so that inventory is isolated from the market while prices are at or near the support price level.
- Make dairy products fully available for export credit or food aid donation programs.
- Expand the DEIP to include cheese as an eligible export commodity.
- Facilitate the use of DEIP by providing risk protection to private exporters who may be harmed by unpredictable future actions of the CCC to adjust the relative price support between butter and nonfat dry milk.
- Expand the use of dairy products under the Section 416 donation program by including nonfat dry milk as an eligible product for donation.

We hope the increase in price expected from USDA's action gets to the producer and is not all absorbed by the handlers and retailers in the milk marketing chain.

NOW IS THE TIME

By John Schwartz

To Vote

Tuesday, May 21 is Primary Election Day in Pennsylvania. This is the election to determine the candidates for this fall election. Many key local officials will be elected this year. School board members, county commissioners, and judges are a few of offices to be elected this year. These local officials have a big influence on agriculture. Their policies, allocations of resources, views on development, environment, consumer rights and agriculture will effect the future of your business. Take time to become familiar with the candidates and then vote for the candidates that will best represent your interests.

To Use Pesticides Wisely

Spring planting season is one of agricultures heavy use period of pesticides. We use them to protect our crops and increase yields. However, to achieve best results while protecting the environment, pesticides must be used correctly. First, always read the label and follow label directions. This must be done every time you use a pesticide because labels maybe change by the government. Atrazine is one example. Labels are developed to meet EPA regulations and protect the applicator, the public and the environment.

Secondly, protect your farms underground water. Never fill your sprayer near a well or spring. Avoid spills when mixing pesticides. Move the location of your mixing site periodically. When cleaning the sprayer, rinse it at least three times. Always spray the rinse water back on the field where the product was used. By properly using pesticides, we will improve crop performance, protect people and the environment and insure the future use of pesticides.

To Check Standby Generators

The recent storms remind us electricity maybe interrupted anytime. If have not been routinely checking your standby generators, you should start now. Make sure they will self start when the electricity goes off. Make sure you have adequate fuel to run the generators for several hours. Call the electric company to see if your farm may receive a priority rating for restoring the electricity in case of an outage. Make adjustments on electrical usage in your operation to fit the electrical output of your generator. Finally have someone stay close to the operation when severe weather and thunderstorm watches and warnings are issued. Remember, a watch indicates conditions are suitable for a thunderstorm and a waring indicates thunderstorms are present in the area.

Editor,

We appreciate the article you wrote in your newspaper regarding the National Corn Yield Contest that we run at the National Corn Growers Association. enclosed is a copy of an article we received anonymously from someone in Harrisburg, that had a few questions about the contest. The only way we know to get an answer back to this person is by another article in your newpaper.

Hoffer entered a fifteen acre plot in the contest and harvested 1¼ acres. The contest rules require a continuous plot of at least 10 acres of corn to enter and 1.25 acres of corn must be harvested. He also entered his field in the irrigated class with the intentions of having an irrigated plot. It just happened to be a good year and mother nature was on his side and irrigated the field for him. The irrigated class is defined in the rules as "Mechanical or man-made irrigation must be entered in an irrigated class."

WHO'S PUSHING YOUR BUTTONS?
May 19, 1991

Background Scripture: 2 Corinthians 5:6-20.

Devotional Reading: 2 Timothy 1:8-14.

That is the title to one of the chapters in our book, What You Need Is What You've Got. In it, my wife Valere and I say: "If you are married to an alcoholic, if you're the parent of a problem child or the child of domineering parents, if you are a hen-pecked husband or an abused wife, you are likely allowing someone else to press the buttons that control your life — both without and within."

It doesn't matter what we call it — "pulling your own strings," letting others manipulate you, surrendering to your fate — you are permitting someone or something else to run what God put into your hands alone — your life, your self. In counselling others I have often found that many people feel that they have little or no control over their lives. They are what they are because someone made them that way — God, parents, teachers, etc. Other people are powerful, while they feel weak and helpless.

LEARNED HELPLESSNESS

But none of us are born helpless or hopeless; that is something we learn, according to Professor Martin E. P. Seligman of the University of Pennsylvania. And we tend to learn these better than almost anything. The good news is that if we have learned to be helpless, we can also learn to be the opposite. The difference lies in what or who we let "push our buttons." For we were not created — not any of us! — to be manipulated or controlled by anything or anyone. Paul says to the Corinthians: "Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom" (3:17). All of us need to make a declaration of independence from our manipulating habits, our imprisoning fears and attitudes, and our enslaving emotions. There isn't anyone who cannot do that, if they really want to!

Sometimes, particularly if our bondage has been a long-term experience, it seems our bonds are too powerful for us to break. So, instead of gritting our teeth and struggling against these negative powers, we need to focus on a positive that is stronger than all the negatives. For example, if right now I command you not to think of strawberry shortcake, I suspect that, no matter how much you might want to comply, you have strawberry shortcake on your mind. You can't defeat a negative with a negative — "Don't!" But you can defeat it with a stronger positive — "Do!" So, if I ask you to please think of your favorite food, the strawberry shortcake will be gone.

IMMERSED IN LOVE

That's how we can free ourselves of being controlled — by concentrating on a positive that is stronger: the love of Christ. Paul says to the Corinthians, "For the love of Christ controls us..." (5:14). If we immerse ourselves in the love of Christ we will find the negatives will not be able to push our buttons. We will be motivated by it and that will overpower everything else. If we choose to let the love of Christ at the center of our lives, we cannot be victims — only victors.

FOR THE WEEK ENDING MAY 12, 1991

FAIR WEEK FOR FIELDWORK: Heavy rain showers fell across all but the western third of the state early in the week. The rest of the week was warm and dry. Respondents to our survey indicated that 4 days were suitable for field work. Activities for the week included repairing fence; hauling manure; spreading fertilizer and lime; cutting hay; maintaining machinery; spring plowing; planting crops; and caring for livestock.

SOIL MOISTURE: Soil moisture, by week's end, was rated short by 2 percent of our respondents. Eighty-five percent rated the State's topsoil moisture as adequate and 13 percent rated it surplus. In the Northern region, 3 percent of the respondents rated soil moisture as short, 88 percent rated it adequate, and 9 percent rated it surplus.

In the Central region, 84 percent rated soil moisture as adequate, and 16 percent rated it surplus. Three percent of our respondents in the Southern region rated soil moisture as short, 84 percent adequate, and 13 percent rated it surplus.

PLOWING: Spring plowing in Pennsylvania was 78 percent completed by week's end, that's 5 percentage points behind last year and 3 percentage points behind the five-year average of 81 percent.

Completion of spring plowing was 66, 79, and 88 percent in the Northern, Central, and Southern regions, respectively.

CORN: Our reporters indicated that the State's corn crop was 36 percent planted by the end of the week. At this time last year, 40 percent was planted. The five-year average was 36 percent planted.

Planting completion by region were Northern region-21 percent; Central region-34 percent; and Southern region-51 percent.

TOBACCO: Ninety-eight percent of Pennsylvania's tobacco beds were planted by the end of the week. Last year, 99 percent of the tobacco beds were planted while the five-year average was 100 percent.

OATS: Oat planting in the Commonwealth was 88 percent complete by week's end. Last year, that figure was 91 percent. The five-year average was 89 percent planted. Planting completion in the three regions were Northern region-77 percent, Central region-93 percent, and Southern region-96 percent. Eighteen percent of our respondents rated the oat crop as excellent, 61 percent rated it good, 19 percent fair, 1 percent poor, and 1 percent rated it very poor.

POTATOES: Fifty-five percent of the State's potato crop was planted according, to our respondents. Last year's progress at this time was 58 percent and the five-year average was 64 percent.

BARLEY AND WHEAT: The State's barley crop progress, by the end of the week, was 38 percent pre-boot, 27 percent boot and 35 percent heading.

Last year's numbers were 48, 24 and 28 percent, respectively, for pre- boot, boot and heading. The five-year average was 52 pre-boot, 24 percent boot, and 24 percent heading. Wheat progress was 64 percent pre-boot, 33 percent boot, and 3 percent headed. Last year's progress was 69, 27, and 4 percent, pre-boot, boot and headed, respectively.

The five-year average was 78, 20, and 2 percent, respectively. The wheat crop was rated 25 percent excellent, 52 percent good, 20 percent fair, 2 percent poor, and 1 percent very poor.

PDPP 'Cheers' Youth With Alternative Drinks

BETH WHITMAN PITZER
Cumberland Co. Correspondent

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Board kicked off its 1991 "Cheers" dairy program May 10 at Central Dauphin's High School Prom.

The prom was held at the Holiday Inn, in Mechanicsburg and was attended by 591 students.

The "Cheers" program promotes non-alcoholic beverages using milk drinks which offer similar names to mixed drinks containing alcohol. In addition to promoting the consumption of milk, the campaign also seeks to help prevent underage drinking and drinking and driving.

The event was spearheaded by Paul Matia, junior class adviser at Central Dauphin High School, and Brian Ross, program manager for PDPP.

"Fuzzy Navels" and "Purple Cows" were two beverages made in quantity for the prom.

Central Dauphin also received other components of the Cheers Party Pack supplied by PDPP. The pack featured free napkins, a banner highlighting the "Cheers" program, table tent cards, and many other recipes using dairy products.

A survey of a dozen students revealed that 11 out of 12 liked the punch "a lot" and thought the program was a good idea.

Sean Grady thought the Fuzzy Navel tasted like ice cream. He said he also supports the concept of the program.

"I'm a firefighter, so I think it's great!" Grady said.

Lori Kunkle also liked the Fuzy Navel and thought it was a good idea to serve the non-alchoholic beverages. Sharia Hitz, junior class president, said she thought the drink was great and tasted like melted ice cream. Sharia plans to go to college after graduation and teach high school English.

This is the second year for the Cheers program. According to Brian Ross, Manager for the program, New York has inquired about it, but at this time Pennsylvania is the only state to offer it.

Some other schools offering the program in Central Pennsylvania include York High, Redland, Carlisle, Newport, Northern York, and many Lancaster-area schools.

The PDPP offers an incentive for schools to host the program. In addition to offering all of the recipes, they reimburse the school up to $35 for the dairy products, when accompanied by a picture of the event and a receipt.

Paul Matia, junior class adviser and coordinator for the prom, said he thought the program was successful.

He said students today are more aware of not drinking and driving and that the majority of students liked the beverages.

Additionally, he praised the entire package. The recipes were "low cost, easy to prepare, and no hassle," he said.

The school is also involved in

Survey Shows ASA Doing OK

ST. LOUIS — Eighty-two percent of state and national soybean leaders gave the American Soybean Association (ASA) an overall rating of "B" or higher, in a recent survey conducted by an independent polling firm.

Three hundred soybean farmer-leaders from across the nation responded to the confidential questionnaire, a response rate of more than 37 percent. The poll was conducted by independent national polling firm Populus, as part of an ongoing program of opinion studies by the ASA. The survey has a reliability factor of plus or minus 4.5 percent.

ASA President Merle N. "Buck" McCann said, "The survey results show that the majority of farmers feel ASA is focusing on the right issues and doing a pretty good job. But the survey also shows some weaknesses that must be dealt with."

The survey findings were as follows:

• About half the leaders (49%) give ASA a "B", for meeting most of their expectations. One-third (33%) give ASA an "A" or higher, while 17% give ASA a "C" or "D". Only 1% give ASA a failing grade. Two of three leaders (66%) say they are "very sure" about the grade they gave ASA.

• Many leaders make very positive comments about ASA's leadership and management (29% comments) and its programs and projects (16%).

• There are, however, a significant number of negative comments. These comments focus primarily on leadership and management issues (17%) as well as political/policy efforts (10%), programs and projects (10%), and state and farmer relations and representation (9%). The percentages exceed 100% because multiple responses were accepted.

• Asked to rate the importance of various ASA programs, leaders give the highest importance ratings to promoting soybean consumption internationally (9.1 on a 10-point scale), funding research to develop new uses (8.8), promoting soybean consumption in the U.S. (8.7), influencing international trade policies in D.C. (8.5), consumer education on uses and benefits of soybeans (8.4), and lobbying in D.C. on federal farm policies affecting soybeans (8.4).

• Asked to rate ASA's effectiveness, leaders gave highest ratings for programs and activities. ASA's highest rating (8 on the 10-point scale) is for promoting soybean consumption internationally. The next highest ratings are for lobbying in D.C. on farm policies (6.8), promoting soybean consumption within the U.S. (6.6), influencing international trade policies (6.4), and funding research to develop new uses (6.4).

• Leaders said, the greatest unmet local need of soybean farmers in their county is controlling costs and increasing yields which, if it were accomplished, would increase profits.

• Three of four leaders (75%) said the implementation of the nationwide soybean checkoff (SPARC) is "very important" to assuring adequate funds for effective soybean promotion and research.

• In response to a question about how national checkoff (SPARC) funds should be spent, farmer-leaders indicated that the largest expenditures should be for the international marketing (28%), followed by domestic marketing (18%), soybean utilization research (17%), market access (13%), soybean production research (10%), industry information (7%), and producer communication (7%).

• As for state SPARC funds, association leaders said that the greatest emphasis should be soybean production research (30%), domestic marketing (20%), soybean utilization research (19%), producer communications (11%), industry information (8%), international marketing (7%), and market access (5%).

• The majority of leaders described ASA as "informative, aggressive, committed, professional, and farmer oriented." At least four of 10 describe ASA as "adaptable, creative, helpful, and innovative." A relatively small number, said ASA is "self-serving, pompous, disorganized, over-extended, inconsistent, rushed, and political."

• In response to a question on ways in which ASA could improve, respondents suggested that ASA keep farmers well informed and show results of programs. In addition, leaders said ASA should show more respect and concern for farmers and state associations, that ASA should expend the membership and leadership opportunities, and that ASA be more responsive to the problems of farmers in all regions.

"Clearly, the survey shows that we have strengths and weaknesses," said McCann. "As ASA president, I am committed to resolving the problems and building on our strengths to renew the sense of teamwork that has made ASA one of the nation's most successful commodity organizations."

Sound GATT Agreement

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The president of the National Farmers Union told European Community Agriculture Commissioner Ray MacSharry recently that negotiators from both sides of the Atlantic should focus on "achievable" objectives for streamlining world trade if they sincerely want an agreement from the current Uruguay Round of trade talks.

"What American farmers want is an end to truly trade-disruptive practices — surplus commodity dumping and direct export subsidies," said NFU President Leland Swenson. "What they fear is that the negotiations will cut their throats economically for the sake of multi-national grain trading giants."

Swenson and Rocky Mountain Farmers Union President John Stencel met with MacSharry in Washington during the commissioner's three-day visit to the United States. The farm leaders laid out a five-point plan for the trade negotiations to MacSharry. The proposal included:

• Eliminating direct export subsidies.

• Strengthening rules regarding dumping of surplus commodities onto the world market.

• Maintaining the right of nations to set production-based domestic farm policies.

• An agreement under which all countries would share in maintaining world food reserve needs, and utilize set-asides to avoid surpluses.

• Harmonization of health and sanitation standards for exported food products.

Swenson told Macsharry that negotiators need to concentrate on the issues of ending commodity dumping and harmonizing health standards or the world will enter a spiral of trade wars and retaliation.

"Those two issues, if left unresolved, have a much greater potential to result in trade wars than what individual countries do with their domestic policies," he said. "It makes a lot more sense from an agricultural and humanitarian standpoint than simply dictating an end to any kind of production-based farm programs."

Swenson's group has been a chief critic of the Bush Administration's trade proposals which seek to ratchet down government support for agriculture globally. "We have to consider not only the economic consequences of that plan for the government, but also the consequences for individual producers, rural communities, the environment and the social implications worldwide," he said.

Dairylea Commends N.Y. Emergency Legislation

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The current financial hardship of New York state dairy farmers will be eased in the coming months, and the future of the state's dairy industry will be secured as the result of the emergency dairy price relief legislation signed by Governor Mario Cuomo on May 2.

According to Clyde Rutherford, president of Dairylea Cooperative Inc. "The dairy farmers of New York are the backbone of the state's agriculture industry, which is the number one industry in state. This legislation provides a much-needed income boost for these milk producers.

"Since last August, New York's 10,500 dairy farmers have seen the price they receive for their milk drop to the price levels of 1978 — down almost 25 percent from only six months ago. Milk producers need and deserve to receive a reasonable price for their milk — a price that is above the cash cost of production and includes a return on investment and risk. That is a justified contention that makes obvious economic and business sense.

"The declining price situation, if left unchecked, would have crippled all dairy producers and ultimately would have caused abnormal erosion of dairy farms. In the long run, that would have been extremely detrimental to the state's overall dairy industry and economy."

Rutherford explained that the bleak dairy economic reality of the past year has resulted in almost $330 million of lost revenue for farmers in the state.

"A ripple effect of this lost revenue is a decrease in the economy of New York state as a whole. When a farmer is losing money on his milk, he does not buy a new car, a new refrigerator, or even new clothes."

According to Rutherford, Dairylea Cooperative and other industry groups had been working continuously with the governor's office, legislative leaders, and the Department of Agriculture and Markets in an effort to find a solution to the declining milk price being paid to farmers.

"I am pleased with how quickly this came about. With budget concerns and other priorities in Albany, it is commendable that the governor and the state legislators were able to come together and resolve this economic, yet very human issue."

The recently passed legislation directs the commissioner of Agriculture and Markets to set a minimum price that will be paid to farmers for their raw milk. To protect consumers from price gouging, the legislation contains a provision which establishes mechanisms for monitoring the retail price of milk by the Department of Agriculture and Markets.

For the sake of regional alignment, Rutherford said that any minimum farm-milk price established by the commissioner for New York producers should be made with recognition of the over-order prices being paid to farmers in other states in the Northeast.

Since the late summer of 1990 decline in milk prices, there has been a number of proposals put before Northeast legislatures and regulatory agencies.

In New Jersey, a public hearing was held on April 22 and 23 to consider establishing a statewide milk pricing order with a Class I over-order price of $1.05 per hundredweight.

The Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has set an add-on of $1.35 per hundredweight for Class I milk above the federal order price. This includes a 30-cent fuel adjustment. A hearing to continue or modify the add-on is scheduled for May 9.

Legislation was passed last month in Vermont creating a state milk commission with the authority to establish minimum producer prices. The bill designates the Commissioner of Agriculture, Food and Markets as chairman of this five-member panel.

Since January 1991, Maine's dairy producers have been receiving emergency cost adjustments through the state's milk commission. Farmers received a 55-cent per hundredweight, over-order price in January, and 57 cents per hundredweight in February and March.

And at the present time, bills related to dairy price stabilization are being developed in the remaining New England states.

"With New York being the largest milk-producing state in the region, the effectiveness of measures in other Northeast states depends on what minimum price New York farmers are receiving," Rutherford said. "And we know that several of these states are awaiting action by New York's Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets."

UP-FRONT VERSATILITY

The Kubota F2400 Front Mount Mower is more versatile up front than you might imagine.

Of course, the front-mounted 60 or 72-inch rotary mower gives your grass a great cut while allowing the operator to see safely ahead.

A dependable 24 HP Kubota diesel engine and 4-wheel drive also guarantee power for an astonishing variety of tasks.

Front-mounted attachments include a Flail Mower. Rotary Sweeper. Even Snow Blade and Snow Blower.

Power steering is standard. Hydrostatic transmission allows directional changes without clutching.

For up-front versatility, drive Kubota F2400 Front Mount Mower.

Command Can Be Used On Tobacco

PHILADELPHIA — Pennsylvania issued a special local need-section 24C label for use of Command, manufactured by FMC Corp., on tobacco.

The label was issued to provide control of hard-to-control weeds such as jimsonweed, venice mallow, velvetleaf, Pennsylvania smartweed, common ragweed, amd prickly side.

Additional weed control is obtained on crabgrass, foxtails, seedling johnsongrass, shattercane, barnyardgrass, as well as partial control of cocklebur, another difficult-to-control weed in some tobacco fields.

There is no problem regarding the phytotoxicity evaluation criteria such as percent phytotoxicity, discoloration, stunting, stand loss, necrosis, chlorosis, or bleaching with a demonstrated 2-3X safety factor.

FMC is pleased to provide the tobacco grower with a tool for controlling these weed species, according to the company.

Morris Takes On 'Meanest Beast'

BUCK (Lancaster Co.) — International world champion bull rider Dennis Morris will take on Wild Bill, the "meanest beast in the east" (half Buffalo, half Brahma bull) for $1,000 cash at the Professional Championship Rodeo on Memorial Day, May 27, at the Buck Motorsports Park on Rt. 272 south of Lancaster.

Sponsored by the Saddle Cinches 4-H Club, the rodeo features 100 to 200 cowboys from across the nation. Local entries within a 25-mile radius of the rodeo are allowed to enter without a pro card. (Entries will be taken over the phone at 717-398-7486 between 6 a.m.-12 p.m. on May 20.)

Sanctioned by the International Rodeo Association, expected total payoff is $10,000 in prize money and entry fees. Livestock is gathered from the four corners of North America—bucking horses from the western states and several discovered locally, in addition to roping calves and horned steers.

Other attractions include a stick horse race for kids 6 and under, a Dessage carriage horse exhibition, bullfighting rodeo clowns, comedy acts, and more.

Tickets are, for adults, $6.50 in advance ($7.50 at the gate); 4-12 years old ($2.50 in advance, $3.30 at gate); and children under 4 are free. Advance tickets are available at the Maplehofe Farm Dairy, Quarryville; Leather Attic, Park City Mall; Deerskin LEather, Intercourse; and Cape Horn Corner, Red Lion.

Gleaning For The Poor And Hungry Begins In Pa.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

But thanks in part to a network now getting organized in central Pennsylvania, food left over from harvest can be "gleaned" (the process of gathering leftover crops from the fields) for donation to the poor and hungry.

"Historically, gleaning provided a source of food for the poor, the unfortunate, and travelers," said Pat Colyott, of the Refuge Farm in Shippensburg, Pa.

Colyott is working to organize the gleaning network, sponsored by the South Central Pennsylvania Food Bank of Harrisburg, the Society of St. Andrew in Virginia, and local church groups concerned about hunger.

Tentatively, said Colyott, there are plans to glean potatoes and apples this year. "They both store well and are very versatile to cook with," she said.

Last year, gleaning was conducted at Peters Orchard in Mt. Holly. On about the second week of October this year, said Colyott, Tallmans Potatoes in Schuylkill County will be the site for gleaning. The potatoes will be picked up and shipped to the Food Bank of Harrisburg.

Agencies such as the Apalachian Christian Ministries and Christian Mission Alliance then provide the food for the poor and needy.

The Food Bank distributes about six million pounds of food a year to 250 agencies that operate 300 charitable feeding programs in 16 Pennsylvania counties. The Food Bank, said Colyott, has agreed to transport the gleaned produce from the field to the Harrisburg location, where it will be stored until picked up by the various agencies.

The Society of St. Andrew has two hunger ministries: "Harvest of Hope," which sponsors weekend

retreats for young people to learn about hunger and to actually glean. The other is the "Potato Project," said Colyott.

"During the first three years of the Potato Project, over 30 million pounds of nutritious but unmarketable potatoes were distributed to the hungry in the United States," she said.

During 1990, more than 810,000 pounds of produce were gleaned and salvaged through Harvest of Hope's gleaning network. About 3,000 gleaners participated in 134 gleaning events in Maryland, Virginia, and North Carolina. Seventy-six agencies and food banks, plus three housing projects in inner-city Washington, D.C. received produce from these gleanings.

According to Colyott, this year's goal is 850,000 pounds of produce.

"Each year, about 60 million tons of grain, fruit and vegetables are wasted — enough food to feed 49 million people a day," said Colyott. "Between 13 and 18 million people die each year from the effects of hunger. Evern here in the United States, people go hungry every day. Tragically, children suffer the most."

For more information, contact Colyott at The Refuge, RD 1 Box 760, Shippensburg, PA 17257, (717) 776-4230 or Harvest of Hope, Society of St. Andrew, P.O. Box 329, State Rt. 615, Big Island, VA 24526. (804) 299-5956.

PDA Earmarks Funds For Agricultural Research

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has earmarked $2.5 million in state funding for 70 research projects during the 1991-92 fiscal year.

Agriculture Secretary Boyd E. Wolff said the projects will be funded if the General Assembly approves the department's proposed budget.

The projects include 27 new projects approved by the Agricultural Research Committee, 14 projects selected by the Animal Health Commission, and 29 studies continued from previous years. The studies will be conducted by researchers at the Pennsylvania State University, the University of Pennsylvania, Delaware Valley College and Rodale Institute.

"Research is crucial to agriculture, and our commitment to it will help farmers meet tomorrow's challenges to Pennsylvania's leading industry," Wolff said. "Our universities have helped farmers protect consumers, animals, investments and the environment while increasing production."

The new projects and their funding for the 1991-92 fiscal year are:

• PENN STATE — Attitudinal change as a consequence of food policy education at the rural/urban interface, $36,346; animal welfare research and education programs, $42,168; expert system to evaluate and interpret farm and laboratory mastitis data, $39,021.

Also, the impact of various menthol treatments on bee longevity and tracheal mite infestations, and the development of geographically-based treatment recommendations in Pennsylvania, $34,098; development of IPM procedures for fruit and field and forage crop consultants, $34,977; reducing chemicals in apple production through the use of disease resistant cultivars, $29,454.

Also, alternative management/facility systems for veal and dairy/beef — health, welfare, behavior, performance and carcass traits, $44,993; The distribution of fumosin-producing strains of fusarium moniliforme and other fusarium species in harvested corn in Pennsylvania, $25,146.

Also, rational approach to predicting egg shell damage under rapid cooling, $31,750; establishment of a field plot research center for the study of alternative strategies in vegetable crop production, $47,041; nematode suppressive crops for orchard and vineyard renovation, $12,143; the potential of recycling slaughter house plant wastes as animal feeds, $25,162; development and evaluation of virus-indexed mushrooms, $33,365; the effect of environmental and processing procedures on the consumer acceptability of Tilapia from an aquaculture closed system, $45,999.

Also, multiple crop systems and crop rotation practices for integrated management of the Colorado Potato Beetle, early blight and weeds in Pennsylvania potato production, $35,031; farm and nonfarm interdependences at the rural/urban interface, $53,278; evaluation of the role of cultural practices in control of western corn rootworm, $38,138; improved vegetable transplant quality and establishment: the foundation of successful production in Pennsylvania, $47,313; evaluating presidedress nitrate test and other soil nitrogen availability tests over a range of soil and management conditions, $34,989; control strategies for the noxious weed mile-a-minute, $19,328.

• DELAWARE VALLEY COLLEGE — Designs for on-farm pesticide storage, mixing and loading station, $77,400; evaluation for dayneytral strawberry production practices for optimum yield and economic potential in Pennsylvania, $7,600; spray irrigation of urban wastewater to increase farm income, $22,500; measurement of prelambing udder secretion as a potential tool to aid in determining the time of lambing, $7,500.

• RODALE — Interdisciplinary multiple crop approach to IPM in Pennsylvania, $45,855.

• UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA — Pharmacokinetics of extra-label drugs in food animals, $69,415; withdrawal time for extra-label use of gentamicin in dairy cattle, $83,480.

On going projects approved for continued funding are:

• PENN STATE — A research program to increase profitability by reducing post harvest loss of fruit and vegetables, $198,526; selenium effects on the arachidonic acid cascade in the pathogenesis of E. coli mastitis in dairy cows, $19,417; improvement in quality of Pennsylvania wines, $41,508; tomato spotted wilt virus in field and greenhouse crops, $35,607; maize response to drought as influenced by timing of events and corn genotypes, $35,000; characterizing resistance in potatoes to early blight disease, $16,552.

Also, alteration of plant leaf surfaces to enhance biological control of leaf disease, $30,478; Christmas tree IPM, $30,772; an IPM model for reducing unnecessary insecticide applications for Colorado potato beetle control, $35,077; water quality and pesticide management systems for intensive agricultural production, $37,382; leaching and runoff assessment of surface incorporated pesticides in different tillage systems, $33,705.

Also, prospective uses of spent mushroom compost in Pennsylvania industries, $35,000; effect of ventilation rates in cold respiratory health and growth performance in hogs, $13,132; geographical ecology and host associations of Lyme disease vectors, $41,616; a survey of IPM management practice adoption in Pennsylvania, $34,790; Pennsylvania horse industry profile: a link between Pennsylvania's rural and urban areas, $46,107; greenhouse IPM, $49,822; recycling agricultural wastes as components of meat animal diets, $19,601; turfgrass IPM, $32,373.

Also, farm labor availability and constraints in Pennsylvania, $14,801; development of a scouting and evaluation strategy for biological control agents in greenhouse IPM, $8,880; an IPM program for reducing insecticides usage by incorporating biological control agents in management of tufted apple bud moths, $26,431; the effects of washing and rapid chilling in the incidence and control of salmonella in shell eggs, $36,166.

Heifer Management Enhancements

ROBERT ORMSBY
Director of Member Education

The Pa. DHIA Heifer Management Option is designed to help members manage their heifer herds, improve identification of heifers and subsequently — for cows entering milking herds — increase the efficiency of progeny test programs conducted by AI units and other breeder groups.

At present approximately one in six Pennsylvania heifers enter DHI milking herds with the sire unknown, and one in eight have unknown dams, slowing genetic progress.

Improved heifer herd management should put money in the pockets of DHI members through heifers that enter the milking herd at a younger age. Fully two-thirds of the heifers entering DHI milking herds are 25 months or older. The extra milk an older heifer produces during her first lactation will not offset the additional costs of a later freshening animal.

A heifer with a high genetic potential produces more offspring and has a headstart on her lifetime production when grown and managed to freshen the first time at 22 to 24 months of age.

A few minor enchancements have been made to the Heifer Management forms. These changes improve the understanding of the instructions and make them easier to use.

The remarks codes used are listed on the auxiliary sheet now for use by dairymen and others who are entering data on the sheets.

Two major enhancements introduced recently are the ability to choose a sort order for heifers on the reports and a code generating a registry application for any heifer you indicate, whether young or old.

When the heifer management option was started, the heifers were sorted by control numbers. For the most part, the control numbers are in age order because the numbers are assigned as the calves are recorded on the cow barn sheet. Purchased heifers added to the heifer herd are assigned the next available control number causing them to be out of age order.

The dairyman usually will not use the control number to identify a heifer. He will use either a name or number.

He now has the additional option of sorting them by name, eartag, visible ID, or registration number. The choice is made on the management options page in the grid that lists the various reports.

An added plus is that the choice can be made for each report.

Until recently, the applications for registry were generated only for calves reported on the cow barn sheets and they had to have a registered sire and dam.

Due to popular demand, a code has been introduced that requests an application for registry for any heifer on the heifer barn sheet. There may be a reason why you will need an application for a heifer from a cow identified as a grade. The code to use is RA and it goes in the treatment code area on the barn sheet accompanied by the date you are requesting it.

The Pa. DHIA Heifer Management Option does not tell you how to manage your herd. It serves as a resource or tool to better equip you to make your own management decisions. If we can keep track of your heifers' ages, sires, dams and reproductive status, we have accomplished a useful task for you.

When we supply you with applications for registry (pre-printed), PTAs of the heifers, sires, and service sires as well as various summary reports, then Pa. DHIA is accomplishing its goal of providing a service that enhances your opportunities for profitability.

You local DHI representative is ready to assist you with this and answer questions you may have about any of our programs.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

How Does Your Herd Compare?

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — This data is pulled from Pennsylvania DHIA's mainframe computer each week. It is a one-week summary representing approximately one-fourth of the herds on test, as they are tested monthly.

These data are valuable from a business management standpoint and can be used for comparing your operations to the averages from almost 1,400 herds across the state.

PDPP 'Cheers' Youth

Central Dauphin High School is one of about 27 schools in the area that is involved in the competition.

For the competition, school anti-drunk driving programs are judged on three categories — what the youth are doing to promote not drinking and driving; a rap song submitted by the school with the theme "Prom Promise Wrap"; and the number of youth who sign a contract not to abuse legal drugs, or use illegal drugs or alcohol.

At Dauphin Central, 59 percent of the students in the junior and senior class signed the contract.

To win, no youth can be caught violating their pledge. If one student violates the pledge, they are disqualified.

If the school wins the competition, they will receive $3,000 in cash. The school will also receive proceeds for a Johnny Gil concert at $5 a ticket. They'll find out May 28 if they've won the contest.

"Cheers" party packs are available for those interested in having the "Cheers" program for part of a school or adult party.

For more information about the program, contact the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program at 2301 N. Cameron Street, Harrisburg, 17110.

Japanese Examine Pa. Food

PHILADELPHIA — Officials of 50 Pennsylvania food companies showed their products to top buyers from Japanese supermarket chains in Philadelphia following a luncheon reception hosted by Secretary of Agriculture Boyd E. Wolff this week

The 24-member trade delegation is touring the United States on a one-month buying mission for Japanese stores.

Pennsylvania has taken an aggressive role in exporting food products. Annual exports of Pennsylvania agricultural products have risen from $160.7 million in 1985 to more than $270 million according to the latest U.S. Agriculture Department figures.

The Japanese delegation's visit to Phildelphia is cosponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Japanese External Trade Organization, the Phildelphia Industrial Development Corp. and the City of Philadelphia.

The Department of Agriculture's Domestic and International Trade Division has represented Pennsylvania food and hardwood products companies at shows in Australia, Japan, China, France and Germany this fiscal year.

Raw Milk Sales Still Strong

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

KIMBERTON HILLS (Chester Co.) — The sale of raw milk offers a strong and reliable market for those who have carved a niche in the universe of retail food sales, according to those still in the business.

Representatives of the Raw Milk Producers Association said there were hundreds of raw milk dealers in Pennsylvania about 20 years ago.

Today, there are 44 state-permitted retailers of raw milk from dairy cattle, and 17 dealers of raw goat milk in the state.

And while the reasons for the strong attrition from the raw milk business are many, according to some raw milk producers the demand for the product is not one of them.

Raw milk is unpasteurized, unhomoginized milk — virtually straight from the cow.

Some fears surrounding the consumption of raw milk relate to diseases, such as tuberculosis, which can be transmitted to humans who drink raw milk.

According to Sidney Barnard, a Penn State University professor who deals with milk and dairy product quality, the industry leaders, including himself, decided 20 years ago to recommend against the consumption of raw milk, because of the possibility of foodborne illness and diseases.

He said he advises consumers and dairymen not to drink raw milk, but to do their own pasteurization of the milk prior to consuming it.

Pasteurization is the heating of milk in order to sterilize it. It was introduced by Dr. Louis Pasteur and is heralded as a great achievement in preventive medicine.

Homoginization is the fine mixing of milk components into an evenly blended milk emulsion. It enables shelf life to be extended and prevents separation of the milk.

However, there are some consumers and suppliers who maintain that pasteurized and homoginized milk is not as healthy as raw milk, in the long run.

There's no arguement from raw milk dealers that transmittable diseases are prevented through pasteurization — depending on circumstances. And that homoginzation creates a non-separating product.

However, those who use raw milk insist it is easier to digest and more beneficial because the chemical structure of milk's proteins and various components are not altered by heating.

Also, according to Michael Wildfuer, herdsman for a raw-milk producing farm in Chester County, the fat globule size in raw, unhomoginized milk is also easier to digest. He was citing an article published in a periodical to which he subscribes.

Wildfuer said the article contends that fat globules in raw milk are not small enough to pass undigested into the bloodstream.

According to Wildfuer, some research implies that the need for pasteurization may be obsolete for many operations, because of farmer education, cattle disease testing, disease eradication programs, and better dairy sanitation and handling.

Furthermore, he said that pasteurized milk is possibly more a risk because it offers a sterile medium in which a sickness-causing microorganism could colonize without competition.

He said that studies he's read suggest that properly handled raw milk from health, disease-free animals retains a population of non-harmful ogranisms which does not offer other microoganisms an easily invaded habitat.

A number of experts would disagree.

From the road leading into the Camp Hill Village at Kimberton Hills, the dairy barn sits on top of the hill. The smaller building to the right of building is where the milk is bottled and stored and cheese is made. Solar panels on the roof of the barn are a sign of the attempt to make everything run on the farm as efficiently as possible.

Michael Wildfeur is herdsman at Camp Hill Village in Kimberton Hills. He considers all aspects when making a decision about the herd — the needs of the entire community, from the people to the cattle to the land.

These two young Brown Swiss bulls are intended sires for the herd at Camp Hill Village.

Marie Machet, 19, of France, is a Biodynamics student at Kimberton Hills. She said that after a 3-year course, she plans to go to Sweden where a government program provides for those practicing Biodynamics.

The consumer must make up his own mind as to what type of milk he or she will drink, but there are risks associated with raw milk.

Apparently, however, there are consumers for whom the perceived benefits of raw milk outweigh the risks. And this consumer is a consistent and loyal customer, willing to pay a little more and make extra efforts to obtain the product.

The production facilities and the milk must meet state guidelines. Among some of the things the raw milk producer and retailer must consider, the regulations for the safety of the product which apply to pasteurized milk also apply to raw milk sold for human consumption.

There are extra costs with selling raw milk for human consumption, rather than to a processor. Among them are costs for bimonthly (twice a month) laboratory tests, monthly physical inspections of the farm, annual testing for tuberculosis, brucellosis . . . and an annual physical examination of each animal by a licensed veterinarian, among other requirements.

Details of the specific requirements are available through the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

With milk prices down, some dairymen are seeking alternative markets for their milk. The possibility of switching to some sort of production for raw milk might be considered.

The dairy Wildfuer operates is not a typical commercial dairy farm, but it does offer a look at a unique operation that succeeds.

Wildfuer has spent the past eight years as herdsman at Camp Hill Village in Kimberton Hills, Chester County.

Camp Hill Village is a unique community, and not motivated by profit, but by a desire to meet the needs of the community. For the dairy, that means fulfilling the community's dairy and some red meat food requirements and paying some bills.

USDA, EPA To Assist Growers Affected By Chemical Reveisions

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Environmental Protection Agency are working together to assist growers affected by the accelerated process to re-evaluate exisiting agricultural chemicals.

EPA is conducting a major review of older pesticides to make sure they meet current scientific standards. Based on changes to the Federal pesticide law — the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) — pesticide registrants must provide EPA with an up-to-date data base for their chemicals. Registrants must also pay fees to EPA to help support this massive re-registration effort.

The FIFRA re-registration requirement, and the anticipated reduction in number of agricultural chemicals available, will impact producers who rely upon chemicals for which there is a limited market, especially those of "minor crops" such as most fruits, vegetables, flowers and ornamentals.

To help growers and producers, USDA Deputy Secretary jack Parnell and EPA Assistant Administrator Linda Fisher have convened a Minor Use Work Group to improve how information about pesticide cancellations is communicated to growers and other interested people in a timely fashion.

Growers can call 1-800-262-0216 Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for more information on the re-registration of minor-use chemicals. Dialing this number will connect them with personnel operating USDA's National Agriculture Pesticide Impact Assessment Program.

The Minor Use Work Group also is evaluating alternatives for reducing the impact of re-registration requirements.

USDA and EPA are supporting the development of a database to keep current the registration and re-registration information for pesticides on a crop-by-crop basis. They are also taking steps to set up an early notification network to keep growers and any other potential registrants advised of the current status of pesticides important to their crops.

In most instances, chemicals or their uses are being dropped by their registrants for economic, marketing, or other reasons and not because they are known to pose unacceptable risks to human health or the environment.

Under the provisions or re-registration, registrants have the option of deleting pesticide uses by voluntarily withdrawing registration for product uses that are not economically attractive to continue producing. In those cases EPA has the responsibility to cancel the registration or crop use.

Pesticide uses have already been dropped for many fruit and vegetable crops. Many more uses are expected to be dropped in the near future. Efforts are underway to allow for the registration of vital uses and to address the concerns of growers. Some examples include:

- The inter-regional research project, based at Rutgers University, has been able to complete the necessary studies and residue testing to support a number of minor use registrations and will continue with an accelerated effort.
- EPA is working with IR-4 and USDA to develop a schedule for submitting re-registration data, and to improve its system for transferring information to IR-4 on registration status pesticides, data requirements, and deadlines for data submission.
- Some chemicals discontinued by one company have been submitted for re-registration by another.
- Producer groups have become the registrant for some compounds, commonly referred to as third-party registration.

Growers can contact extension specialists, pesticide coordinators in state departments of agriculture and the planned user notification system to obtain early warning about the regulatory status of chemicals that are vital to the production of specific crops.

The key to dealing with the consequences of re-registration is keeping informed of the re-registration process and following the progress of the chemicals in use.

Christmas Tree Field Day

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.)— Christmas tree growers from across the state will assemble in Indiana County on June 1 for the Western Regional Christmas Tree Field Day at the Tree Plantation (near Greenwood Cemetery), Indiana.

Sponsored by the Pa. Christmas Tree Growers and the Indiana County Christmas Tree Growers, the program will feature seminars on insect and disease control; information on spray equipment; shearing demonstrations and field equipment demonstrations.

Speakers for the event include Dr. Don Daum, Dr. Paul Heller, Dr. William Merrill and Ms. Nancy Wenner, researchers and extension personnel from Penn State; J.D. Fleming, a Christmas tree grower from Indiana; and Melissa Nelson, executive secretary of the Pa. Christmas Tree Growers.

The program begins at 9 a.m. Saturday, June 1 and runs through 3:30 p.m. The meeting will qualify for update training for pesticide license recertification. Two core credits and two specific credits will be awarded to those attending the entire session.

For additional information on the seminar write or call: Regional Field Day Meeting, J.D. Fleming, RD 2, Box 201-A, Indiana, PA 15701. 412-463-0570.

The field day is one of three state and regional meetings being sponsored or co-sponsored by the Pa. Christmas Tree Growers Association. The association is a non-profit membership organization representing over 500 Christmas tree growers within the state, and was one of the first Christmas tree groups formed in the United States.

Although the organization carries the local stigma of being a commune, Wildfuer said it is not a "commune." Instead, he called the village an "intentional community."

On 410 acres of land live about 130 people, a mix of resident-members, about 47 mentally-handicapped, life-long residents, and several foreign students of Biodynamics, a course of study that the village is accredited to teach.

One side of the triangular piece of ground is Pughtown Road. On the other is French Creek.

The area is unusual in contrast to the surrounding community.

Visually, the village is scenic. Tucked among several partially wooded farm-estates and within easy drive of recent housing developments Camp Hill Village offers an uncrowded landscape.

It appears timeless and difficult to catagorize — as though it is a mix between an early 1900s farmstead, a large luxury estate, hospital grounds and an avant-garde retreat.

The functional goal of organization makes the community independent and autonomous.

Wildfuer described the community as "a living organism."

There are large pastures with split-rail fences, large trees and thick-growth fence rows. One lane roads wind through the property, over a small stream, past greenhouses, gardens, buildings and the retail store.

In early May, the property was lush with a diversity and abundance of plant life.

There are other unusual things about Camp Hill Village at Kimberton Hills — the cows in the pastures all have horns.

It is because of the philosophy behind the community.

And while the functional aspects of the community are purposeful and apparent, the ideological goal of the community is not as easily revealed.

The community follows the philosophy of Rudolph Steiner, a turn-of-the-century proponent of a community and personal lifestyle in which a balance is sought in all aspects.

With dairying, the balance is sought between the needs of the cattle, the offerings of the land, and the needs of the people.

An offshoot of Steiner's philosophy was the creation of "Biodynamics," which is the study of the energy flows of living things.

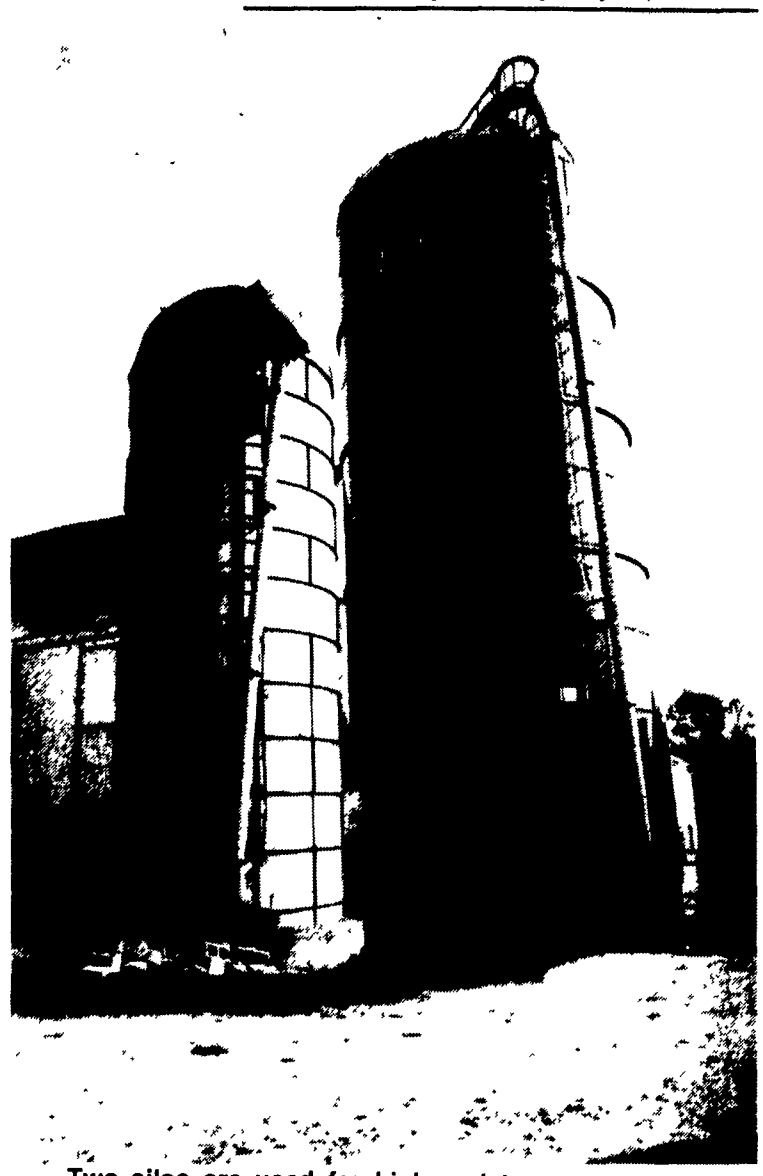
The attempt is to create a balanced and harmonic relationship between people, plants, animals, soil, water, and microorganisms.

Thus, the followers eat and drink "organic" foods, such as raw milk, meat from their own cattle and livestock, etc.

The principals of Biodynamics is the foundation of some of the agricultural practices being promoted today — organic farming, integrated pest management . . .

However, the dairy management practices at Camp Hill Village would probably not work on a commercial farm.

Inside the Kimberton retail store, this young woman student from Germany prepares cheese for sale.



Two silos are used for high moisture corn and corn silage.

At the Kimberton Hills village, Micheal Wildfuer and his wife Sherry run the farming operations.

With the help of resident mentally handicapped people and students of Biodynamics, the community milks 30 dairy cows.

The milk is used for drinking and making cheese. About a third of the milk or cheese produced is consumed by the immediate community.

The rest of the milk and cheese is sold either at the on-village retail store, the nearby Seven Stars retail store, various cooperatives or natural food stores in the Philadelphia region, or to two sister communities within 30 miles of Kimberton Hills.

There are about 7 villages in North America and about 70 worldwide.

A study of the dairy practices at Camp Hill Village is important to Allis Gleaner Acquires Hesston Corp.

NORCROSS, Ga. — Allis Gleaner Company, the holder of Deutz-Allis Corporation, a U.S. farm equipment manufacturer and marketer, announced this week that it has completed the purchase of all shares of Hesston Corporation, a major manufacturer and distributor of hay and forage equipment, from Fiat Geotech S.p.A., according to Robert J. Ratliff, president and CEO, Deutz-Allis Corporation.

As previously announced, the acquisition does not include the Woods Division, the distribution of Fiat tractors, or Hesston S.P. of Europe.

Ratliff said that the purchase was for cash. However, he did not disclose the amount of the transaction.

In 1990, Hesston Corporation, excluding the Woods and Fiat products, reported annual sales in excess of $100 million on its major farm products, including round balers, mower conditioners, self-propelled windrowers, square balers, forage harvesters, and other related equipment. The company is an equal partner with J.I. Case in the hay and forage industries (HFI) manufacturing business, and no change is anticipated in this arrangement.

Hesston was founded in 1949 in Hesston, Kan. The company saw dramatic growth with the introduction of many innovative products for the handling of hay and forage crops. Over the years, the company has captured a significant market share for its products through its network of approximately 650 dealers.

In 1977, Hesston was sold to Fiat Geotech S.p.A. Fiat entered into a manufacturing partnership with J.I. Case in 1987 and continued broad distribution of the Hesston product line. In 1990, Fiat announced that it had negotiated the purchase of Ford New Holland and would, therefore, divest its existing U.S.-based hay and forage machinery business, Hesston Corporation.

Deutz-Allis Corporation was purchased from Klockner-Humboldt-Deutz (KHD) of West Germany in June 1990 by a management led buy-out which formed the new holding entity known as Allis Gleaner Company. The company currently distributes a line of tractors featuring Deutz air-cooled engines in a range of 50-130 horsepower and a line of self-propelled rotary combines. Deutz-Allis reported annual sales in excess of $375 million in 1990.

1,200+ Expected At Pork Expo

DES MOINES, Iowa — Some 1,200 international visitors from more than 50 countries are expected to attend World Pork Expo, from May 31 to June 2 here at the Iowa State Fairgrounds.

Termed the "Crossroads of the World," this year's International Pavilion, sponsored by The Upjohn Company, will showcase pork production methods of several countries.

Denmark will be exhibiting in the International Pavilion for the first time. The Danish will be bringing a 40-foot x 45-foot exhibit representing all aspects of pork production in their country to the Expo. The exhibit will include information on that country's breeding systems, feeding equipment, and slaughter facilities.

Mexico and Canada will again be bringing displays depicting swine production in their countries.

"These exhibits offer U.S. pork producers an opportunity to visit with producers from other countries and learn about pork production practices throughout the world," said Gary Slater, World Pork Expo manager.

As an added feature for international visitors this year, tours of Des Moines area swine production operations, two international artificial insemination collection centers, and Iowa State University's Meat Export Research Center will be held on Thursday, May 30, the day before Expo begins.

World Pork Expo is produced by the National Pork Producers Council in cooperation with the National Pork Board.

the commercial dairyman seeking different markets, however, because such practices could possibly serve as a foundation for regulations concerning organic farming.

Currently, under a recently introduced AG 2000 legislative package, a committee would be formed which would create regulations to clarify "organic" food products and "organic farming."

It can be expected that criteria similar to that practiced at Camp Hill Village would be among those eventually considered by committee members seeking to define and regulate the authenticity of "organic" foods.

There is little at Camp Hill Village, which could be construed as non-organic.

Wildfuer uses no de-worming medicines on his cattle, opting instead to rotate pastures and keep cattle density very low.

Also, except for mandatory vaccinations, and emergency medical treatment, he said he prefers to treat his cattle homeopathically.

Homeopathy, according to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, is the treatment of a disease through "the administration of minute doses of a remedy that would, in healthy persons, produce symptoms of the disease treated."

Wildfuer said that he works with two veterinarians —homeopathic veterinarian, Dr. Edgar Sheaffer at Clark Vetrinary Clinic, in Lebanon; and a local veterinarian who uses mainstream practices, but allows Wildfuer the lattitude to decide which treatment will be used.

The reason the community drinks raw milk is because of the practice of homeopathy on themselves.

In caring for the cattle, since the operation has many acres of pasture and some cropland, the cattle spend more than 18 hours a day, almost every day of the year feeding in pastures.

The only time they come inside is for milking in the stanchion barn. They get fed hay and grain in the barn.

The herd is on DHIA test and its rolling herd average is relatively low, compared to commercial standards — 11,100 pounds of milk, 4.2 percent butterfat, and a 3.5 percent protein content.

Currently the herd is about half Brown Swiss, some Guernsey, Jersey and Hosltein and a little bit of a mix.

According to Micheal's wife Sherry — who has been at Kimberton Hills for 18 years, joining about five months after the community was started — the first herd was an all-Guernsey showclass herd.

The goal now is to go to an all Brown Swiss herd through breeding and selective culling.

The herd is dual purpose, at the very least, providing dairy products and meat.

Wildfeur said his role as herdsman is to be with the herd as much as possible and observe them constantly. For the most part the breeding is done with live bulls, but the bulls are slaughtered when they start to become dangerous.

Wildfeur also does some things which may seem extraordinary — such as adding small amounts of herbs to the cow's feed.

He said the herbs add trace minerals and flavor to the diet, thereby eliminating the need to purchase supplemental feeds.

There are many things Wildfuer does at Camp Hill Village which would not be acceptable to the commercial dairyman, however, the sale of milk and filling a demand are aspects which other dairymen may wish to share.

Snyder Elected To American Farmland Trust Board

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Pennsylvania dairyman Obie Snider has recently been named to the Board of Directors of the American Farmland Trust.

Founded in 1980, the American Farmland Trust is a national, non-profit, membership organization dedicated to protecting farmland. With seven offices nationwide, including a Pennsylvania Field Office in Pottstown, AFT works to stop the loss of productive farmland and to promote farming practices which lead to a healthy environment. AFT was instrumental in the development of the state's $100 million Farmland Protection Program approved by voters in 1987.

Snider farms, 1,200 acres and has 400 head of registered Holsteins in partnership with his son Bruce at Singing Brook Farms in Imlet. He currently serves on the Bedford County Chamber of Commerce, the Pennsylvania Milk Promotion and Advisory Committee and the Holstein Association Foundation. Graduated from Penn State with a B.S. in Dairy Husbandry, Snider is an active alumnus and has served on the school's Distinguished Alumni Selection Committee, the Intercollegiate Athletics Liaison Board and as chairman of the Board of Trustees. He has received outstanding young farmer awards at the county, state and national levels and has been named Pennsylvania Dairyman of the Year, a Penn State Outstanding Dairy Alumnus and a Penn State Ag Progress Days Honoree.

"Obie Snider is a respected farmer and businessman and will be a valuable asset to the American Farmland Trust," AFT President Ralph Grossi said. "We will greatly benefit from his expertise as we work to expand the conservation opportunities available to farmers in Pennsylvania and across the country."

Plushanski Bull Enters Testing

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — 7H3990 Plushanski STARGO-ET, a young sire bred by Charles Plushanski of Kutztown, has been chosen to enter Select Sires' Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) sire sampling system.

Based on his outstanding pedigree, STARGO has been selected as one of 175 Holstein bulls from throughout the United States to enter the program in 1991. In addition to being sampled through PGA Cooperator herds, this young sire has been selected as a super sampler. With this designation, he is also available to all interested Holstein breeders.

7H3990 STARGO is a Blackstar son from one of Mark's highest CTPI daughters and one of the breed's best protein cow families. The dam is "Mark Fife" who is "Very Good" (87) and making over 40,000 pounds of milk, 1,800 pounds of fat, and 1,400 pounds of protein. She has a +1715 CTPI.

The "Very Good" (87) Neil grandam has a record of over 35,000 pounds milk, 1,800 pounds of fat, and 1,190 pounds of protein.

Select Sires is a family of 12 farmer-owned and controlled artificial insemination cooperatives, serving the largest number of coop members in the United States.

Family Farm Day A 'Pick Your Own' Extravaganza

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Even though many people remember their grandparents' farm, some don't recall how the great-tasting food was grown.

So to help educate and entertain consumers about farm produce, Highland Orchards is planning a special 50th anniversary celebration during Family Farm Day this Sunday, May 19, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"Many Chester County residents have fond membories of visiting Highland Orchards, Inc. in their childhood days," said David Hodge, business manager. "Families came to pick their own fruits and vegetables and walk through the orchard. Throughout the years, Highland Orchards has been a place where families gathered on the weekends. Now, after 50 years, the tradition is still going on."

As part of the celebration, the Family Farm Day welcomes people to visit the 350-acre orchard and vegetable farm, located on Thorndale-Marshallton Road south of Rt. 30 near Thorndale. The day will provide displays of farm equipment, pedal tractor pulls, face painting, and plenty of food and treats for people of all ages.

Walking tour

At the celebration, visitors can pick their own rhubarb and take a walking tour of the acres devoted to apples, peaches, cherries, and other tree fruit, in addition to strawberries. According to Hodge, "strawberries will be coming in soon. We already picked our first handful." After Memorial Day weekend, however, more strawberries for those wanting to pick their own will be available.

Hodge said that Highland Orchards was one of the originators of the pick-your-own, in the late 1960s. But the farm was devoted to fruit and vegetable production long before that.

In 1941, John and Rachel Webster purchased the original farmstaed known today as Highland Orchards, Inc. At the time, the farm consisted of about 200 acres and primarily grew apples. Now, 350 acres contain many tree fruit and other fruits, including blueberries, apricots, grapes, pears, raspberries, and more.

After graduating from Penn State in 1957, Robert Hodge, married to Webster's daughter Elizabeth, "set up a peach basket and board underneath the tree," said David Hodge. In 1958, the roadstand was built. In 1960, a cold storage facility was constructed behind the building and the store was opened. In 1965, the store tripled in size. The business expanded, and the owners started up an equipment rental business. Soon after, "pick-your-own" began, and Highland Orchards was farming close to 500 acres.

Open year-round

In 1987, Robert Hodge retired, and the acres devoted to produce was reduced. But the store is open year-round, and holds an Apple Extravaganza the beginning of fall. They have also scheduled a summer festival for August.

"The orchard business pays its way sometimes," said Hodge. "We've come through two real frustrating years." Hodge spoke about the really warm early part of the season last year and the late frost that destroyed most of the fruit crop. "We spent all year growing these nice trees with no fruit on them. And it was really frustrating. We can't stop maintaining things — you can't just cut off your expenses."

In 1988, the drought was so severe that the orchard used five irrigation ponds "and we drained them all, and it still wasn't enough to cover the crop."

But this year, growing conditions have been ideal, according to Hodge. "We're extremely optimistic. Things are going to come on early, which is great. That's one of the reasons we got into the strawberry business — it's a tough thing to be pruning apples all winter long."

Antonio Ortiz, a Highland Orchards worker, thins 6-year-old apricot trees. The amount of fruit per stem is reduced to one every 6 to 9 inches to increase fruit size.

An old peach field was converted recently to about four acres of strawberries, according to David Hodge, right, who helps Stuart Constable reduce the buds.

Our hallmark

Hodge emphasizes the "pick-your-own" philosophy of the store. "Things that you would just never think people would pick, we offer for pick-your-own.

"That's been our hallmark, the thing we promoted, and what people know us for."

The company is trying to stay attuned to what customers want, said Hodge. But they've resisted, for quite some time, the practice of "entertainment farming," where people want certain side attractions in addition to picking crops.

These attractions include animal cages, activity sets, balloons, picture-taking stops, and other carnival-type activities.

Serious growers

"We're serious growers," he said. "And we want people to see what happens in serious growing. We want people to come out here and say, hey, wow, today we can pick peppers, eggplant, red raspberries, blueberries. . . ."

Because so many people do not understand how food is produced, the family day will provide some truth to counter the misconceptions about farming by the public.

Hodge spoke about the Alar scare of a few years ago and how Highland Orchards responded.

"We got a lot of calls. People said, 'Do you use Alar?' No, we don't. 'Great' (they said.) 'I wanted another place because I don't want to buy it from a supermarket where they sprayed Alar.'" said Hodge. "But it's not the supermarket that sprays the Alar."

The farm uses an integrated pest management program for the past 10 years, and carefully monitors how the crops are managed.

Strawberry planter demonstrations, a self-guided walking tour for families, and equipment demonstrations will also show how orchards work at the Family Farm Day, according to Hodge.

"We want people to know that this is how it grows, this is where it grows, this is what the plant looks like, it's not grown in a supermarket," he said.

Food Irradiation Under Scrutiny By Researchers

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

WYNDMOOR (Montgomery Co.) — In May last year, the USDA asked the FDA to approve an innovative way to rid poultry products of harmful pathogens, including Salmonella and campylobacter.

Now, it's up to the work being done at the Agriculture Research Service's Food Safety Research unit, located here, that'll point the way for use of a technique called food irradiation — exposing poultry products to doses of radiation lethal to harmful bacteria — by poultry packagers.

Irradiation is a method that uses gamma or X-rays to kill harmful bacteria or microbes that may contaminate chicken products. Researchers at the center are looking at various factors, including type of radiation source, the amount of the dose, the method of exposure, and temperature on both vitamins and harmful microorganisms.

The results of the work at the center have appeared recently in "Poultry Science" magazine. The research is being conducted by Dr. Donald W. Thayer, microbiologist at the center, lead scientist for the project. Investigators include chemists J. B. Fox, Leon Lakritz, and W. Obermeyer.

Effects of irradiation

In one study, the researchers looked at the effects of irradiation on Salmonella typhimurium on sterile, mechanically deboned chicken meat. The researchers studied various temperatures, from -20 Celsius (-4 Fahrenheit) to +20 Celsius (68 Fahrenheit) and various doses of radiation (0 to 3.6 kiloGrays, or kGys — units of absorbed radiation energy, according to ARS).

In a second study, chicken legs containing "competing bacteria," were studied. Most of the results were the same — the lower degree temperatures, the less effect the dose.

In fact, the best "bacteria kill," according to Thayer, occurred at higher temperatures. Relatively small increases in temperature resulted in much greater killing of the salmonellae on the meat.

(The researchers are careful to point out that food receiving the dose of radiation is equivalent to baggage being X-rayed at an airport or a patient receiving a dental X-ray. There is no residual radiation. The food does not "glow in the dark" and is perfectly safe to eat.)

Effects on vitamins

The ARS researchers are also looking at the effects radiation has on vitamins in the meat.

"For some reason which we do not yet understand, vitamin B-1 in pork meat is much more sensitive to irradiation than is this vitamin in poultry meat," said Thayer. "We are studying the effects that irradiation has on vitamins, such as B-1 and E under various conditions and doses."

Soon, the work being done by the researchers will determine how vitamins are altered by the process, and it is hoped that such knowledge will allow methods to be devised to protect the vitamins in products such as pork, said Thayer.

For now, the research has focused on controlling Salmonella typhimurium, one of many different types of Salmonella that may contaminate poultry. The industry continues to view Salmonella as a threat that must be controlled — and one of the ways to do so is by irradiation.

Proper cooking

"Food packagers should keep in mind that the irradiation process does not make the food sterile," said Thayer. "Proper food handling techniques are still necessary.

"The important thing is that irradiation will provide a safer product, even if the treated product is held at proper storage temperatures before cooking," said Thayer. "There is a higher degree of safety because those cells that survive irradiation treatment remain much more sensitive to heat, an effect that lasts up to 6 weeks."

At the Pack Alimentaire '91, the annual Food and Beverage Packaging Expo and Conference in New Orleans in April this year, Thayer spoke about controlling Salmonella by irradiation.

"Foodborne salmonellosis is not a disease that we can ignore nor can we say that poultry and poultry products do not play a role in the transmission of the disease," he said. "Food irradiation cannot in any way substiute for proper food sanitation both by the processor and by the housewife and for proper cooking and refrigerated storage of the product. In fact, as we know, proper cooking of poultry and poultry products will kill any Salmonella that may be present on them."

Eggs irradiated

While broilers are under scrutiny for the effects of irradition, eggs could potentially be irradiated. But irradiation of shell eggs has not been considred desireable, since most such studies have indicated thinning of the albumin and weakening of the yolk membrane, said Thayer. "Several studies have, however, demonstrated that the number of viable Salmonella can be reduced dramatically in liquid whole egg," said Thayer at the conference.

The radiation source is cesium-137 (135,000 Ci) which produced a dose rate of .12 kGy per minute. (Cobalt-60, or even X-rays generated by electron beams, can be used instead). While that sounds technical, the process is easy to understand — by immersing a slab of poultry into a chamber (3-gallon capacity) surrounded by cesium rods, the poultry is exposed to sufficient radiation to kill most bacteria, pests, insects, and other pathogens.

ARS indicated that the maximum dosage approved by the FDA is 3.0 kGy and the minimum 1.5

(Turn to Page A39)

Dr. Thayer indicates the holding container for food before it is lowered into the irradiation chamber. Photo by Andy Andrews.

Leon Lakritz, research chemist at the ARS Food Safety Research Center, shows samples of irradiated chicken. The research center is studying the effects irradiation has on vitamin E, as well as other vitamins, after meat products are irradiated.

Microbiologist Donald Thayer describes the makeup of the fixed Cessium 137 gamma source in use at the ARS Food Safety Research unit in Wyndmoor. Chicken or other food to be irradiated is dropped into a 3-gallon capacity bin, where Cessium rods blanket the material with gamma rays.

Chemist Jay B. Fox injects a food sample to be analyzed by liquid chromotography. The process determines whether vitamins may have been lost through irradiation.

Glenn Boyd, microbiologist, studies how many samples of the bacteria E. coli are present in a petri dish. The effects of irradiation on bacteria are under scrutiny at the ARS Food Safety Research Center.

United Dairy Seeks Premium Increase

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — United Dairy Services President Edward D. Anna recently asked the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board to raise the minimum Class I premium above the current $1.35 per hundredweight (cwt).

Mr. Anna was speaking at a hearing held May 9 at Harrisburg in support of the entire rural economy that is currently in a crisis state due to a 30 percent decline in dairy farmer milk income.

Anna said that the $1.35 premium was originally set when farmers were receiving over $13 per cwt, and now with farmers receiving only $11 per cwt a premium higher than $1.35 is warranted and will have no adverse impact on consumers.

Anna also said his retail store survey information indicated consumers in Pennsylvania pay less for the milk than consumers in neighboring states including New York, and that all comsumers are getting more than their money's worth.

United Dairy Services under Mr. Anna provide marketing and management services to farmers in the Progressive Milk Producers Cooperative and others located in Pennsylvania and New York.

In his testimony before the PMMB, Anna said that with 24 percent of the nation's population in the Northeast and only 18 percent of the nation's milk supply, the region has a shortage of milk.

Dairy foods must be imported into this area to meet the consumers' demand for these products.

In the last three to four years, major dairy manufacturing plants have been closed in Allentown, and in the New York communities of Horseheads, Cochocton, and Elbridge. The closings were due in part to the lack of an adequate supply of farm milk at a reasonable price.

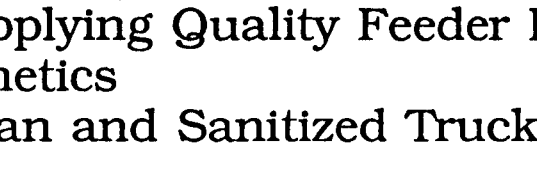
Anna said that he is concerned that the continuation of inadequate income to the Northeast dairy farmers will drive more families off the farms and onto the public dole.

The loss of additional farmers will further shrink the available milk supplies and make it difficult for local manufacturers to keep their plants open to meet the needs of Northeast consumers.

In other testimony by economists from the Springfield Bank for Cooperatives and Penn State and a number of farmers, the cost to produce milk on the farm was shown to be well over $14 per cwt.

With a current income base of just over $11 per cwt, Anna asked the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board to raise its minimum premium above the current $1.35. He said that neighboring states have set about to follow Pennsylvania's lead in trying to meet the needs of the farm economy.

In addition he said that regional bargaining cooperatives should follow suit and try to raise farm income over currect the market price.



Food Irradiation

kGy. "What we are saying is that the 3-kiloGray limitation approved by the FDA should provide ample protection for poultry," said Thayer.

What the research found was that, in the presence of air and near room temperature, more Salmonella bacteria were killed.

Vitamins affected

The next step is looking at how much the vitamins — including B, D, E, thiamine and riboflavin — are affected.

Food irradiation has been approved for limited use in the United States since 1963, when "radurization" of wheat and potatoes was permitted by the FDA, according to the organization. It has been in use more than a decade in other countries, where more than 35 nations now use it.

According to "Food Irradiation: Benefits and Concerns," by Thayer from the "Journal of Food Quality," ionizing irradiation has been proposed for many other types of uses, including:

- Insect disinfestation of grain; dried spices, vegetables, or fruits; and fresh fruits.
- Inhibition of sprouting in tubers and bulbs.
- Alteration of postharvest ripening and senescence of fruits.
- Inactivation of protozoa or helminths in meats and fish.
- Elimination of spoilage microorganiisms from fresh fruits and vegetables.
- Pastueuriziation of sterilization of dried spices and vegetables.
- Extension of shelf life of meats, poultry, fish, or shellfish.
- Elimination of bacterial pathogens from meats, poultry, fish, or shellfish.
- Sterilization of foods and feeds.

According to several sources, when combined with refrigeration, irradiation can extend the shelf life of fresh meats from several days to several weeks.

Irradiation in use

Working with the USDA's Food Safety and Inspection Service, and after the results are in, food irradiation will be in use by packagers. One such packager, Vindicator, in Florida, is experimenting with irradiation using electron beams that X-rays like those in use in dental offices.

The food will have to carry the label — the international irradiation symbol (a flower design).

Soon afterward, many consumers may have a higher degree of confidence that what they are purchasing is a safer product because of irradiation, said Thayer.

"Poultry irradiated under proper conditions will be wholesome, may have an extended shelf life when properly refrigerated, and will have a significantly improved microbiological safety," said Thayer.

JAY IRWIN'S CONTRIBUTIONS TO AVIAN INFLUENZA CONTROL

David C. Kradel, DVM
Dept. of Veterinary Science

This week's "Poultry Pointers" is dedicated to Jay Irwin as he steps down as Lancaster County Extension Director. Those of us in the poultry industry have received much from Jay and to him we owe a great debt of thanks.

One of Jay's many contributions to the industry was his tireless efforts during the 1983-84 campaign to eradicate avian influenza (AI) and to establish the biosecurity programs necessary to prevent reoccurrence of the disease. For this work he received the prestigious USDA Distinguished Service Award. The citation with this award stated, in part, "...for dynamic leadership in development and implementing critical educational programs for poultry producers and consumers during the 1983-84 avian influenza epidemic resulting in control of the disease and revitalization of the poultry industry."

Although that outbreak of AI — in which more than 16 million birds were depopulated — is now history, the industry remains vulnerable to the accelerated introduction of avian influenza. This occurred when the H5N2 strain of AI virus was again introduced in 1985 by dirty hauling crates coming out of the New York live-bird market.

Avian Influenza Still A Risk

More recently, the statewide AI monitoring program detected evidence of another strain of AI virus (H2N2) in birds from an auction market.

This strain of AI virus has also been found in other states. This H2N2 strain of virus, as are some of the other AI virus strains occasionally encountered, is apparently not as disease-producing as was the H5N2 strain. Nonetheless, a characteristic of AI viruses is that they can mutate or change and become more disease-producing if the virus passes from one flock to another through many birds.

It is thus important to keep any AI virus out of flocks and from passing from one flock to another. Good biosecurity procedures are required.

AI Prevention

Some of the biosecurity procedures necessary for keeping AI out of flocks include:

- Dirty crates or equipment should not be brought onto the farm. This procedure is particularly important where crates originate from auctions, poultry dealers, or live-bird markets.
- Birds purchased at sales, auction markets, and from dealers should never be added to a commercial flock. Where birds must be introduced to small flocks they should be kept separate (quarantined) for 3 weeks before placing them with the flock.
- Removal of only part of the flock by a buyer (topping off a flock) and allowing the rest of the flock to remain for one or more weeks is risky. If this procedure must be done, the catchers should have clean clothes, and crates should not be unloaded into the house.
- Keep visitors out of poultry houses. Service people should wear protective clothing.
- Properly dispose of dead birds by incinerating, rendering, or composting. Birds should not be spread on fields.
- Keep wild birds out of houses.
- Any respiratory or production problem with unusual mortality or of an uncertain cause should be investigated by sending birds and/or blood samples to a diagnostic laboratory. Avian influenza can mimic many diseases and may not result in mortality.

We will miss Jay Irwin and his dedication to agriculture and to his faith, family, and community. But let us resolve that by practicing what he taught about biosecurity we will not have another AI crisis.

Association Changes Name

GREENE, N.Y.— The Board of Directors of the Milk Producers Volutary Agricultural Association voted to amend its Articles of Association and Bylaws to change the Association name to Agrimerica.

When asked why this decision was made, Association Administrative Manager Cathryn Buck explains, "This name is a more accurate label for the Association. The Association offers membership benefits to all eligible agribusiness people, not only dairy farmers."

According to Buck, Agrimerica gives the needed flexibility for Association expansion into other states, in addition to its principle states of New York and Pennsylvania.

For more information on these and other Agrimerica programs available, please call (607) 656-7133.

was milk. So they ran to the house and gave the boy milk, called 911 emergency number and the poison control center at Geisinger Medical Center at Danville. Within 20 minutes, the paramedics and the ambulance were at the farm. They confirmed that the Howards had taken the right emergency measures. The boy and his parents were first taken to Evangelical Hospital in Lewisburg, and then Matthew was transferred to Geisinger.

17-month-old Matthew Howard was full of life.

"I remember riding in the ambulance and thinking, 'So this is what people see when they are in here,'" Luke said. "And I thought, 'I don't ever want to be in this situation again.'"

"At the time I thought they may keep Matthew in the hospital for a few days, pump out his stomach and then our lives will get back to normal. We will have us a real good scare that is going to change some things. But at the time, I made plans with Susan for the three of us to go out to eat the next Friday evening. I never imagined six weeks later we would be without a son . . . our only son.

When Matthew entered the hospital, he had severe internal burns, but his injuries from the chemical were not described as fatal. He made good progress at first. But then a virus attacked his lungs and a blood clot developed around the intravenous needle in his right leg. These complications put the little boy's life in danger.

Back on the farm sympathetic neighbors started to help the Howards. "For the first three weeks they kept offering to do whatever needed to be done," Luke said. "But I have a hard time accepting help so I would do the morning milking, work on the farm four or five hours before I went to the hospital to try to keep things organized. It wasn't organized, of course. But I kept telling everyone everything would be OK as soon as we got a handle on Matthew's problem.

But after about three weeks the neighbors saw we were not getting a handle on anything, so they just took things into their own hands and started helping us. They planted oats and brought feed over because I didn't have time to green chop. . . I wish I could explain more about our neighbors," Luke said.

"One day last week, after Matthew died, Susan and I went away for a few days to regroup and relax, and the neighbors came in and emptied the manure pit and spread all the manure on the fields.

from the severe burns to the esophagus," Tenedios said. "The child must then be chronically fed via a tube placed in the stomach as well as be subjected to many surgical procedures to attemp to dilate the damaged esophagus or reconstruct an entirely new esophagus."

In a study done several years ago at the University of Wisconsin Center for Health Sciences, Department of Pediatrics, Dr. Bruce Edmonson found that dairy pipeline cleaners were the single most common causative substance injuring toddlers. Liquid dairy pipeline cleaners were usually ingested in tiny amounts from nonchild-resistant containers or drinking glasses at evening milking time.

A typical victim in the study was one to three years of age, of either sex, with ingestion occurring near suppertime. A milkhouse at evening milking fits a classic description of a high-risk environment: busy parents routinely using caustic products with hungry, tired toddlers nearby.

Several things add to the problem. First, dairymen use pipeline cleaners with caustic alkali at least once a day. This repetitive use provides a constant possibility of danger. Often the process calls for decanting a measured amount from a large container into a smaller measuring cup or glass. After the measured amount is poured into the pipeline, residual left in the glass may be found by the toddler.

In addition, because the soap is liquid, it can easily be mistaken for water by the toddler or even a thirsty adult who stops by the milkhouse on his way in from the hay field. An example of how deceptive these products can be: at least one thirsty adult farmer suffered severe esophageal injury after he mistakenly drank dairy pipeline cleaner from a tumbler in his barn.

Dr. Tenedious believes these injuries are preventable, especially to the children. He bases this belief on the safety modifications of the "household" drain cleaners of the 1970s. At that time an epidemic of severe childhood injuries followed the introduction of liquid lye drain cleaners into the household market. Government regulation, industry reformulation, child-resistant containers and warning labels are credited with reductions in the incidence of childhood ingestations.

But the caustic products used daily on dairy farms escapes certain poision prevention regulations by virtue of their "non-household" status and the injury to farm toddlers continues unabated.

Grieving Young Farm Couple

I don't want to name any one neighbor because there were so many. . .neighbors I didn't even know, who were supporting us," Luke said. "But I can tell you this, it makes us feel like we belong at no other place than right here in Mount Pleasant Mills.

And the people at Saint Pius X in Selingsgrove were supportive. Their priest, Father Joseph Celia, was with them often during the traumatic experience.

"I guess if we were to mention anyone, it would be Father Celia," Luke said. "When we asked him the questions that were unanswerable, 'Why did this happen,' he would not try to give us an answer. He just shared our grief. We appreciate that because any answer he would have given us would not have been good enough anyway.

"We are overwhelmed by the support we have received from strangers, friends, family, church, and hired help. People we didn't know, in churches we didn't even know existed, said they were praying for us. We got cards from as far away as Alaska.

And the people at Geisinger made us feel like we were their only patients. Maybe they do that for all their patients, and if they do, God bless them," Luke said. "But the doctors and nurses kept us informed about Matthew's condition. They cried with us and laughed with us. Staff members from other departments would come over and comfort us. Even the janitors got involved.

"I can tell you this," Luke said, "When Matthew left (died), we did not want to leave Geisinger. These people understood what we went through, and they were our security."

On the day of this interview, Luke and Susan were engaged in active physical labor around the barn, trying unsuccessfully to compensate for the hole in their hearts. In the house, a pile of toys that should have been scattered all over the floor was stacked neatly in one corner of the living room.

"The hardest part is . . . ." Luke paused, and started again. "We spent 18 months being a family, trying to learn how to become good parents, and now we are back to being just a couple again. That's the hardest part."

"We thought quite a bit about it before we called Lancaster Farming. We would be so devastated if people thought we were neglectful parents.

"Our lives would have been easier and more comfortable if Susan would have gone out and gotten a job off the farm. She would have wanted to do that, as I would have wanted her to do that too—except that we wanted to be the best parents we could be. That's one of the reasons why we farm, because we can raise a family in a family environment. It's the main reason Susan never got an off-farm job after Matthew was born. She was a full-time mother, and we didn't need to worry about our son being raised in someone else's care.

"We were protective parents," Luke continued. "Susan was the best mother possible in my opinion. And I tried to be the best father I could be. We always took precautions. Our cabinets have safety latches on them. We put everthing up high that we thought could harm Matthew. I only took Matthew for short rides on the tractor on level ground at slow speeds, and Susan was right there to take him down when I returned.

We were making plans on how to teach Matthew that farm machines are dangerous. We planned to set boundaries for him in the yard and expand his boundaries as he matured.

"But this happened, and now we will not get that chance . . . to see him mature . . . I just didn't know . . .

"If you would have told me eight weeks ago that my soap was sodium hydroxide, I would have said 'So what?'" Luke said. "I know what Clorox is; you don't drink it. And I know the acid you use as milk stone removal, you don't drink. And I know you don't drink soap. But I didn't realize that liquid pipe line cleaner was that dangerous.

"When we were in the emergency room at the hospital, they kept referring to it as lye ingestion. We told them, 'No, you have it wrong; it's sodium hydroxide'.

"They said, 'That's what it is—lye.' We fell off our chairs, because then we realized how bad it was."

"We always had hope to the last. They did everything possible, called other hospitals, but is was just not to be, I suppose. Complications set in because of Matthew's weakened condition, and they ran up against a brick wall and Matthew

"If highly concentratedliquid alkalis must continue to be used on the dairy farm," Tenedious said, "then a "child-proof" measuring cup with a spring-loaded, locking cap might restrict child access to the cleaner. In addition, a "metered dose," closed-loop system requiring only infrequent loading of alkali cleaners could be designed into the sophisticated, automated milk-pumping and storing systems currently manufactured."

"I strongly believe a child playing on the farm should receive the same legislative protection preventing ingestion of caustic drain cleaners as those children in the more metropolitan home environments." Tenedious said. "These injuries are preventable, through public education and the manufacturers development of product container safety modifications. The significance of this statement was dramatically observed in the safety modification of the "household" drain cleaners of the 1970s. These policy changes significantly reduced the risk and number of childhood accidents from "household" drain cleaners."

POST SCRIPT

Dr. George Tenedios and Luke and Susan Howard became friends through their mutual experience that became a futile effort to save little Matthew Howard's life.

"I must admit I became emotionally involved in the Howard case," said Tenedios. "It became like taking care of my own son. The Howards are such caring people. When I talked to them last night, in spite of their loss, they were inquiring about the other children they met who are still in the children's clinic."

And Luke and Susan Howard call Dr. Tenedios "one of a kind, a very compassionate man who has a lot of farmer in his blood." And they laughed at his ability to make them feel comfortable.

"This man," Luke said, "has enough degrees to fill a wall in the state capitol. But he has an 8N Ford tractor on his 40 acre farm that he calls his psychiatrist, reads Lancaster Farming every Saturday afternoon like we do, and tells unsuspecting people that he works in the janitorial and matintence services at Geisinger so they will not be intiminated."

Dr. George Tenedios attended Matthew's funeral. Luke and Susan Howard have consented to be part of a planned medical news conference at Geisinger to help publicize the dangers of Sodium Hydroxide in the dairy farm environment.

AGRIPRO SOYBEANS

Maple Lawn Farm Tops April DHIA

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Maple Lawn Farm, owned by C. E. Iager and son, of Fulton, Md., had the herd with the highest average milk production for the month of April in two counties, according to figures just released by the Carroll-Baltimore Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

DHIA is a milk testing and record system used by the modern dairymen to help him to manage his business more efficiently. These records are also used in improving sires for artificial breeding and are used in research conducted by the USDA and the University of Maryland.

During April, 102 dairymen in Carroll-Baltimore counties participated in this program.

The top ten herds based on their herd averages over the past year are:

- Maple Lawn Farm, 155 cows, 21,195 pounds milk, 791 pounds of fat.
- Windsor Manor Farm, owned by Donna and Jason Myers, 51 cows, 21,263 pounds of milk, and 780 pounds of fat.
- Garstlyn Holsteins, 61 cows, 20,790 pounds of milk, 765 pounds of fat.
- Lindsey & Steve Wilson, 111 cows, 20,189 pounds of milk, 764 pounds of fat.
- Unicorn Associates, owned by Tom Powel and Cam Davis, 127 cows, 20,936 pounds of milk, 757 pounds of fat.
- Ray and Mike Haines, 53 cows, 21,352 pounds of milk, 757 fat.
- Steve E. Ruby, 69 cows, 20,169 pounds milk, 756 pounds of fat.
- Richard Flickinger, 65 cows, 19,567 pounds of milk, 744 pounds fat.
- Rick Foster, 57 cows, 21,361 pounds of milk, 739 pounds of fat.
- Chislon Farm, 77 cows, 19,778 pounds of milk, 736 pounds of fat.

Dairylea President Clyde Rutherford, right, commends New York Gov. Mario Cuomo because Cuomo signed into law legislation that enables the New York commissioner of agriculture and markets with emergency authority to set a statewide over-order price whenever a Rogers-Allen petition is filed. In this instance, because of the pending Rogers-Allen petition filed by the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA), the legislation specifically required the commissioner to set the price within five days of the signing of the bill. In accordance with the law, Commissioner Richard McGuire established a minimum price for Class I milk at $13.85 per hundredweight and $10.30 per hundredweight for Class II and Class III milk.

Christmas Tree Growers Are Environmentalists

HALIFAX (Dauphin Co.) — Christmas tree growers offer one of the best of both worlds, environmentally and visually. They maintain hundreds of acres of young healthy oxygen-producing trees that also provide esthetic value in many ways.

However, some misguided attempts to save trees have caused some people to not use cut live trees for Christmas and instead use artificial trees.

Every spring Christmas tree growers plant two to three trees for every one tree harvested the year before.

Pennsylvania tree growers are planting an estimated 5 million evergreen trees this year. The seedlings planted this spring will be the Christmas trees for people celebrating Christmas in 2001.

According to a promotional statement recently released by the non-profit Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers Association (PCTGA), "Christmas tree growers do their part caring for our environment.

"As these trees grow they stop soil erosion, provide home for animals and clean the air. Nationwide, Christmas tree growers provide enough oxygen for 13 million people. Young trees produce more oxygen than large mature tree."

A brochure produced by the PCTGA outlines the benefits of using living trees instead of artificial trees for holiday decoration. "Enjoy a real Christmas tree and help save out world!" is printed across the front of the brochure.

According to the statement distributed with the brochure, "Tree farmers are constantly being contacted by developers for rights to their farms. Few are sold, as most Christmas tree growers believe in keeping their farms green and producing the best quality trees possible.

"Next year when you purchase your tree remember the benefits of the two new trees that will be planted in the spring.

"Christmas tree growers are proud of the environmental benefits they produce."

The statement also denounces the use of artificial trees as environmentally unsound and wastefull.

"The fake petrochemical tree made of Mid East oil, and produced in factories, have none of these environmental benefits of the real tree. Enjoy a real tree. We're planting one for you."

For more information on the PCTGA call 1-800-767-2842.

Grieving Young Farm Couple

started to die. We had done everything for him we could as parents. The medical people had done everything they could. But it came to the time when we had to let him go.

"He died in our arms . . . that was April 27.

"Now, we are on a crusade around here," Luke said. "We see hazards in everything. We're paranoid."

"We're not blaming anybody. But two other children have been in Geisinger in recent months for the same reason, both from different brand name products but containing sodium hydroxide. We think the soap labels that contain sodium hydroxide, regardless of whose brand it is, should explain more fully that it is a lye solution—maybe even a label that covers the lid of the container so you would need to read it before you opened it.

"We know some people may become defensive about this because farmers don't like to go to classes to use pesticides. But if we could have saved Matthew, we would have gone to hours of classes, and I want people to understand that . . . ." Luke's voice lowers and fades out.

Already some positive things have happened from this tragedy. A video tape was taken of Matthew in the hospital to be used in TV commercials to promote Geisinger's up-coming telethon fund— raising event. Luke and Susan plan to be volunteers.

In addition, a neighboring farm family who heard about the Howard's experience has put "yuck" stickers on everything around the farm that their children should aviod. Another farmer who had a drip cup for his liquid pipeline cleaner has changed his handling methods.

"This experience has taken a lot of wind out of our sails," Luke said. "We just take it a day at a time. Up to today, it's faith that has seen us through. We trust Matthew's life now is much happier and he will not need to experience the pain we are feeling. That's a comfort to a point, but it still hurts. In my opinion this pain will be with us for the rest of our lives. Hopefully, as time goes by, we will learn how to deal with it a little better."

In Big Valley, Half-Moon Pies And Bean Soup Still Made The Old-Fashioned Way

Gail Strock
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — One of the most interesting things about our world is the diversity — diversity in geography, climate, people, cultures, and food.

Those who travel know the joy of discovering the uniqueness in a given area. But in America, to find the unique flavor, a person needs to go beyond the hamburger, fries, and blue jeans to find maple syrup in Maine, hot peppers in Texas, and Kringle pastries in Wisconsin.

Not only does food vary state to state but also from region to region, and even valley to valley.

Visitors to the Belleville area in Big Valley, Mifflin County, will not find nuggets, fries, and a drink at a drive-through restaurant. What they will find is good old-fashioned cooking — chicken pot pie, homemade bread, bean soup, bread pudding, and half moon pies. Some of these foods, like chicken pot pie, are found throughout central Pa. Others are not, like half moon pies.

Ethel Yoder of Belleville makes half moon pies the old-fashioned way — the way she learned from her mother who learned from her mother. "We used to bake three to four dozen every Saturday morning. The men came in from the barn after they'd thrown their hay down for the weekend and eat the half moon pies, which were still warm. There weren't too many left 'till Monday morning," Mrs. Yoder said.

Mrs. Ethel Yoder's Belleville home has both memories from her childhood and modern conveniences. Though the microwave "takes some getting used to," Mrs. Yoder enjoys being surrounded by memories from home, such as the lunch pail her mother carried to school — a tin bucket with blue and white enamel swirled on the outside.

Great-grandson Chase Kuhns looks on as Mrs. Yoder and her daughter-in-law Wanda display a quilt Mrs. Yoder tied. Wanda and husband J. Loren will be taking the quilt to Germany as a wedding present.

In short, a half moon pie is a circle of pie pastry filled with apple snitz, folded over, then sealed and baked. To make the pie dough, Mrs. Yoder uses lard, flour, and water. She takes a ball of dough the size of a large goose egg, rolls it into a circle, and marks holes in half. This will be the top after folded. At this time, approximately three to four tablespoons of apple snitz is placed on the dough. The top half is folded over and the edges are pressed together to seal. Mrs. Yoder uses her pie wheel around the edges for an even finishy. The pies are baked for 45 minutes at 400 degrees.

Mrs. Yoder's apple snitz consists of cooked dried apples, sugar, and cinnamon. "I don't measure my sugar. I really don't make mine as sweet as some people," she said.

Mrs. Yoder has been drying her own apples ever since her son J. Loren bought her a food dryer years ago. This dryer sits on Mrs. Yoder's old cook stove — the one she and her husband "started housekeeping with." The eight trays in the dryer hold about ¾ bushel of apples. "Every morning I get up and fill it. My husband helps to turn the apples (on the tray) and keeps the fire going."

By the next morning, the apples are dry. Mrs. Yoder dried 14 bushels of apples last year.

She said, "My daughter Donna in Juniata County loves the dried apples. Her children take them to school in their lunches."

"I like to cook," Mrs. Yoder states. She went on to explain another favorite food — bean soup. "My mother always soaked the beans, but I use those," she said as she pointed to a 40-ounce can of Great Northern white beans. She heats the beans and a quart of milk, then pours this over bread chunks (about 6 slices). Seasoned with salt and pepper, bean soup was one of her family's favorites.

"When I lived at home, bean soup was always our Saturday dinner. It was always a habit. You'd bake half moon pies every Saturday morning, and eat bean soup for dinner."

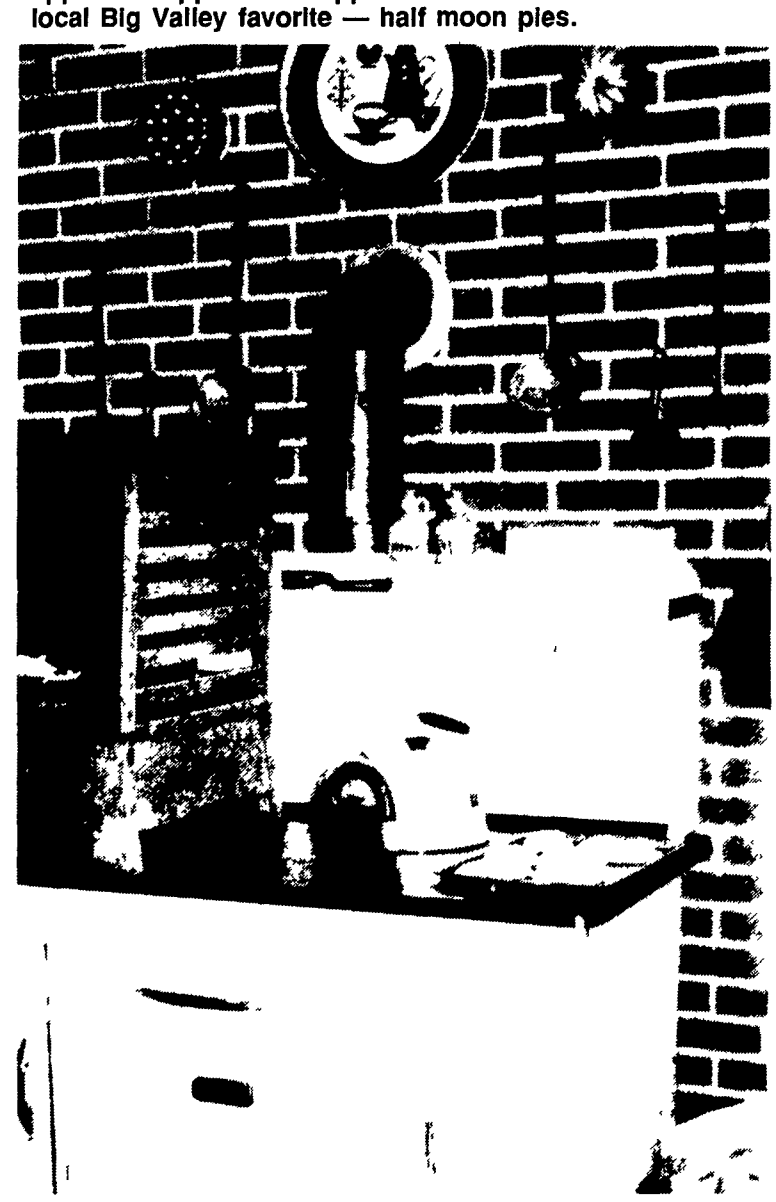
Mrs. Yoder and her husband, Harvey, farmed while raising five children. "It's wonderful for a family," she says of life on a farm. "We really liked it. It was a job, but we really enjoyed it — everything about the farm," she said. "I still like to go through the cow stable."

After she and her husband retired from farming, Mrs. Yoder worked at the Friendship Book Store for 10 years, and then cooked at the Charolais Restaurant in Belleville for eight years.

Mrs. Yoder's hobbies include piecing quilts, braiding rugs, gardening, and canning. While her family was still at home, Mrs. Yoder would can as much as 100 quarts of applesauce, 75-80 quarts of peaches, and 50-60 quarts of beef. "I could get 20 quarts in the big iron kettle that I heated wash water in," she said.

Over coffee and sticky buns, Mrs. Yoder discussed the many changes over the years. "The farmers worked hard long ago, but I don't think they had the stress on themselves. I think that's a lot of our problems nowadays. We have all these conveniences, and if one switch goes wrong, we have problems."

Ethel Yoder of Belleville uses a food dryer to make dried apples for apple snitz. Apple snitz is then used to make a local Big Valley favorite — half moon pies.



Ethel Yoder of Belleville uses a food dryer her son J. Loren bought years ago to dry apples for her half moon pies. The food dryer sits on top of Mrs. Yoder's cook stove — the one she and her husband started housekeeping with after they were married. Last year Mrs. Yoder dried 14 bushels of apples.

As for the microwave, she said, "I'm having a hard time getting used to it. I've cooked for so long one way. But I use it more than I used to."

Maybe Mrs. Yoder's favorite "recipes" could be adapted for the microwave, but for now, she can enjoy her family's favorite foods the way she always has — the good old-fashioned way.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Guilt stacks up around here pretty fast.

In fact, every couple days another layer piles onto the accumulation.

It haunts me each time I by-pass its collection point, stretching tattered arms and legs out to snag my well-being.

But, gosh, I dislike mending.

Let me instead wheel the cart of milkers into the dairy barn for milking chores. Or head out to the field with a disk. Work at the computer. Post the account books. Weed. Clean. Sketch calves for registry. Fix dinner. Wash windows. Well, maybe not windows.

Just about any other job is preferable to mending.

Missing buttons aren't much of a hurdle — except for stealing two minutes from something more interesting or momentarily demanding to take the two minutes to sew one back on. And straight, torn seams are a snap to fix.

Except no one around here ever tears open a simple, straight seam.

No way. We specialize around here in creative ripping. My farmers have honed tearing things into an art. Or maybe a competitive sport — in which they could qualify for an Olympics team.

Things like jagged tears around a shirt button and/or buttonhole which yanks away a whole section of fabric. Tiny scattered holes where welding sparks eat through denim and flannel. Shredded shirttails. Neat, three-corner tears out of shirt sleeve elbows and on the knee-area of jeans.

Something I'll eyeball the latest rip to come in through the front door and ponder how in the world they manage to have not completely obliterated their knees and elbows. (Sometimes the cuts DO go deeper than just fabric; then we break out the peroxide and Band-Aid brigade.)

And, sometimes 'tis just better not to ask how in the world they managed to tear THAT, THERE — because, trust me, you really don't want to know. Eventually the guilt builds to an unbearable level — or they run out of clothes — and common sense and thriftiness demands a date with your long-suffering sewing machine. Yes, it is there somewhere, beneath a three-months accumulation of loose T-shirt bindings, air-conditioned thermal underwear and zipper-less zipper-close-sweatshirts.

In a moment of glorious courage and determination you tackle the top of the guilt-pile, prodded only slightly by your offsspring's accusatory "Mom, where are all my jeans??"

Chopping off a large piece of mending denim from a pair of jeans long ago determined beyond repairs, you neatly pin a patch large enough to cover three-fourths of the front of one leg — and only poke yourself twice while turning the garment inside out to begin stitching. The jeans fabric is still almost new and the color not washed off, so the blood won't show. Much.

A tiny glow of accomplishment begins to warm your conscience as the machine whirrs, the needle zips up and down through the heavy layers and you envision the neatly-finished mending job.

Slowly you work your way down, down, further into the torn jeans leg, pulling aside heavy fabric as the work space narrows. Sometimes, drastic repairs call for desperate measures; and the entire inside seam gets ripped apart for better access to the area to be repaired.

However it's done, just as you round the bottommost part of the patch and are almost ready to begin stitching back toward the top — victory in sight! — your last heavy-duty needle breaks.

Or the bobbin runs out of thread.

Or, on a really challenging mending day, the machine belt tears.

Oh well, it was time to go put something on that bleeding finger, anyway.

And, while you're doing that, you might decide that those windows reeeallyyy need washed .... now.

Festive Event Planned

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — The ninth annual International Food Festival, a flavorful and festive event, happens Saturday, June 8, in downtown Chambersburg.

Attended last year by more than 1,000 people, this year's festival promises to continue the tradition of exceptional international foods and lively entertainment.

The rain date for the festival is June 15.

Clinton County Chooses Four Dairy Promoters

LEMAR (Clinton Co.)— Sabrina Dole was crowned the 1991 Clinton County Dairy Princess at a coronation ceremony held May 3, at the Nittany Grange Hall in Lamar.

Sabrina is the daughter of William and Frances Dole of Lock Haven. Her parents are employed by Paul Dotterer and Sons Farm.

She is a Junior at Lock Haven High School; participates on the track and field and cross country track teams at School. She bowls at the Woolrich Community Center. She also enjoys collecting stuffed animals and clowns, reading, swimming, running, hunting and fishing.

Sabrina served as Clinton County's Dairy Ambassador for the past year, helping with mall promotions and speaking at numerous farm meetings. She received her crown from Robin Rupert, Clinton County's 1989 Dairy Princess.

Sabrina presented a skit portraying a little girl who was having a tea party for her stuffed animals. She told them why we all need dairy products.

She will attend the Dairy Princess Seminar at Lycoming College July 9 through 12. She will also represent the County at the State Dairy Princess Pageant in Harrisburg in September.

Once again this year, Clinton County has two Dairy Maids. They are Angie Beck and Jennifer Dotterer. Both girls have served as Dairy Maids for the past two years.

Angie is the daughter of Ron and Bonnie Beck of R.D.#3, Mill Hall. Angie is 12 years old. She helps her parents take care of their 40 dairy cows. She has two heifers of her own, which she will be showing at the Clinton County Fair this year. She has been a member of the Windy Acres Livestock Club for five years.

Jennifer is the daughter of Joyce and Larry Dotterer of R.D.#3, Mill Hall. Jennifer enjoys helping her father on their dairy farm. She is a member of the Windy Acres 4-H Club and the Horses Unlimited 4-H Club.

Clinton County is proud to have a Dairy Miss this year. She is Amanda Dotterer, the daughter of Joyce and Larry Dotterer. She is 10 years old and a fourth grader at Porter Township Elementary School. She is also a member of the Windy Acres Livestock Club and the Horses Unlimited 4-H Club.

Clinton County Dairy Princess Sabrina Dole will be assisted in dairy promotional duties by Dairy Miss Amanda Dotterer, left, and by Dairy Maids Jennifer Dotterer and Angie Beck.

County organizations interested in having the Dairy Princess take part in their programs are asked to contact Dee Courter, R.R.#3, Mill Hall, at (717) 726-4072, or Elaine Courter, R.R.#3, Mill Hall, at (717) 726-3686.

Double Cheese Burger Days

SYRACUSE, NY — Burgers sizzle and steam as they cook to perfection over glowing coals; melted Swiss and Cheddar cheese melts slowly over the perfect burger. Cook-out season has begun.

The sixth annual Double Cheese Burger Days' promotion will kick-off the grilling season in mid-May using a western theme in supermarkets across the nation.

The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC), the Beef Board and Beef Industry Council (BIC) along with major support from Heinz/Ore-Ida and National Dairy Board will back the cheeseburger promotion with a $23 million dollar advertising campaign. The budget includes $4,600,00 from United Dairy Industry Association, $1,820,000 from BIC, $1,000,000 from ADADC and $15,600,000 from Heinz/Ore-Ida.

Consumers will benefit through money-saving coupons that will appear in a free-standing insert (FSI) on May 12, via Sunday newspapers, reaching approximately 52 million households. The insert will feature a $2 certificate off cheese and beef and $8 in Heinz and Ore-Ida coupons.

According to Michele Martens, Director of Advertising and Promotion for ADADC, Stores that participate in the promotion have the opportunity to increase their sales of cheese by 38 percent.

"It is programs like this that sell cheese," Miss Martens said.

Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

Be looking to hear from you folks right soon.

'Berry' Good Recipes For Strawberries

This week's "berry" warm weather results in plump, delicious strawberries.

Each of us have favorite recipes that have been handed down through our families. Just the thought of those recipes make our mouths water. But why limit our tastes to old favorites when there are so many new ways to make them?

When strawberry season is at its peak, cap off your meals with these tasty desserts from Lancaster Farming readers.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2½ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
¾ cup sugar
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift dry ingredients. Beat eggs, add sugar, milk, and vanilla. Combine egg mixture with dry ingredients. Add melted butter and beat until thoroughly blended. Pour into 2 greased 8-inch cake pans. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Serve with strawberries and whipped cream or strawberries and milk.

Kaye Marie Eby

STRAWBERRY BOSTON CREAM PIE

Cake:
1¼ cups flour
1 cup sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup milk
⅓ cup shortening
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix ingredients and pour in a greased and floured 8-inch square or round pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes.

Pudding:
⅓ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
2 teaspoons vanilla

Cook sugar, cornstarch, salt, and milk until thickened. Add one half mixture to egg yolks. Stir well. Add vanilla after pudding is removed from heat.

Cool cake and pudding. Split cak in half and put the pudding in the center. Cake may be placed in the original baking pan.

Top with:
1 pint strawberries mixed with strawberry glaze

Garnish with whipped cream.

Thompsontown

RICH STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups flour
2 tablespoons sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter, softened
1 egg, beaten
½ cup light cream or milk
Butter, softened

4 cups sweetened, sliced strawberries

Whipped cream or ice cream

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt. Cut in butter until coarse and crumbly. Combine egg and cream with milk; add to flour mixture, stirring just until dough follows fork around bowl. On lightly floured surface, pat or roll dough to ½ -inch thickness. Add more flour if dough is too sticky. Cut with round cookie cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in 450 degree oven for 8 to 10 minutes or until biscuits are done. Split biscuits and spread each half with butter, optional. Spoon berries between halves and over tops. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream.

Linda Beiler
Ronks

Cool off with strawberry shortcake topped with real whipped cream.

FOUR FRUIT COOLER

1½ cups frozen unsweetened strawberries
½ of a 16-ounce package frozen unsweetened peach slices (2 cups)
1 6-ounce can frozen lemonade concentrate ½ cup cold water
2 medium bananas, sliced

Thaw frozen fruit and lemonade concentrate. In a blender, combine all fruits, concentrate and water. Blend until smooth. Pour into pitcher. Stir in 2 cups cold water. Serve immediately over ice or chill in refrigerator. Stir before serving.

Jill Swavely

STRAWBERRY-BANANA SMOOTHIE

In a blender, combine:
1 cup sliced strawberries
½ cup sliced bananas
1 cup orange juice
¼ cup powdered milk

Blend until smooth and creamy. Serves 2. Other fruit may be substituted for the berries. "Fruit Smoothies make a healthful breakfast or a creamy, refreshing snack or dessert.

Betty Biehl
Mertztown

STRAWBERRY GLAZE PIE

1 9-inch pie shell, baked
6 cups fresh strawberries, medium-size
1 cup water
¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
Red food coloring

Wash berries, remove hulls. Crush one cup of the smaller berries and cook with the water for about 2 minutes. Drain well with sieve; reserve juice (discard berries). Add water as needed to make 1¼ cups juice. In saucepan, combine sugar, and cornstarch. Stir in berry juice. Cook and stir over medium heat until thickened and clear. Stir in about 5 drops red food coloring. Spread about ¼ cup glaze mixture on bottom and sides of baked pastry shell. Arrange half of the whole berries in shell. Spoon half of remaining glaze carefully over berries, trying to coat each one. Arrange remaining berries on layer and spoon remaining glaze to coat each berry. Chill 3 to 4 hours. Garnish with whipped cream.

Cook's Question Corner

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send a SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible.

Answers to recipe requests should be sent to the same address.

QUESTION — M. Martin from Mount Joy would like a recipe for white mousse like Bonanza Restaurant serves in a Jell-O ring. If we do not get an answer to this request within the next week, we will drop this request.

QUESTION — Patricia Smith, Gore, Virginia, would like recipes for beef stew that includes a nice, thick, brown gravy, and can be canned; and for red pepper soup, which is thick and cheesy with tiny bits of red pepper. "It's delicious, but not too hot or bite-y," she writes.

QUESTION — Mrs. David Fisher, Lewistown, is looking for ways to obtain sugar products from sugar beets.

QUESTION — Laurie Woodrick of Belle Mead, NJ would like to know if apple fritters fry best in solid shortening or what is best since she thinks oil is too absorbent and heavy.

QUESTION — Tina Forry would like a recipe for salsa to can and for salt dough pies.

QUESTION — Mrs. Jonas Troyer, Wyoming, Del., would like recipes for both lemon filling and peanut butter filling used in doughnuts.

QUESTION — Margaret Shaud, Columbia, would like to know how to make goatmilk candy that tastes like taffy in vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry flavors.

QUESTION — Mary Ann Ebersol of Bird-in-Hand would like to have recipes for peanut butter and mint topping for ice cream.

QUESTION — Verna Achenbach, Lebanon, would like recipes for mountain leeks.

QUESTION — Betty Light, Lebanon, would like to know where she can find dehydrated egg whites and a product that is called egg white substitute.

QUESTION — Debbie Dietrich of Lenhartsville would like recipes for red beet horseradish, horseradish cocktail sauce, horseradish spread, and for plain horseradish.

QUESTION — Donna Reber, 16 Pelican Isle, Fort Lauderdale, FL 33301, would like to know the origin of Pa. Dutch Opera Fudge, where it was first made and for what occasion. She needs a quick answer, please write or call her collect at (305) 764-6939.

QUESTION — Rhonda A. Scanlon of Cherry Hill, N.J., would like a recipe for apple cider donuts.

QUESTION — Linda Beiler of Ronks would like a recipe for homemade energy bars using carob as the topping.

QUESTION — A reader from Greencastle would like a recipe for making boiled apple dumplings, which her mother used to make. She also wants a recipe for Bat Bow Fried Rice.

QUESTION — Marian Mosemann, Lehighton, would like recipes that feed 100 or more people. She would also like recipes for canning in quantity.

QUESTION — An anonymous reader requests a recipe for canning pickled beets. Please include exact amounts of ingredients.

QUESTION — May Ozimek, Fleming, N.J. enjoys making Chicken Gumbo Soup, but the okra becomes very slimy. She has tried using both fresh and frozen okra. What is she doing wrong?

QUESTION — Martha Lyons, Muncy, lost the recipe for pumpkin pie that recently appeared in this column.

QUESTION — Jessica Seifrit, Fivepointville, would like a recipe for banana whoopie pies.

QUESTION — Lucille Groff, Denver, would like recipes to make jam and jelly without sugar. She writes that Smuckers have a jelly called "Simple Fruit" that is sweetened by using concentrated fruit juices. It tastes so good and not so sweet. Does anyone know how to make it or a similar jam or jelly?

QUESTION — Sherri Meily, Mt. Union, would like to know where to find a used candy melter or coating machine or a company that sells them.

ANSWER — Donna Cunningham of Conestoga had requested gluten-free recipes. Thanks to H. June Crawford, R.D.#2, Box 200, Olego, N.Y. 13825 who has many more recipes. If you want them, write to her. She also wrote that gluten-free flour, rice flour, potato flour or soy flour may be purchased from Hansmann's Mills Inc., Box 200, Bainbridge, N.Y. 13733.

Sponge Cake

8 eggs, separated
1½ cups sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup plus 1 tablespoon potato starch or cornstarch
Dash of salt

Beat egg yolks at high speed. Add lemon juice and sugar. Blend a second time at high speed. Gradually, add starch flour and blend a third time at high speed. Beat egg whites until stiff.

Gently fold into egg yolk mixture. Pour into ungreased tube pan and bake at 350 degrees for 70 minutes. Do not open oven before 70 minutes.

Cool thoroughly before removing cake from pan.

No-Flour Peanut Butter Cookies

1 cup peanut butter
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 teaspoon baking soda

Mix all ingredients together. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls on cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Makes about 3 dozen.

Chocolate Chip Cookies

1 cup rice flour
¾ cup potato starch or cornstarch
½ cup margarine
¼ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 package vanilla pudding (gluten free)
2 eggs
12 ounces chocolate chips
1 teaspoon baking soda

Combine margarine, sugar, vanilla, and pudding mix. Beat until smooth. Add egg, beat a second time. Gradually add flour, baking soda, and the chocolate chips. Drop dough by teaspoonful on greased cookie sheet. Bake 6 to 8 minutes at 375 degrees.

Chocolate Cake

4 tablespoons cocoa powder
¼ cup plus 1 tablespoon margarine
1¼ cups sugar
1 cup rice flour
2 tablespoons instant mashed potato flakes
¾ cup milk
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ teaspoon baking powder

Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Bake in round cake pans in 350 degree oven for 40 minutes or until cake tests finished.

ANSWER — Debbie Dietrich of Lenhartsville requested a recipe for mustard horseradish. Thanks to Eva Southard, Glen Rock, for sending her recipe.

Mustard Horseradish

Mix together equal portions of powdered mustard and grated horseradish. Gradually stir in boiling milk to liquify the mixture. Mash and stir with a spoon until the horseradish is well mixed. Put in small jars and use as any other mustard.

ANSWER — Joann Hensley requested Amish salad recipes. Thanks to a Manheim reader for sending in this recipe.

Vegetable Salad

1 20-ounce package mixed vegetables, cooked, drained, cooled
1 cup celery, divided
½ medium onion, diced
1 small green sweet pepper, diced
1 pint dark red Kidney beans, drained

Dressing:

¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
⅓ cup water
⅓ cup vinegar
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
¼ teaspoon salt

Cook sugar, flour, water, vinegar, and salt until thickened. Stir in mustard; cool. Pour dressing over the vegetable mixture. Refrigerate overnight.

'Berry'

STRAWBERRY SWIRL PIE

3½ cups Rice Chex cereal, crushed to 1 cup
¼ cup packed brown sugar
⅓ cup flaked coconut
⅓ cup butter, melted

Filling:

1 pint fresh or frozen strawberries
3 tablespoons sugar
1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened

To prepare crust: preheat oven to 300 degrees. Butter a 9-inch pie plate. Combine Chex crumbs. Brown sugar and coconut. Add melted butter. Mix thoroughly. Press evenly into bottom and sides of pie plate. Bake 10 minutes; cool completely.

To prepare filling: Mash berries. Combine with sugar. Mix into ice cream until thoroughly blended. Turn into crust. Freeze 4 to 5 hours or until firm. Serves 6 to 8.

STRAWBERRY PUDDING DESSERT

1 yellow cake mix
1 6-ounce box vanilla pudding
1 6-ounce box strawberry Jell-O
2½ cups hot water
1 pint strawberries, fresh or frozen
1 container whipped topping

Bake cake and cool. Mix pudding as directed. Mix Jell-O with 2½ cups hot water, after it starts to jell, mix in strawberries. In glass bowl, put ½ of pudding on bottom, 1 layer of cake crumbs, layer of Jell-O, and layer of whipped topping. Repeat layers.

Linda Beiler
Ronks

FREEZING STRAWBERRIES

4 cups sugar
5 pints whole or sliced strawberries
2 cups mashed strawberries
1 package Sure-Jell
¾ cup water

Fill five 1½ pint containers with fresh strawberries (whole or sliced). Add sugar to the 2 cups mashed strawberries. Boil Sure-Jell and water for 1 minute. Remove from heat and add mashed strawberries, stirring well until all sugar is dissolved. Divide into the five containers. Freeze.

Kaye Marie Eby

STRAWBERRY SWIRL

¾ cup graham crackers
3 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sugar
3 eggs, separated
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
10 ounces strawberries

Combine graham crackers, butter, and sugar. Press into a well greased 11x7x1½-inch baking dish. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 minutes. Cool completely.

Beat egg yolks in a bowl at high speed until thick. Add cream cheese, 1 cup sugar, and salt; beat until smooth and light. Beat egg whites until stiff. Fold egg and whipped cream into cream cheese mixture.

Puree berries in a mixer or blender. Gently swirl one-half of the puree through the cheese filling; spread mixture in crust. Spoon remaining puree over top. Swirl with knife.

Freeze: cover and return to freezer. Let set 15 minutes before serving.

Life With Tiffany And Robin On Their Farm

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

ABBOTTSTOWN (Adams Co.) — Seven-year-old Tiffany Holtzinger wears the Little Miss Adams County Dairy Princess crown.

"It's fun being the Little Miss because I get to eat a lot of ice cream and cheese," Tiffany said.

Tiffany said that she hands out cheese to customers at stores. "Some people say they don't like cheese — I can't imagine not liking cheese," Tiffany said with horror.

Tiffany, who is now in first grade, had a big adjustment to school lunches. She can't eat ice cream at every lunch like she had when she ate lunches at home.

"But," Tiffany's older sister, who is 10, explained, "Now, we have it as an after-school snack."

Robin prefers "cookies 'n' cream" and ice cream floats. Tiffany prefers chocolate ice cream.

The sisters live with their parents Larry and Geneva Holtzinger on a 55-acre dairy farm near Abbottstown. While their parents milk 40 Holsteins, the girls help sweep the troughs and feed their 16 rabbits and the calves.

"I like when the calves are girls, 'cause we get to keep them," Tiffany said. "The boy calves and the twin calves, we have to sell."

The sisters' favorite cow is number 59. "She is old and gray — lots of gray hair," Robin said.

Her sister added. "She is 14 years old and she likes to lay around so we can play with her."

The girls' favorite animals on the farm are not cows or rabbits, but cats. When Cookie the cat wants to come in the house, she gives one big leap against the screen door and climbs up the screen.

The girls like to dress Cookie in doll clothing and put her in their doll carriage. Cookie seems to like being treated like a real baby. She closes her eyes and purrs while the girls exclaim over "Cookie's" prettiness.

The girls also enjoy playing with Maria the cat, but Maria refuses to allow the girls to dress her in doll clothes. She doesn't exactly like that they dress Cookie in doll clothes either. She bats her paws at the clothes and tussels with Cookie the cat.

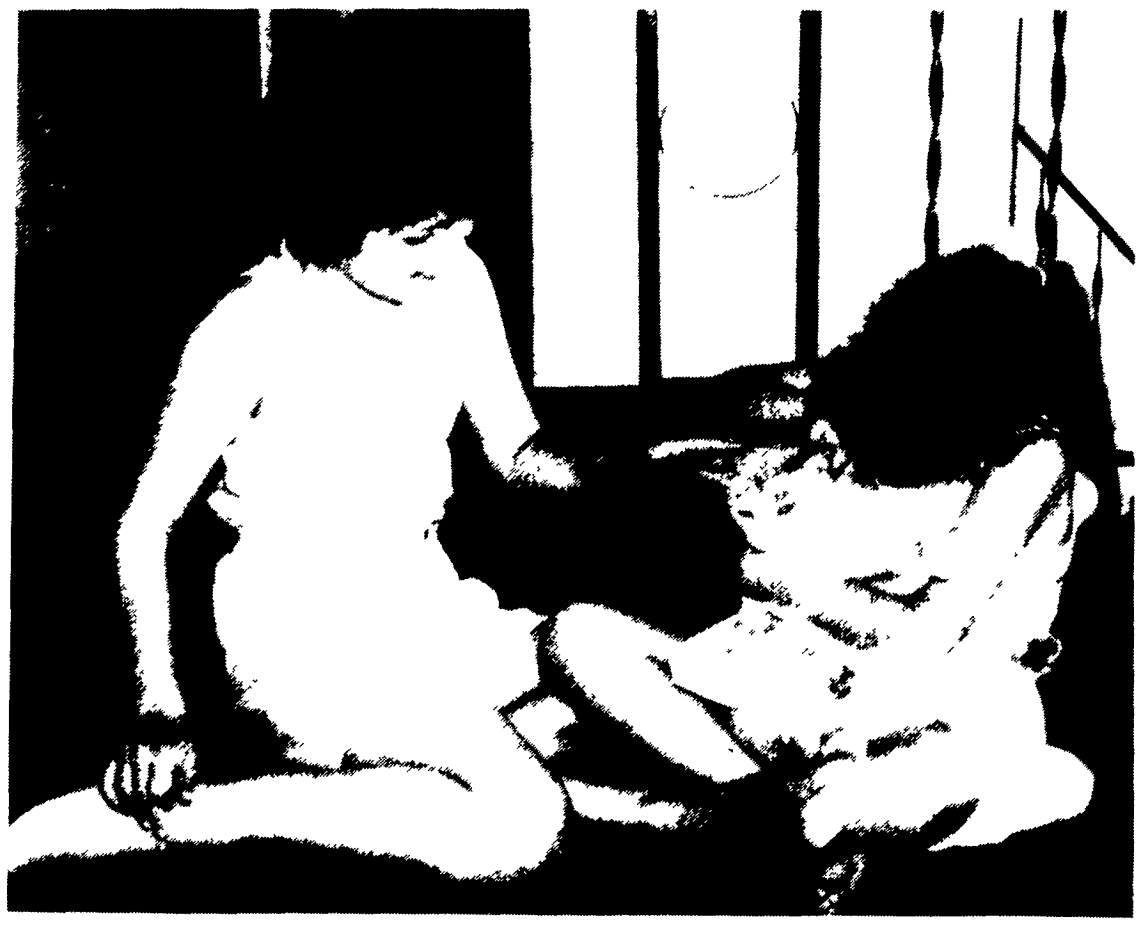
When the weather is warm, the sisters wade in a small creek that meanders through their meadow. Their dog Butch dashes into the creek for a swim while the girls use a fish net to catch minnows. Sometimes two cardinals sit on a nearby branch and watch the girls wading in the water.

Soon the mulberry bush beside the creek will be full of berries. "We like to sit under the tree and eat mulberries," Tiffany said.

Both Tiffany and Robin are straigh "A" students. Robin is bored with school, but she likes 4-H where she joined clubs that teach the following: roller skating, wildlife, tye dyeing, cooking, nature sketches, and friendship bracelet making.

Tiffany likes school so much that she doesn't really want to stop for vacation. Her reign as the Little Miss Dairy Princess will soon end. Last Sunday Tiffany held a tea at her house for six other girls who want to become Little Miss dairy princesses.

They will compete for the title on June 8 at the Biglerville High School auditorium at 8:00 p.m. For more information, call Josie Hess at (717) 334-8553.



Cookie the cat is pampered by Tiffany and Robin who like to dress the cat in doll clothing.

The sisters raise 16 rabbits.

When the temperature reached the 90s on Monday, Tiffany, Robin, and their dog, Butch, cooled off in the creek.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Every spring when I get out the outdoor grill, I think about my microwave oven! Why? Because it makes grilling so much quicker and easier for me. I hope you'll try these recipes and tips to see what I mean.

Precooking ribs or chicken in the microwave means only a short grilling time. It means getting the inside perfectly done without charring the outside. And, it means less flare-up during grilling.

Chicken and ribs are microwaved until done, then grilled for wonderful barbecued taste and appearance. Precook chicken pieces and pork spareribs with liquid, tightly covered until done. Use High power for chicken and Medium power for ribs. All should be arranged and turned over halfway through cooking for even cooking.

A marinade adds extra flavor to barbecued chicken or ribs. Any combination of seasonings, acid, and, often, oil make up a marinade. The seasoning — such as onion, spices and herbs — adds a distinct flavor to grilled chicken or ribs. The acid — such as wine, lemon juice, vinegar, beer or buttermilk — also adds distinct flavor. Oil — especially olive oil — helps seal surfaces to keep food juicy.

I especially like to marinate chicken. I microwave it in the marinade, rather than just water. Then, I bring the marinade to a boil and brush it on the chicken as it grills. Some marinades are good to serve as a sauce. For safety, be sure to boil any marinade about two minutes before serving.

I like to use a microwave-safe cooking bag for no-mess marinating and cooking. The cooking bag also holds in moisture and heat well, so food microwaves evenly and quickly. A cooking bag is the same as the big plastic-type bag often used for roasting turkey. Look for cooking bags in your supermarket near plastic food bags and waxed paper. If you can't find cooking bags, I've included directions for precooking in a tightly covered dish.

Chicken pieces microwave well on High because they're small and can be rearranged halfway through cooking. Medium direct heat works well for grilling. High heat or placing the grid too close to coals cooks the chicken too quickly and ends up charring the outside.

For the fasting cooking, have your grill preheated or coals ready so the chicken or ribs can go directly from microwave to grill. Brush pieces often with a sauce or marinade during grilling to keep them well-flavored and juicy.

Turkey, brats, country-style pork ribs, beef ribs and whole chicken may also be precooked before grilling. Microwave turkey (legs, thighs and wings), beef ribs and country-style ribs in liquid and tightly covered on Medium power until tender and done. Microwave brats in a small amount of liquid on High power. Precook whole or chicken quarters on a meat rack covered with waxed paper or microwave paper on Medium-High power. Rearrange and turn over large pieces during microwaving. Grill according to directions in a reliable grilling cookbook, allowing about half the cooking time.

Micro-Grilled Ribs with Southern Barbecue Sauce

1 medium onion, chopped
2 tablespoons margarine or cooking oil
1 bottle (12 ounces) (1 cup) chili sauce
½ cup cider vinegar
⅓ to ½ cup packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons dark molasses
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon dry mustard
3 to 3½ pounds lean pork spareribs, cut in 2 or 3 rib portions
¾ cup water
½ to 1 teaspoon salt (optional)

To make sauce: Place onions and margarine in microwave 1-quart measure. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave (High) 1½ to 2 minutes or until onion is tender. Stir in chili sauce, vinegar, brown sugar, molasses, Worcestershire sauce and dry mustard. Microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until boiling. Set aside.

Put ribs, water and salt, if used, in a microwavable 3-quart casserole. Cover with tight-fitting lid or plastic wrap. (Or use a cooking bag in casserole; tie bag loosely). Microwave on Medium (50% power, 325-350 watts) 25 to 30 minutes or until ribs are done. Halfway through cooking, turn ribs over and rearrange.

Drain ribs and immediately transfer to hot grill. Cook about 6 inches from coals (or on low setting) about 30 minutes or until brown and done. Turn ribs over and brush generously with Southern Barbecue Sauce several times during cooking. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Each serving — 1/6th of recipe: 490 calories, 26g protein, 30g fat, 31g carbohydrate, 326mg sodium, 103mg cholesterol.

Micro-Grilled Spicy Thai-Style Chicken

2½ to 3 pounds broiler-fryer chicken, cut in serving pieces
½ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
2 teaspoon salt-free lemon pepper
2 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon ground coriander
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1½ to 2 tablespoons lower salt soy sauce or fish sauce.

Skin chicken, if desired, and place in a microwavable cooking bag in a microwavable 12x8 dish. Or, use microwave dish without bag. Stir together remaining ingredients and pour over chicken, turning to coat each piece. Close cooking bag or cover dish with plastic wrap. Refrigerate about 4 hours, turning pieces occasionally so all are well-seasoned.

Prepare grill. Re-tie and vent cooking bag so about ¼ is open. Use the provided plastic tie or a ½ inch strip cut from open end of bag. If using dish alone, vent plastic wrap by turning back about ¼ inch in one corner. Microwave (High) 15 to 18 minutes, turning and rearranging pieces after 7 minutes. (In cooking bag, use pot holders to turn bag over and move pieces around, being careful to keep open end upright.)

Remove chicken and set aside. Pur marinade into a microwavable 1-quart measure, stir in soy sauce and microwave (High) about 2 minutes or until boiling. Place chicken on hot grill. Cook 4 inches from coals (or on medium setting), about 20 minutes or until golden brown and done. Turn chicken over and brush generously with cooked marinade several times during cooking. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

Each serving - 1/5th of recipe, made with skinless chicken: 250 calories, 38g protein, 10g fat, 1g carbohydrate, 127mg sodium, 126 mg cholesterol.

Micro-Grilled Brats

6 large uncooked fresh bratwurst (1¾ to 2 pounds)
2 tablespoons water or beer

Pierce each bratwurst 2 times with sharp knife tip. Place bratwurst and water in microwave-safe 6x10-inch dish; cover with plastic wrap. Microwave (High) 6 to 7½ minutes, rearranging and turning over brats after 3 minutes, until almost done. Drain brats and transfer to hot grill. Cook about 6 inches from coals (or on low setting) 5 to 10 minutes, turning occasionally, until browned. Makes 6 servings.

How To Remove Crayon

Occasionally, a consumer will be faced with the horrible experience of a load of clothes coming out of the washer or dryer laden with red, green, blue or black marks.

This unfortunate situation is the result of a crayon that was overlooked in the pocket of one of the articles. Crayons tend to melt in the dryer and transfer onto almost everything in the load.

One of the most effective methods for removal of such stains is to first hang the garments up and allow them to air dry completely. The use of a dry-cleaning solvent will very often remove the stain, and it may be cost effective to have the entire load of clothes cleaned in a coin-op dry-cleaning machine. Another possible method is to pretreat the stains with one of the popular spray and wash products as they do contain some solvents. However, if the articles are extensively stained; it would be best to have them cleaned in a coin-op and then possibly later rewashed.

Tips For Outdoor Planters

LANSING, MI — When choosing plants for your outdoor container, consider the following:

• Light — Most flowers are sunlovers. If you're decorating a shady spot, try impatiens, begonias, coleus, browallia, fuchsia or torenia. Check plant care tags and buy with your location in mind-or rotate containers to a sunny spot as suggested above.

• Height-Put tall plants in the center of containers viewed from all sides, or the rear of ones viewed from one side only. Use shorter plants in the middle and low or trailing varieties at the edge.

• Distance-One-color-one-variety planters make a dramatic showing even when viewed from afar. Combination plantings of several different varieties make for up-close interest. When planting your container, follow these tips:

• Use a soilless planting medium. Garden soil is too heavy for containers and may carry insects and disease.

• Water before planting. Mix until the soil is uniformly moist and filled to about a half-inch of the pot rim.

• Check watering needs daily. Containers dry faster than garden beds.

• Turn planters for symmetrical growth. Plants "lean" toward the light. Keep the sunny side from outgrowing the shady side by turning pots periodically.

• Fertilize lightly but frequently. Use a water soluble plant food according to label directions. Make sure it is well diluted or it may "burn" your plants.

Time to start casting about for the perfect planter for your non-yard garden spot. Your local garden center has loads of alternatives-those that are decorative on their own and others that are just the right size to fit into that wicker chair without a seat, that brass umbrella stand, that wooden apple crate... You know what it is; plant it!

IFYE Experience Molds Itle's Goals

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

LEWISBERRY (York Co.) — Tom Itle no longer turns first to the sports section when he opens a newspaper. Instead, the 22-year-old York County 4-H alumnus pages to the world news.

He looks with special interest for news from Luxembourg, a tiny duchy in northern Europe where Tom spent six months last year with the International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE). Now, he is on the road with a slide presentation of his cultural exchange, encouraging others to consider international 4-H learning opportunities and raising funds to repay his travel loan.

Although the IFYE program has been in operation since 1948, Tom was one of the first three 4-H'ers to take part from York County. Tanya Barr, Airville, visited Germany and Austria, and Karen Maenner, Jacobus, traveled to Japan, for their IFYE experiences last year.

Tom is the son of Nancy and Charles Itle, 703 Wyndamere Road, Lewisberry. He had made no particular career plans to use his business management degree after graduation last June from Gettysburg College. But his uncle, dairyman Jim Harteis of Cambria County, a former IFYE exchangee to Thailand, had encouraged him to take advantage of the 4-H international cultural opportunity before settling into a job. He got additional support from two aunts who had also been IFYEs.

While there are numerous IFYE participant countries to apply for, Tom opted for one where French, which he had studied in high school and college, was spoken.

"I read a lot of interesting things about Luxembourg, knew it was small, and wooded and hilly. But I really knew very little about it," he recalls. Still, it was his first choice. Within a few brief weeks, Tom graduated from college, took part in his sister's wedding and then left for a 48-hour, non-stop journey by air and rail, via London and Paris, to Luxembourg.

IFYE exchangees do not go abroad to study in a formal school setting or spend their exchange time as workers. Instead, the program is geared to be a "global awareness" cultural experience, where the exchangee lives with guest families and absorbs their lifestyles.

During his June to November stay, Tom was a guest in six different host homes for three-week periods each. Free time between some of the scheduled visits allowed him to see France by Eurail and visit a Swiss family he met while attending a wedding with some of his Luxembourg hosts.

The tiny duchy of Luxembourg, where Tom Itle spent six months as a 4-H IFYE participant, is just a pinpoint on the world map.

An ancient, though small, country, Luxembourg is a constitutional monarchy serving a population of about 370,000 in an area 50 by 35 miles. About a third of that is covered with forest. International banking is a very large part of the country's economy, contributing one-third of the total tax base. Steel production and agriculture are also prominent economic contributors.

Because it was neutral in the world wars, Luxembough was frequently overrun by invading armies, and in 1944 was freed from German occupation by allied forces led by General Patton. Though French and German are the "official" languages, most everyday conversation is a blend known as "Luxembourgeois."

"All the kids study and can speak English and I spoke French with most of the adults, but I never did get the hang of Luxembourgeois," Tom confesses. Still, he managed very well. In fact, he was welcomed almost royally in a country where Americans and things of America are somewhat idolized.

"I was always treated as a guest and given my own room. Each family was different and each visit special in its own way," Tom says. Many of his hosts quickly labeled him with a nickname, and he reciprocated to them. "Greenhorn," he laughs, "was one of them. Another was 'Sweet Boy' because of my fondness for sweets and desserts."

Tom's hosts for the first three-week visit focused on showing him the country, rich in scenic beauty and history, and he spent most of the time traveling. But the fourth day of his stay was his 22nd birthday, a fact noted by his host mother from his application.

"She planned a big birthday celebration, complete with her fine china, 30 guests, and a birthday cake. Everyone sang "Happy Birthday" - in English - since there's no translation for the song," Tom grins.

His second visit was with the first of three dairy farm family hosts, all named Meyers, but none closely related to the others.

"By 8:30 the first morning there, we were out in the hay fields, picking up small, square bales," relates Tom. Smaller and much lighter than the familiar American bales, they could be easily forked into a wagon. Nevertheless, he found himself slightly out of shape for the first few days.

"Evenings were just great," he recalls. The family would gather and relax in the setting sun on a sort of patio behind the very old farmhouse, connected around an inner courtyard to the barn which housed a 40-head milking herd.

His third host family produced wine, cultivating grape vineyards along the Moselle River in eastern Luxembourg. Tom's first visit there was prior to the harvest, but he returned when the grapes were ready for picking.

The father of the family was president of the local wineproducer cooperative, the structure through which most of the production is marketed. While wine is the everyday beverage served with most meals, Tom recalls drinking more milk than anyone else in his host households. In fact, he laughs at one of his most memorable "cultural goofs," asking a dairy farm host if the raw milk was safe to drink.

Luxembourg's per capita income is third highest in the world, with very low personal taxes. And while there are supermarkets, a few malls, even two McDonald's restaurants in the city, the small, private shops of butchers and bakers are still very much a part of daily life.

"They are all great cooks," Tom says of his host mothers. "The food was wonderful. Luxembourg still has a patriarchial society; the mothers stay home and take care of their families. And cook. Noontime is the big meal of the day."

(Turn to Page B17)

A few handcrafted items are among Tim Itle's treasured mememtos of his IFYE stay in Luxembourg. The replicas of birds are "peckvillercher", whistles crafted from a ceramic-like material and sold only on Easter Monday to commemorate the patron saint of potters. Tom learned to make these clown pins from the daughter of a host family. They are styled from "filo," a modeling clay-type material in bright colors.

Cooking With Ted, The Vegetable Expert

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MOUNT JOY (Lancaster Co.) — If you'd like to prepare nutritious vegetables that your family and friends devour, Ted Shenk is the person to see.

This Mount Joy produce farmer offers "Cooking With Ted" programs that you will love.

For more than 50 years, Ted and his wife, Doris, have operated Donegal Gardens, a produce stand at Root's Country Market, Manheim, and at Central Markets, Lancaster.

Ted said, "I like to promote vegetables and show people how good they taste."

Kids don't turn up their noses at vegetables if Ted cooks them. This father of four and grandfather of six, has always loved to cook. Since his seasonal business is slow during the months of January through March, Ted wanted something different to do with his time. When his wife's Farm Women Society asked him to demonstrate stir frying, Ted was hooked on food demonstrating. Since then, this affable, jolly couple have been busy traveling to many organizations to show others how good and attractive vegetables can taste and look.

"Stir fry is great served over rice and it's something different from the usual meat and potatoes," Ted said. "I'm not trying to compete with Chinese stir fry. I use fresh vegetables found in Lancaster County and sold at my stand year-around."

Ted's programs are not limited to stir frying. So far, he has four programs to choose from:

- Introducing Fresh Vegetables Thru Stir-Fry
- Introducing the Four Popular Squashes (acorn, spaghetti, zucchini, and butternut)
- Ten Hors D'Oeuvres and Appetizers Made From Fruit and Vegetables
- Filling (stuffing) — learn Ted's special recipe.

Ted is proud that his program is different than the usual organizational meetings, but he is especially pleased that his program gives vegetables a positive plug.

"Seeing is doing," Ted said. And that's what many of his guests do after tasting Ted's specialties.

Ted tries to keep his recipes easy to make. Most of his ideas were gathered from fabulous buffets that appear on the cruises that he and his wife often escort.

For stir frying, Ted generally uses chicken breasts, but pork, beef, and other lean cuts are sometimes incorporated.

Ted is the sixth generation of produce farmers in his family. Since Ted took over the operation in the 1950s, consumers' demands have changed from peas and potatoes to favorites such as broccoli, squash, and tomatoes.

"We used to grow 75 varieties of vegetables," Ted said. The Shenks now buy some of the produce from other farmers.

The Shenks use their acreage to its maximum by concentrating on double and triple cropping. They start and finish each season with spinach planting, plant sugar peas in the spring and again in August, and expand their broccoli crop by cutting out the center head of broccoli so that side shoots develop and can be picked about 10 days later.

"It takes a lot of picking," Ted said. The parents and the four children worked at the business together as the children were growing up. Now, the Shenks hire school kids for much of the summer harvesting. Some of their grandchildren are now old enough to help.

The Shenks, like many produce growers, find the labor end of produce growing is expensive. Ted said, "California produce growers use machines and migrant workers for harvesting. In the East, we need to pay higher wages."

Ted said with three working together, they can cut a bushel of spinach every five minutes.

To control weeds, the Shenks mulch with dried sweet corn stalks.

Leaf lettuce, is grown in hot beds, spring onions are wintered over, and radishes, sugar peas, hull peas, and strawberries are harvested in the spring.

Doris grows dill, flowers, meadow tea, mints, sunflowers, gourds, and parsley. They continue to grow purple cabbage, endive, and brussel sprouts.

The Shenks do not limit their love for growing things to produce. They built their own home near a creek, and have landscaped the hilly terrain with hundreds of colorful shrubs, trees, and plants for year-around beauty. They also raise Christmas trees and red leaf maples to sell.

Write Ted and Doris Shenk at 1461 Marietta-Mt.Joy Pike, Mt. Joy, PA 17552 or call (717) 653-5204.

Here are a few of Ted's recipes for vegetables and fruit.

Ted and Doris Shenk show off the spinach that they grow with other produce on 10 acres of beautifully landscaped hilly terrain. In their love for growing things, the Shenks have designed gardens of beauty along the Donegal Creek in Mount Joy.

Samples of Ted's specialties are sure to convince tasters that vegetables are not only nutritious but delicious.

RED BLISS POTATOES

Red-skinned potatoes, diced, unpeeled

Pan boil, drain, and roll the potatoes in melted margarine. Shake with Mrs. Dash's Salt-Free Seasoning. Stir. Sprinkle with grated Parmesan cheese.

BROILED GRAPEFRUIT

Section grapefruit, but let it remain in shell

Brush with margarine. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Broil until it bubbles on top. Garnish with a cherry or strawberry in center of grapefruit.

EXTRA-SPECIAL SPINACH DIP

In medium bowl, blend:

1 envelope Lipton vegetable recipe soup mix

16-ounces sour cream

½ cup mayonnaise

½ teaspoon lemon juice

Stir in:

6 ounces fresh spinach, steamed and chopped

3 whole spring onions, chopped

Chill. Makes 3 cups dip. Good with fresh vegetables and crackers.

TIPS FOR STIR FRY

Use peanut oil. Slice boneless, skinless chicken breast while still slightly frozen. Prepare fresh vegetables by cutting in toothpick shapes.

Stir and steam vegetables in ½ cup chicken broth in the following order:

Spring onions
String beans
Carrots
Broccoli, chopped
Cauliflower
Zucchini
Sugar peas
Snow peas
Mushrooms

Season with Soy sauce, herb mix, and Mrs. Dash's seasoning.

Schools are in session six days weekly, with Sunday free. Classes are held full-time on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and half-days the other three. Tom's explanations of America's five-day school week generated envy among the students he met.

Not long after his arrival, Tom was invited to attend a "ball" with some of his hosts.

"I dressed up in a suit and tie, figuring it would be a formal gathering. It turned out to be a big party. They hold them in the town squares. American music is very popular. But they also do the traditional folk dances. Every village has a 'fest' each year, with two or three held somewhere every summer weekend. It's on two nights, one for the kids and one for adults," Tom relates.

Attending a hunt was part of his stay with an urban family host.

"They hunt deer, boar, rabbits, foxes, all at the same time," recalls Tom. "It's a social activity, with a leader in charge, and starts at a cafe with morning coffee and pastries. Then the group returns at lunch for a pig roast.

"I wasn't scared until I saw the boar, afterward," he laughs. "Their deer are smaller than ours; but the rabbits are huge."

The father of that host family was an ex-Tour de France bicycle racer who took Tom out biking one day.

"I did manage to keep up with him," he adds with a grin of accomplishment.

While staying with the IFYE host family who cultivated vineyards, Tom Itle helped with harvesting the white grapes for the bottle of wine they gifted him with for a memento.

The World War II era has become much more real to Tom, having seen the numerous memorials to the allies, talked with people about their memories and listened to recollections of resistance fighters and concentration camps.

"It was the first time the war really 'sank in' for me," he admits.

Tom says that there was never a time that he felt out of place or uncomfortable and that the people he met were very warm and friendly.

"They want to be happy, have a better life for their children, and enjoy living, just like us," he adds. "I was amazed at how emotionally similar we all are."

Now employed as a teller at the Cumberland County National Bank's Cedar Cliff Mall branch, Tom plans to return for his graduate degree and work toward a career in international banking. He also plans to return to Luxembourg to visit his many friends there as soon as it is financially possible.

"The kids have been really receptive," he says of the slide program he is sharing with 4-H, Farm Women, church and community groups. "They want to really know what it was all about, not just the fun things. I tell it as a story - and relive it every time I see those slides."

Tom and his family hope to be instrumental in helping the county 4-H to start a fund to help others take part in the IFYE program. He welcomes the opportunity to share his slides and IFYE experiences with area organizations and may be contacted at 703 Wyndamere Road, Lewisberry, PA 17339.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

It is so very nice to be able to stay home and pull weeds. I did not think that I would ever say that, but after one month of emptying a house in preparation for an auction, that's the way I feel.

The grass grew up through my four iris beds. The one was completely dug up last fall and the bulbs separated. Thus, that bed only has a few buds. My daughter gave me a variety of iris several years ago and they encompass a rainbow of colors and are big and beautiful.

The forsythia bush has been pruned, mostly to give me a better view of my big convex mirror. My husband bought the mirror and mounted it on posts so that I can see the driveway. As my kitchen is in the back of the house, I never know what cars or trucks some to the barn. And, I am a nosey person and like to know what is going on around the place.

This year my columbines are finally blooming. Last year the rototiller wheels ran over them. There are several shades of these graceful flowers with their long spurs.

My black China lilies were spectacular this year. They always bloom in the basement in early March and have a deep maroon blossom with a yellow throat. Then, they die down only to come up in the garden as a plant resembling a palm tree with a mottled stem — quite spectacular.

My husband has put a lot of time and money into staking two 100-foot rows of black and red raspberries. If they bear the way that he expects, we will have some to sell. But, dry weather is their enemy and so we shall have to wait and see.

Chester County Sets Pageant For June 1

NOTTINGHAM (Chester Co.) — The Chester County Dairy Princess Pageant on June 1 will take place at Herr Foods Inc. Visitors Center Auditorium, Nottingham, at 7:30 p.m.

Reigning over the festivities will be the 1990 Chester County Dairy Princess Lauri Hicks of West Chester. Lauri has successfully served the dairy industry for the past year by appearing to groups of all ages and a wide variery of events covering the eastern half of the state.

This year two young ladies will be contesting for the title of 1991 Chester County Dairy Princess. Rebecca Blank, Parkesburg, and Noel Scheib, Phoenixville, will be judged by a panel of three judges on appearance, poise, personality, speaking ability, and knowledge of the dairy industry. The contestants will be presenting a three-five minute speech, promoting milk and the dairy industry along with answering an impromptu question.

Rebecca Blank is the daughter of Elam and Dorothy Blank, R.D.2 Parkesburg. She is 17-years-old and a junior at Octorara High School where she represents her classmates on Student Council, plays volleyball on the varsity team, and manages the baseball team.

Becky works for her father part-time, milking and feeding cows on the family's Highland Green Farm. For 34 years, the Blanks have been on their 96 acres where corn is the principal crop and 50 Holsteins live in the barn. Becky herself is the owner of one Holstein.

Besides helping out on the farm, Becky is employed by Byler Poultry, a market stand in Cowtown, NJ. In the future, she would like to pursue the field of occupational therapy.

At church, Becky is active as vice-president of the youth group and serves on the faith and practice committee. This committee plans and invites speakers for their weekly Bible studies. Along with church activities, she is a member of the Bible Quiz Team, where members are quizzed against other church teams on Bible passages.

Along with her enjoyment of meeting new people and babysitting for her nieces and nephews, Becky's favorite hobby is playing volleyball. When she's not in school playing, you'll find her at the co-ed volleyball league or more recently the women's volleyball league. Whether it's skiing or just spending time with her older sister and four brothers, if there's action, Becky will be there.

Noel Scheib is the 18-year-old daughter of Clyde and Alda Scheib, West Seven Stars Road, Phoenixville. She is a senior at Owen J. Roberts Senior High School where she plays French horn in the concert band and melaphone in the marching band, and sings in the chamber choir. Other school activities include yearbook staff, SADD (Students Against Drunk Drivers), German club, and Key club, which provides service to the school and community. Extra-curricular activities are DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) competition that took her to nationals for food marketing-master employee level, and she represented the school at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership seminar, an international leadership program, and Pennsylvania Free Enterprise Week, a hands-on business conference.

Noel Scheib

After graduation, Noel will be attending Eastern College, St. Davids, where biology will be her major course of study.

For 60 years the Scheibs have been farming 100 acres which is known as French Creek Farm where wheat, oats, hay, and corn are grown. A mixed herd of Guernseys, Jerseys, and Holsteins make up the total 45 cows in the barn. Over the past 10 years, Noel has been in Dairy 4-H and has owned a total of 30 dairy animals. Currently 12 are in the herd and she helps daily with feeding and milking.

4-H has taken Noel to clothing and textiles, veterinary science, craft, photography, wood science, leadership and microwave cooking. She has had the privilege of attending the Pennsylvania Association of Farmers Cooperative Institute, where she was selected for scholars staff in 1989 and National Institute of Cooperative Education where she was a nominee for national youth trustee.

When Noel's not at school or her dairy responsibilities, she may be found with her two older sisters and brother or playing French horn at church and her local musical ensemble.

Join dairy farmers on June 1, at 7:30 p.m. at Herr Foods, Nottingham. To get to the visitor's center auditorium take Herr Drive off Rt. 272. At the stop sign, turn left. Enter the building at the large red tower that says "Herrs."

ADD CHARM WITH LINEN AND LACE

Fine linens and lace were once the province of only the very wealthy. But today everyone can enjoy the poetry, the drama and the elegance of these beautiful textiles. New lace is easily available and vintage versions still abound at prices that still make them affordable. Here are some suggestions about ways you can decorate your home with lace.

Whether used sparingly or in lavish profusions, lace will soften any decor. In the bedroom nothing can replace the luxurious feel of fine linen bed fashions. Sheets, pillowcases, comforters, and pillows trimmed in lace provide an intimate setting that relaxes the body and soothes the spirit. Today's all-cotton, 200- thread-count percale sheets with no-iron finishes often possess a beauty that belies their durability. Decorator details, such as fagoting, embroidery, ruffles, and delicate edgings, are inspired by vintage textiles. Strips of old lace can easily be recycled by stitching them onto plain sheets. Use narrow strips for bands or edgings; use wider strips to convert the border of a top sheet into a turned-down cuff.

The bathroom, too, can benefit from a touch of lace. A gossamer lace panel, backed by a liner, makes a wonderful shower curtain. A conventional printed or plain shower curtain can be softened by adding a lace overlay. Towel racks or open shelves can be used to display collections of hand towels with delicate trims.

Tables set with lace-trimmed linens have a romantic appeal. For an artful look, mix and match new and vintage linens. To create an elegant table collage, overlap runners and cloths of varying sizes. Or, consider layering dissimilar shapes, such as a small round cloth on top of a large rectangle, or a small square cloth placed diagonally over a larger one.

Due to the effect of sunlight and frequent launderings in their lifetime, vintage lace curtains are a rare find. Tablecloths and place mats, whether new or old, often find new life as a window treatment.

Small antiques and collectibles, whether displayed on open shelves or stored in glass-front cabinets, can be enhanced with lace. Use lace trims, in varying motifs, along the edge of each shelf. Or, place doilies, handkerchiefs and other odd bits of lace so they dip invitingly over the edge.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Cumberland Co. 4-H Baby Beef Club

The Cumberland County 4-H Baby Beef Club held their regular meeting on April 15 at the West Pennsboro Fire Hall in Plainfield.

Chester Hughes, Lancaster County extension agent, gave a talk on the evaluation of meat and beef carcasses.

At the business meeting, the club members decided to have a fund raiser by having food stands at any public sale they can acquire.

The next meeting is May 20 at Heater and Justin Fuls home. There will be a fitting and showmanship demonstration.

4-H Sheep Club

The Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep Club met on March 20 at the Dickinson Township Building. There were 33 members present.

Members were introduced to Tim Hocker, a new leader.

Michael Cornman gave a report on the Greater West Shore Chamber of Commerce banquet that was held on March 7, 1991.

Larry Hoover gave a report on the breeding sheep roundup, which will be held at the Shippensburg Fair.

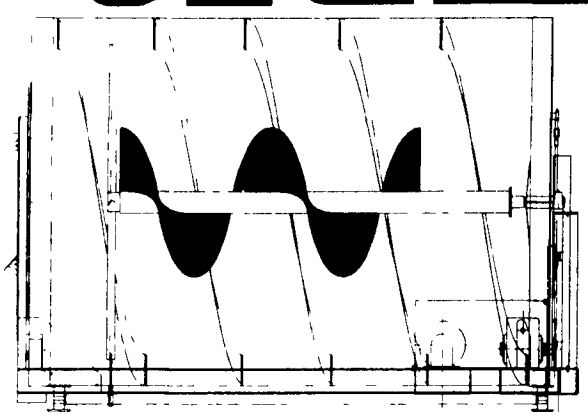
Patz®



New Patz Mixer

- Unique central spiral circulator
- No bearings inside the mixer drum

Fewer working parts make the Patz Mixer reliable (only 3 grease fittings).

As the drum rotates, the central spiral circulator moves feed to the back of the mixer. At the same time, the fitting bolted to the drum in a spiral design moves the feed to the front as it mixes with a tumbling action.

Four sizes
Cor-Ten® steel mixer drum (®U.S. Steel Corp.)
Electronic scale or mechanical beam scale
Low-rate financing available

SAFETY! It's no accident

NEW 5.5% INTEREST Limited Time!

Sale Reports

ALDERFER SALE

Sanford Alderfer Auction Company's Spring Firearms Auction held on April 23 drew a crowd of over 500 participants.

Sale included along with the firearms and military collectibles, more than 100 trophy mounts from several collections, as well as a fine selection of both hunting and fishing accessories. Lots were sold to the floor, telephone and absentee bidders throughout the day.

The fine grouping of 280+ firearms, both antique and late model pieces brought outstanding prices including: Colt Model 1855 Carbine which sold for $3,600; Colt-Sauer Over/Under Dbl. Barrel, sold for $2,100; Colt Model SA Revolver, sold for $1,400; Colt Model Wyatt Earp Revolver, sold for $1,350; Winchester Model 21 engraved Dbl. Barrel, sold for $1,250; Colt-Sauer Sporting Model bolt action, sold for $1,225.

Trophy mounts included: African Lion full mount, $2,300; Cougar full mount, $2,100; Mountain Goat full mount, $1,850; Big Horn Sheep full mount, $1,700; Dull Sheep full mount, $1,350.

Sanford (Sandy) L. Alderfer, notes that Alderfer Auction Company anticipates another exciting firearms auction in the fall and continued interest in 1992.

THE LABEL IS THE LAW

Dr. Richard Barczewski
Extension Agent
U. of Delaware

When I see someone mixing chemicals without protective clothing and eyewear or observe a misuse of the pesticide or antibiotic, I cringe. Blatant disregard for instructions that appear on every medicinal or pesticide label is not only stupid, it's illegal.

People in the hog industry come in contact with chemical agents that must be handled with caution. Whether you are working with a pesticide for controlling external parasites on your hogs, a herbicide in your sprayer or applying an antibiotic in feed rations, exercise care. This is important for the health and safety of your hogs, yourself, and the consumers who purchase the pork you grow. Improper use can have severe ramifications.

Follow the label directions when applying a pesticide or administering any drug. I cannot stress this enough. We've all heard about the sulfamethazine-residue problem that occurred as a result of improper feed mixing and lack of care in handling feed, hogs, and the drug itself. Some producers did not follow label directions for this drug, which resulted in cross-contamination of hogs when non-treated hogs came in contact with manure from treated hogs.

Some of the effective pesticides and medicinals we now use may not remain available if producers do not use them responsibly and according to the label. Some products have been taken off the market already because of problems from misapplication, off-label usage and over-application.

No other application method, amount, or use is permissible besides what is specified on the label. The FDA has raised some concerns about off-label use of medicinal products. Since the sulfamethazine incident, the use of other drugs has been scrutinized. Where we go from here has yet to be decided.

According to articles I've read, one solution may be to reduce the number of over-the-counter drugs available to farmers. This is not a popular alternative, but it's one that never would have come up if everyone used medicines according to the label. Hog producers could end up having to buy all their drugs directly from a veterinarian.

The use of medicines, pesticides, and other agri-chemicals is a privilege we don't want to lose. Using these correctly and practicing proper management to avoid drug residues is imperative to our keeping this privilege.

A problem that results from misapplication is not always blatant disregard of the label and the law. More often it's simply poor management, as in the sulfamethazine incident, which occurred because non-treated hogs and treated hogs were not kept separate. In other cases, feed has been contaminated because of the electrostatic nature of antibiotic powder which causes it to adhere to feed-mixing equipment, thus tainting antibiotic-free feed.

As hog producers, we have an obligation to follow the labels of all drugs and pesticides used on our farms, and to exercise good feed mixing and hog handling management. Otherwise, we stand to lose the privileges we now have for their use.

The old saying that it takes only one rotten apple to spoil the barrel has application here. We need to be especially careful. Several watchdog groups are keeping an eye on our industry's response to residue problems. This issue will be with us for some time to come, and it will take the good practice of each and everyone of us to resolve it. Don't be a rotten apple.

Pork Industry Launches Into Physician Advertising

CHICAGO, Ill. — Pork's comparability with chicken is center stage in the industry's re-emergence into the physician advertising realm. The checkoff-funded ad, "Breast of Chicken/ Best of Pork," began appearing in May editions of four physician journals.

"The primary message we are conveying is that fresh pork is a part of a heart-healthy diet, in many circumstances comparable to chicken," said Lowell Gemar, a pork producer from Fullerton, N.D., and Information Committee chairman of the Pork Industry Group, a division of the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

In 1984 the Pork Industry Group placed "The Physician's Quiz on Pork" in three professional journals, with the ad reaching unprecedented readership interest scores. Since that time, the industry shifted its focus to invest funds for other high priorities. In 1990, pork producers recommitted to changing physician attitudes about pork.

The initial target with the ad will be the 43,900 internal medicine specialists (IMS) in the country. This group of primary care physicians was selected because they see a high percentage of patients with conditions that have nutritional implications.

The recently completed Pork Physicians Benchmark Survey, commissioned by the Pork Industry Group, shows that of the 151 IMS interviewed, they counsel an average of 33 percent of their patients each week on nutrition.

In addition, Pork Industry Group research suggests that most practices are in urban areas, see mostly adults, and tend to be more negative about pork than other primary care physicians. When considering checkoff dollar efficiency and effectiveness, IMS are a "reachable" advertising audience due in part to their concentration of professional journal publications.

Prior to final development of "Breast of Chicken/Best of Pork," 17 hours of interviews were held with internal medicine specialists to test advertising concepts.

"What we found was that internal medicine specialists are highly attracted to the pork and chicken comparison. And the new Pork Market Basket Study results, shown in the ad, give them the reason to believe our message," said Lisa Watson, M.S., Meat Board physician education coordinator.

The new ad is made possible through a grant from the National Pork Board, funded by producer checkoff dollars. The ad joins other physician programs such as "Nutrition Strategies" and a series of continuing education seminars on nutrition sponsored by the Meat Board, an effort that will be accredited by the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Woody Picks Champs At Western Angus Show

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. — Angus exhibitors from coast to coast paraded 126 cattle to compete for championship honors and points at the 1991 Western National Angus Futurity Super Roll of Victory (ROV) Point Show in Reno, Nevada. Dee Woody, Carbondale, Illinois, selected the champions.

In bull competition, Da Es Ro Casey 629 walked away with grand champion honors. First named the junior champion, the April 1989 son of Brost Power Drive is owned by Whitestone Krebs, Gordon, Nebraska, and Eric Schlutz, Letts, Iowa.

The reserve junior champion entry was then selected as the reserve grand champion bull by judge Woody. Winning reserve grand laurels was P F Hamilton 9H24, a March 1989 son of Skarship Saratoga. Owning the bull are Premier Angus Inc. and Forsythe, Cloverdale, Indiana; Dawn Henley, Oakdale, California; and International Breeding Centers Inc., Spencer, Indiana.

In heifer competition, Premier Empress 2557E was named grand champion. Premier Angus Inc., Cloverdale, Indiana, and Forsythe Cattle Company, Marshall, Illinois, together own the grand female. The heifer is a May 1989 daughter of Brost Dan Patch.

Annaleas First Star, the reserve intermediate champion, was then selected the reserve grand champion female. The August 1989 daughter of Windac Heritage is owned by Annalea Farms Ltd., Coatesville, Pennsylvania, and Ankony Shadow Isle Ranch, Minatare, Nebraska.

In other heifer competition, Maid of C I 815 won the senior championship for owner C I Ranch of Los Olivos, California.

F F F Diablo Suzie won junior champion female laurels. The winner is owned by Forsythe Cattle Company; Dennis Lopez, Byron, California; and Lori Franklin, La Salle, Colorado. Double M Farms, Dublin, Virginia, owns the reserve junior champion entry named M M Jessica.

Brian Fitzgerald, center, of Kennett Square, was presented the Outstanding Herdsman Award at the 1991 Western National Angus Futurity held April 28-30 in Reno, NV. Presenting the award are Buck Stevens, left, co-chairman of the futurity committee, and George Lemm, right, of Whitestone Krebs who sponsored the engraved belt buckle award.

Annaleas First Star won reserve grand champion heifer laurels at the 1991 Western National Angus Futurity Super Roll of Victory (ROV) Point Show. Annalea Farms Ltd., Coatesville, and Ankony Shadow Isle Ranch, Minatare, NE, jointly own the reserve winner. The heifer first won reserve champion honors in the intermediate division. She is an August 1989 daughter of Windac Heritage.

Shorthorn Association Hosts Field Day

WOODBINE, Md. — The Maryland Shorthorn Association will host the fifth annual Eastern Regional Shorthorn Field Day on Saturday, June 29, at the Howard County Fairground in West Friendship, Md.

This annual event draws exhibitors from up and down the east coast. Entries are expected to exceed 100 head this year.

The day will begin with a judging clinic and contest for 4-H, FFA, and junior youth. Following this will be classes for junior showmanship, steers, females, and bulls. There will be an auction of Shorthorn semen from some of the most popular bulls in the breed today. Proceeds from the auction will go to the Maryland Shorthorn Association to help fund the organization's many activities.

Judge for this year's field day is Joe Woods, Woodland Farms, Frankfort, Ind. Woods is a well-known Shorthorn breeder exhibiting under the Woodland name across the country.

The Howard County Fairground is located near the intersection of Highway 32 and Interstate Highway 70. It's approximately 25 miles east of Frederick, Md., or 12 miles west of the Baltimore Beltway (695).

Sollenberger Silos Becomes Top 25 Dealer

Manage Soybeans To Increase Yield

DEKALB, Ill. — By implementing sound management practices, soybean growers can increase yields without increasing production costs.

"One way growers can accomplish this is by establishing yield goals," said Larry Martin, regional agronomist for DEKALB Plant Genetics. "Without it, you really don't know where you're going. So your management techniques should be designed to achieve that goal."

He said soybeans have shown a consistent yield response when grown in rotation. An eight-year summary from DEKALB's on-farm field analysis comparison trial (FACT) plot evaluation program shows soybeans grown after corn outyield continuous soybeans by three to eight bushels per acre.

He cautions growers to prepare a firm, moist seedbed for full emergence. "High residue fields are fine as long as the strip where the seed is placed is smooth and clean," Martin said. "To conserve moisture, plant soybeans in rows 30 inches or less."

Martin said that although soybeans obtain most nitrogen from the air by bacterial fixation, growers planting in sandy soils may see a benefit from preplant nitrogen to get the crop off to a fast start.

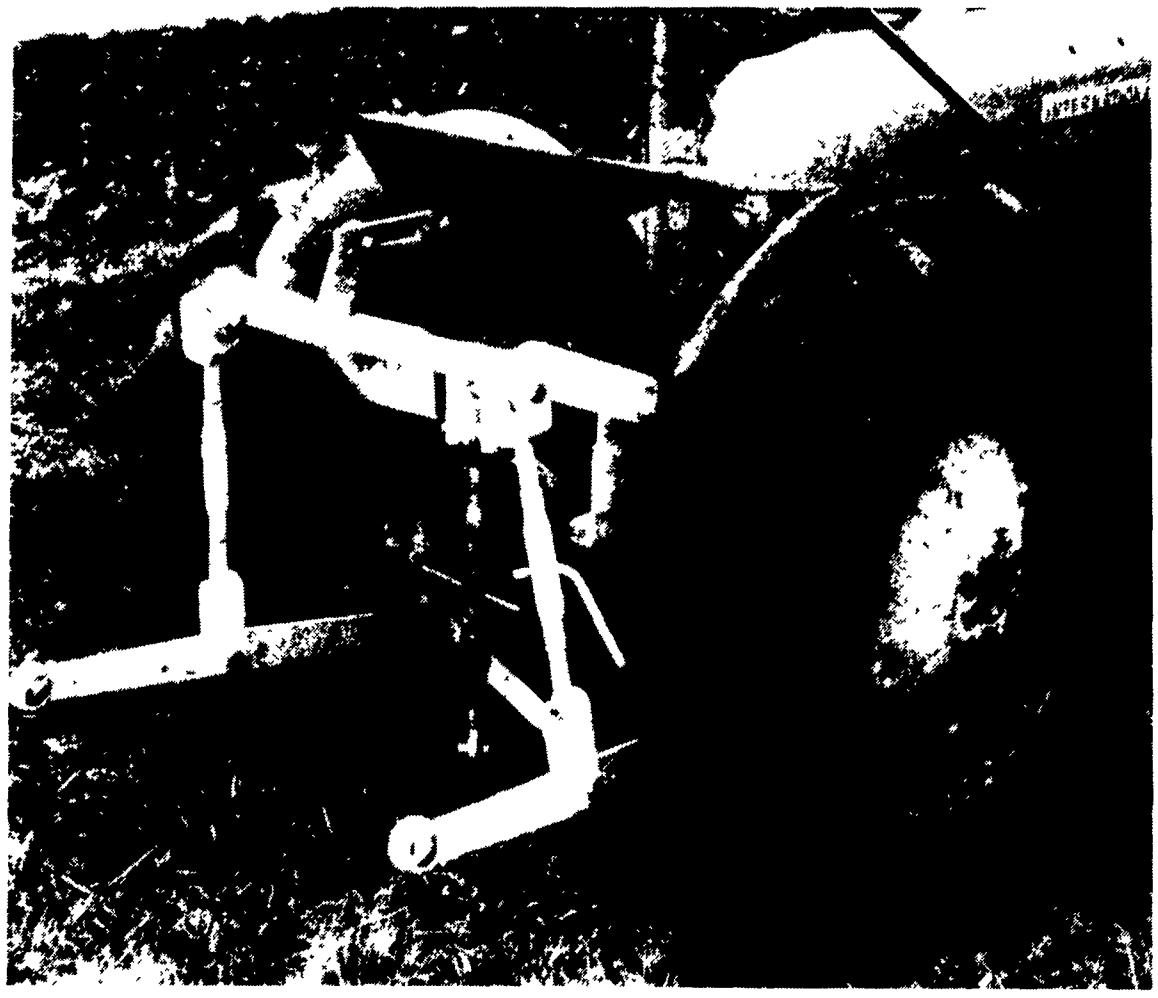
Growers also should maintain an optimum soil pH for soybeans between 6.3 and 6.8. Martin suggests growers plant a chlorosis-resistant variety if the soil pH is above 6.8. If pH is below 6.3, lime fields to improve nutrient uptake and nitrogen fixation.

Crop scouting is another important management tool. "It's important to scout your fields to help reduce infestation levels of insects, diseases, or weeds," said Martin, "because they can influence your profit level."

He said that if weed infestations get out of hand in the first 30 or 40 days after emergence, yields will be significantly reduced.

"For instance, two clumps of foxtail for every 100 feet has been shown to reduce overall yield by 2 percent in a soybean field," the DEKALB agronomist said.

Martin advises growers to identify potential weed problems in advance and tailor the control program accordingly. He said a combination of herbicides plus cultivation will be most cost effective.



Worksaver's new rear three-point hitch for International Cub Lo-Boy (offset model) tractors uses the existing hydraulic lift on the tractor to lift up to 350 pounds and allows the Cub Lo-Boy to perform many jobs with rear three-point equipment.

3-Pt. Hitch Available For Lo-Boy Tractors

LITCHFIELD, Ill.— A new rear three-point hitch for International Cub Lo-Boy (offset model) tractors has been designed by Worksaver, Inc.

The Model HK-91 hitch uses the existing hydraulic lift on the tractor to lift up to 350 pounds.

The HK-91 can remain on the tractor when using the belt pulley on the PTO shaft and when using most mid-mounted mowers. The Worksaver three-point hitch allows the Cub Lo-Boy tractor to perform many jobs with rear three-point equipment.

For more information, contact Worksaver, Inc., P.O. Box 1000, Litchfield, IL 62056, (217) 324-5973.

New Farm Market

ANNAPOLIS, Md.— Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. has announced the opening of a new farmers' market in Hagerstown this summer.

The market will be located at the Massey Ford Dealership at Halfway Boulevard and will be open on Wednesday afternoons, 4 p.m. to 8 p.m., from July 17 through October 30.

"The opening of this market is another example of our expanding farmers' market network growing around the state. This is another tremendous opportunity for the farmer to provide fresh, local produce directly to the customer," Cawley said.

This new market will complement the Saturday market at the City Market which this year celebrates its 200th anniversary as the oldest operating farmers' market in the state.

Farmers interested in participating in these Washington County markets should contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture, marketing services, George Roche, (800) 492-5590.

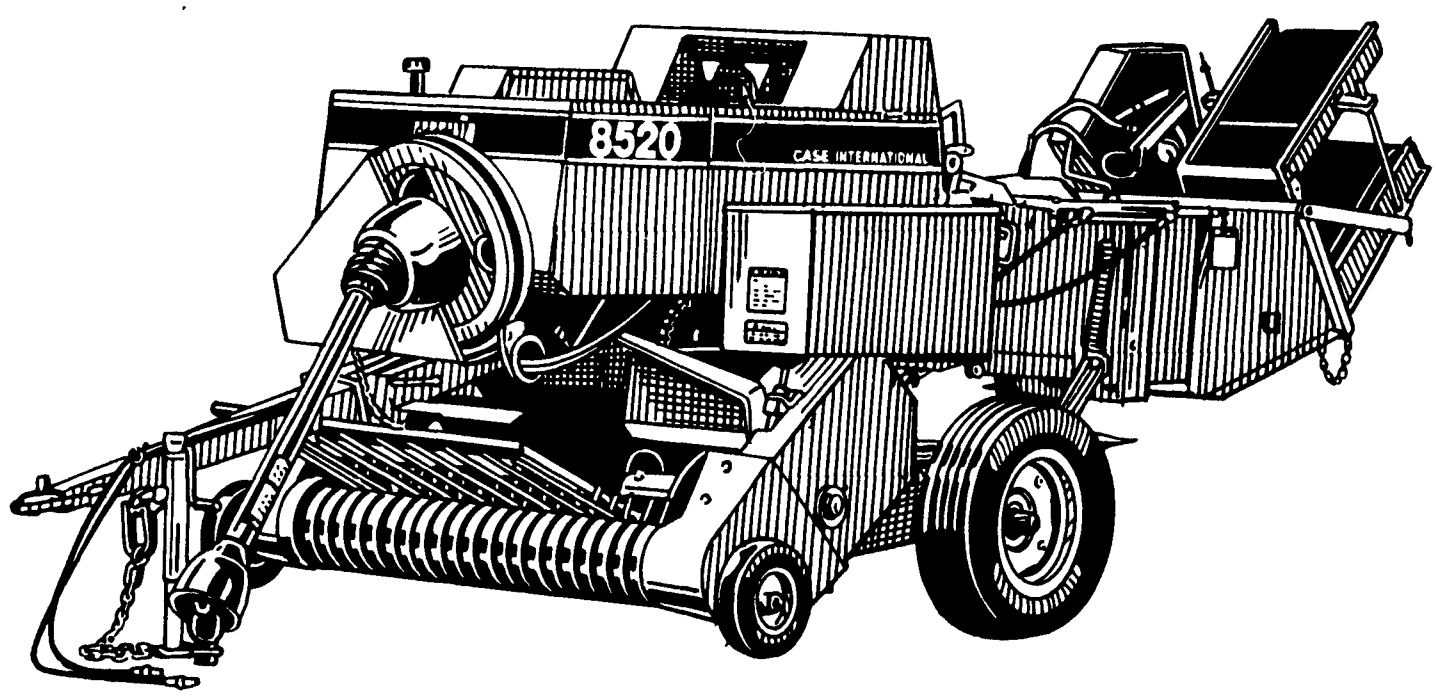
OUTSTANDING BALER PERFORMANCE MEANS GREATER NUTRITION AT AN ECONOMICAL PRICE



Case International 8520/8530 Rectangular Balers

These two balers both feature the Case IH center line design. Eliminates turning corners with the crop to get it into the bale chamber, as is common with conventional designs. This saves valuable protein-rich leaves. Also saves time because you don't have to change from field to road position for transport.

Other outstanding features are:

- Low-profile baler design provides excellent visibility to the rear of the baler
- Low-profile pickup . . . reduces crop lifting height, saving nutritious leaves
- Hay goes straight into the unique prepacker chamber . . . regardless of windrow size . . . for uniform flake and bale density

U.S. Beef Grabs Market Share

DENVER, Colo. — U.S. beef exports in March 1991 took a significant bite out of Australia's share of the Japanese beef import market, according to the latest trade figures from Japan's Ministry of Finance.

These gains came on the eve of liberalization after three years of industry preparation for the opening of the Japanese beef import market on April 1 this year.

The March import statistics showed a dramatic 9.4 percent increase in the U.S. share of chilled beef sales to Japan over the previous month. At the same time, chilled beef sales from Australia declined 8.1 percent.

"I'm encouraged by these latest figures," said U.S. Meat Export Federation President Phil Seng. "U.S. packers have worked hard to improve the quality of their chilled product for the Japanese market and, in some cases, have extended shelf-life by as much as 100 percent. This investment in product quality and MEF efforts to distinguish high quality, grain-fed U.S. beef from the competition are paying off."

Seng pointed out that these are just one month's statistics but expressed confidence that they are indicative of the trend for U.S. beef in the Japanese market. "The data is particularly significant because this is the best look that we've had at what the Japanese will do after the market opens up and they can deal directly with foreign suppliers," said Seng. "The market is telling us they like our product. It's also telling us that our market development activities are working."

The March figures also showed a significant shift in purchases from frozen beef to fresh chilled product. While frozen beef imports declined 8.3 percent from the same month one year earlier, chilled imports increased a full 1 percent.

Japanese beef imports in March totalled 32,330 tons of which 14,008 tons were chilled. The U.S. share of the total beef import market (chilled and frozen) in March was 44.9 percent by volume, compared to 45.7 percent for Australia and 6.2 percent for New Zealand. This is the narrowest gap ever in market share between the U.S. and Australia.

Japan is the largest export market for U.S. beef, accounting for two-thirds of all U.S. beef exports. In 1990, sales of U.S. beef and veal to Japan, including variety meats, were valued at a record $1.2 billion.

SCRAPE, DIG, PULL, LOAD, TILL, MOW AND MORE

These include mid and rear mount mowers, front loaders, boxscrapers, back-hoes, posthole diggers, snowblowers, even rotary tillers.

Kubota's remarkable B-50 Series compact tractors come with mid and 2-speed rear PTO. Optional Hydrostatic Transmission. From 17-24 HP.

Kubota's optional "Bi-Speed Turn" system allows smaller and precise turns in 4-Wheel Drive, which makes mowing and even loading more efficient.

Reverse air flow cooling directs radiator heat away from the operator for a comfortable, quiet ride.

The Kubota B-50 Series. Versatile compact tractors.

the new Workhorse from

From row crop work to utility chores, American Series tractors offer the performance, durability, and comfort you expect in a White... and more.

Compare... more working speeds.
Our time proven 6-speed transmission coupled with our 3-speed Powershift produces more working speeds in the 2 to 7 mph range than comparable tractors offer. That means you can work faster and more efficiently.

More comfort and convenience.
Our operator's platform is roomy. Our controls are conveniently grouped on the right. Our cab is so comfortable you'll actually look forward to field work.

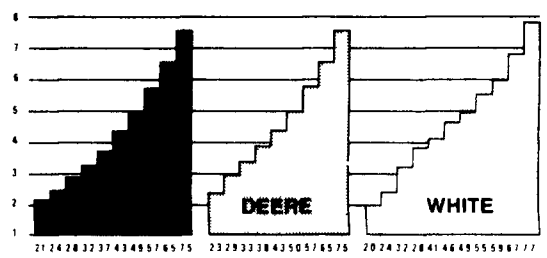
More rugged durability.
White tractors are built to handle tough field conditions for lifelong service on North American farms. For example, our exclusive cast iron mainframe gives you built-in working weight, biting traction, and a superb place to mount tanks or a loader.

See your nearest White dealer today. Test drive an American Series tractor. It could very well be all the tractor you'll ever need.

made in AMERICA

The Evolution of the New Workhorse

It has been said that if you don't make dust, you eat it. The new Workhorse from White is an evolution of dust-raising power and rugged dependability. The competition has some catching up to do.



The Workhorse Power Team

Workhorse couples the power of the Cummins Diesel Engine with our field-proven 18-speed transmission with 3 speed Powershift. This Power Team produces a whooping 42% increase in torque measured at the drive wheels of the 170 and 195 models. At base shipping weight, the Workhorse 145 will pull a higher percentage of weight without adding extra cast iron. That minimizes soil compaction. Plus, it delivers nearly 10% greater fuel efficiency than other tractors in its class. That means you can save as much as 1 gallon of fuel per hour.

The Transmission That's Faster in the Field

With a new Workhorse you can work faster and more efficiently because it delivers up to ⅓ more speeds than the competition in the 3.8 to 7.7 mph range. That is where the field work is done.

By traveling just ⅓ mph faster pulling a 12 row planter, you can cover as much as 9 additional acres in a 10 hour day.

Having roofing problems? Considering a new roof in the next 3-5 years? Before investing big dollars in an expensive new roof consider Poxy Coat II!

Poxy Coat II is good for most roofs.
- extremely flexible for long life
- is heat resistant up to 1000°.
- resists acid rain
- seals and protects
- comes in seven colors, plus black and white
- a fraction of the cost of a new roof.

For more information and a free estimate and consultation on coating your roof with Poxy Coat II contact:

Paul Brosey at (717) 426-3833 or Steve Bowman at (717) 684-8642

Paul Brosey Contracting also does painting, barn restoration and roof replacement.

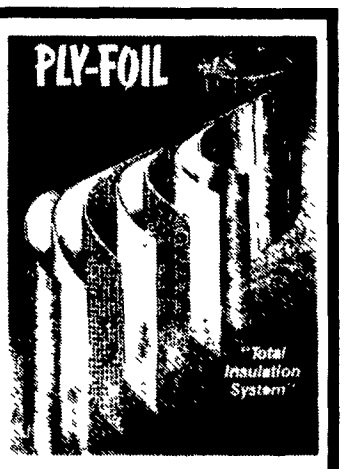
PLY-FOIL is a very efficient form of insulation. In application after application it has proven to be extremely effective at controlling heat gain/loss, thus significantly reducing heating and cooling costs. PLY-FOIL Insulation uses an aluminum foil to reflect up to 97% of the radiant heat.



PLY-FOIL BENEFITS

PLY-FOIL products are clean, lightweight, and non-toxic; are unaffected by changes in humidity; do not shrink; and once installed require no maintenance. They do not promote the growth of fungi or bacteria, and provide no nesting support for rodent or insect pests. PLY-FOIL, which has a Class A/Class 1 fire rating, meets the fire and smoke safety requirements of most federal, state and local building codes.

The panels fit Eagle Rigid Span wood-frame farm buildings with spans from 12 feet to 120 feet. The buildings, according to the manufacturer, are designed to eliminate bird problems. The buildings can be economically insulated from R-19 to R-38, have a ready-to-finish interior, and include a raised center which allows use of lower sidewall.

Participants in senior and junior presentations, prepared speeches, and impromptu speeches will be eligible to participate in Regional 4-H Presentation Night contest to be held on July 16 at the Cumberland Valley High School. The senior presenters and prepared speakers are also eligible to go on to state competition.

South Mountain 4-H

The South Mountain 4-H club held its monthly meeting on April 29 at the Fontana Community Building.

All 4-H members were reminded about the cookie swim that will be held June 1 from 8-10 at the YMCA in Lebanon. The club is making it a family fun night.

Fran Bushong thanked everyone who helped make the petting zoo's a big success. Also on display was the new club banner for holding a petting zoo at the Lebanon Country Club.

Liz Ebersole showed us how to give a demonstration and talked about Lebanon County demonstration night on June 26.

Ruth Kreiser talked about cake decorating and will be giving classes in May and June. Those interested were asked to sign up.

The club welcomed 21 new members.

Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep

The Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep Club met recently at the Monroe Township Building.

The meeting started with a game. Billy George Leib passed out a crossword puzzle on the different breeds of sheep.

The meeting was then called to order. A demonstration was given by Billy George Leib on castrating lambs.

Larry Hoover told how to trim sheep's feet to protect them from foot rot.

Curt Rhoads showed different worm medicines to use in worming sheep.

The 4-H market lamb roundup sale will be held Friday, August 9, at 7 p.m. For more information, contact the extension office at (717) 249-7220.

Goat Club Meets

The Cumberland County 4-H Goat Club met recently at Joel Vanasdlen's residence. There were 10 members present.

The meeting started with Justin Carpenter leading in the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H pledge. Red Allen stated he will visit each member house within the next two weeks to tatoo their meat goat and check if they have started their meat goat project book.

Joel Vanasdlen gave his demonstration on "castration of a goat." The next meeting will be held at Justin and Derrick Carpenter is on June 5 at 7 p.m. For more information about the goat club, contact the county extension office or one of the leaders. The leaders are Red Allen (717) 776-5097, Suzie Leib (717) 697-5374, or Lois Zeigler (717) 776-7583.

Norlebco Dairy Club

The Norlebco 4-H Dairy Club met on May 3 at the home of the Bomgardners.

Members evaluated two sets of dairy cattle. This exercise helped improve the members' dairy judging skills.

The fair booth committee was selected, and it will be meeting at a later date.

The next meeting will be held June 29, in which the roundup will be held and project books will be checked.

GOOD DEALS from Good Dealers

Cut fast without cutting quality

Cut and dried, nothing does it better than John Deere mower/conditioners. The John Deere 1460 Rotary Mower/Conditioner lets you clean cut straight through your fields, even at speeds up to 8 mph. And the exclusive John Deere urethane conditioning rolls help your hay dry fast for on-time baling or chopping. The John Deere 1219 Mower/Conditioner cuts with a sicklebar and conditions efficiently and effectively with exclusive urethane rolls. Intermeshing cleats feature indentations that provide more crimping points, more pressure per square inch. It all helps you get more out of your hay. See your John Deere Good Dealer about the 1460 and 1219 Mower/Conditioners.

Any way you cut it, sicklebar or rotary disks, John Deere conditions it best with exclusive roll design.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK

FFA HAPPENINGS

Toyota Sponsors FFA Stars

Toyota Motor Sales (TMS), U.S.A., Inc. announced it has approved a grant of $25,000 to the National FFA "Stars Recognition Program." TMS joins Federal Crop Insurance Corporation as co-sponsor of the program.

"We are excited to be helping to sponsor a program that recognizes the outstanding accomplishments of future farmers and agribusinesspeople," said Yuki Togo, TMS president.

The "Stars" are one or two of the very best FFA members in each chapter and each state respectively.

Members qualify for the Star Awards by earning FFA degrees which are based on work experience programs, leadership development, school/community activities and scholastic achievement. A Star Farmer and Star Agribusinessperson are selected from members who earn degrees at the chapter and state levels.

By sponsoring the Stars program, Toyota and Federal Crop Insurance Corporation will be providing medals for the Star Greenhand (first-year student), Star Chapter Farmers, and Star Chapter Agribusinessperson at more than 7,700 local chapters. At the state level, the Star Farmer and the Star Agribusinessperson will receive a $300 check.

The sponsorship is a continuation of the partnership between Toyota and FFA. Toyota has a 13-year history of support to FFA, including support of the FFA Scholarship Program. In 1990, six national FFA officers visited the offices of Toyota Motor Corporation in Japan as part of their international experience program.

Greenwood FFA Speakers Advance

The Greenwood FFA parliamentary procedure team were recent first place finishers in the CDP area competition.

Wet brewers grain is more than a good feed. It's a good business ingredient.

Each day, up to 100,000 U.S. dairy cows feed on rations containing wet brewers grain. That's because their owners know it minimizes feed costs while it maximizes production.

Wet brewers grain is a high-protein feed ingredient. It's always fresh, because it's delivered directly to your dairy. It fits into most programs, is easy to handle, and easy to store.

Call us today. One of our professional feed consultants will help you work wet brewers grain into your ration, so you can make it a profitable ingredient for your business.

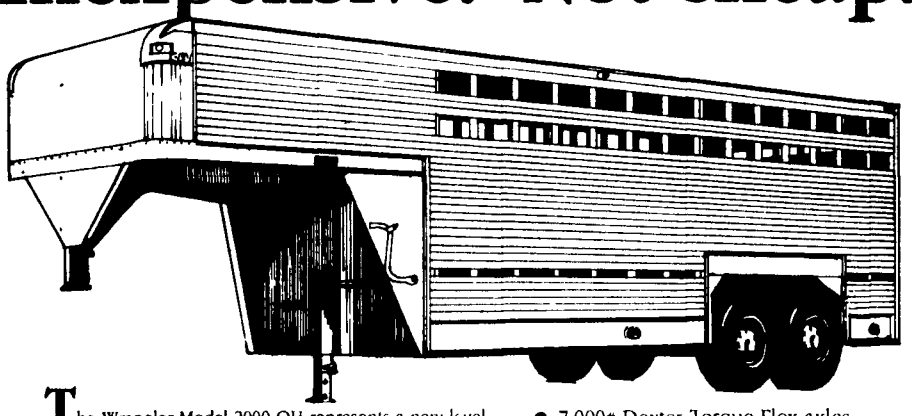
Introducing The Wrangler 2000-OH Inexpensive. Not cheap.



The Wrangler Model 2000-OH represents a new level of value in livestock trailers

Its standard specifications, top quality components and proven engineering are found in other Wrangler models But the new 2000-OH is less expensive By standardizing height and width and by limiting the number of optional accessories, Eby lowers the production costs for this model Now you can get all our traditional craftsmanship in a top-value gooseneck

Unlike other "budget" trailers on the market, the Wrangler 2000-OH achieves a price breakthrough without compromising quality Consider these features, standard on the new Wrangler 2000 OH

- 7,000# Dexter Torque-Flex axles
- Steel-belted radial tires, 10-ply rating
- Aerodynamic, attractive design
- Sealed beam lights with enclosed, externally accessible wiring
- 2-year warranty

Specifications

- Available in 14', 16', 18', 20' lengths
- 7' Width
- 6'6" Inside height

Special introductory pricing.

All this and more for under $9,000.*

* Introductory price of a standard 20 model as illustrated Freight taxes title dealer prep not included

MASTER MIX

SILO-BOOSTER

Why should you use Master Mix SILO BOOSTER instead of another product? SILO-BOOSTER has been proven in 24 years of on-farm use, as well as in continuous university research. With each new discovery in silage science, we have improved the original formula. Today's SILO-BOOSTER gives the most effective silage innoculant yet developed.

SUMMARY OF RESULTS

Alfalfa Ensiled With And Without SILO-BOOSTER Conducted
At The University Of Minnesota West Central Experiment Station
Morris, Minnesota — Summary Of Haylage Crops

DRY MATTER RECOVERY (1)	CONTROL	SILO-BOOSTER
Amount D.M. Ensiled, lb.	26,228	30,418
Amount D.M. Removed, lb.	24,432	30,278
Recovery, %	93.2	99.5

(1) Individual loads of fresh forage were weighed before ensiling, after storage, silos were emptied completely at one time.

Composition and pH of Stored Alfalfa Ensiled With and Without SILO BOOSTER

	CONTROL	SILO-BOOSTER
Dry Matter, %	50.66	54.98
pH	6.33	5.82
Crude Protein, %	23.64	23.45
Ammonia Nitrogen	19.76	14.80
ADIN-N % of total N	5.76	5.58
ADF, % of D.M.	31.74	30.23
NFD, % of D.M.	42.44	41.88
Lactic Acid, % of D.M.	1.00	.87
Acetic Acid, % of D.M.	72	.52
Propionic Acid, % of D.M.	.018	.007
Butyric Acid, % of D.M.	.119	.027

Dry matter recovery data from these conventional silos demonstrates a 6.3% difference in feedable alfalfa silage. For each 100 tons of silage, there would be an additional 6.3 tons of silage available for feeding. This is equivalent to 3.5 tons of 90% dry matter hay worth approximately $350.00. This is a $3.50 return for each $1.00 investment in SILO BOOSTER from a reduction in fermentation losses alone.

Master Mix® CENTRAL SOYA

APPLICATION: 1 Lb. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of Forage.
Try New BIO-POWER Soluble mixed with water.
Add Feed Value To This Year's Silage By Reducing Costly Fermentation Losses

Approach Manure Pits With Caution

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Underground storage pits are convenient, efficient, and an increasingly popular way to store large amounts of manure, but they must be handled with care, according to a Penn State College of Agriculture fann safety expert.

"The danger peaks when stored manure is being agitated or emptied," said Dr. Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural engineering.

"The fermentation process that turns raw manure into fertilizer inside a storage pit also produces methane, hydrogen sulfide, carbon dioxide, and ammonia," he said. "When these hazardous gases build up, the atmosphere inside the pit can become toxic, low in oxygen, and even explosive."

If someone collapses in a pit, amateur rescue efforts often result in more fatalities. Several tragedies involving multiple deaths in a manure pit have occurred nationwide. In one incident, five family members died.

"Attempting to rescue someone who has collapsed in a pit is a no-win situation," Murphy said. "Gas concentrations are so high that it's literally suicide for anyone else to enter without protection. The only safe action is to ventilate the pit and wait for rescue personnel with the proper equipment."

Taking precautions can help minimize manure storage hazards. "Don't fill the pit to full capacity," Murphy said. "Allow a foot or two of air space to accommodate concentrations of these gases. When agitating stored manure or emptying the pit, keep out of storage buildings and provide strong, constant ventilation.

"Don't go into the pit unless you absolutely have to," Murphy said. "The only safe way to enter is to wear a self-contained breathing apparatus, along with a safety line attached to a hoist with a person standing by to assist you in an emergency. Provide ventilation and keep in constant visual contact with someone who can pull you to safety using the hoist."

Summer's hot temperatures can increase gas buildup, but a manure pit is always potentially dangerous. Toxic gas concentrations can occur at any time of the year.

"Hydrogen sulfide, the most hazardous manure pit gas, is colorless, heavier than air, and smells like rotten eggs," Murphy said. "At low concentrations it paralyzes the sense of smell and causes dizziness, headaches, nausea, and irritation of the respiratory tract. At high concentrations it can cause unconsciousness and respiratory failure within seconds, and death within minutes."

Carbon dioxide is non-toxic, but low concentrations can cause labored breathing and headaches. High concentrations can asphyxiate people and animals by displacing oxygen in the air. "But unless all ventilation into and around the pit stops for a few hours, carbon dioxide usually does not build up to a lethal level," said Murphy.

Ammonia can severely damage the eyes, nose, throat, and lungs when it combines with moisture in those tissues to form a caustic alkaline base. "High concentrations can be fatal, but ammonia's irritating nature usually prompts people to leave the area quickly," Murphy said.

Methane is highly flammablc and explosive, but it is impossible to detect without gas detection equipment. "Because it is lighter than air, methane rises out of manure pits," Murphy said. "But it can collect under hoods, roof ridges and corners, where torches, cigarettes, or sparks from electrical shorts can ignite explosions."

More information on manure pit safety is available from the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, 4676 Columbia Parkway, Cincinnati, OH 45226, (800) 35-NIOSH, or from your Penn State Cooperative Extension county office.

New Farmers' Market Planned For Frederick, Md.

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. has announced the opening of a new farmers' market in Frederick this summer.

The market will be located at Everedy Square and Shab Row parking lot on the west side of East Street just north of Church Street. The market will operate on Thursday afternoons from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., July 11 through October 24.

"With the opening of this new market in Frederick, farmers and consumers get a double benefit. Farmers have another outlet for their fresh, local produce and consumers get fresh homegrown fruits and vegetables," Cawley said.

This new market is part of the expanding farmers' market network the Maryland Department of Agriculture is helping to establish all around the state.

"We urge Frederick County farmers to participate in this exciting new venture," said Cawley.

Any farmer interested in being part of this new Frederick County market should contact the Maryland Department of Agriculture, Marketing Services, George Roche, (800) 492-5590.

PASS Is New To PENpages

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — How many potatoes were stored in Pennsylvania last month? How much did red meat, egg and milk production levels change? How might this week's weather affect growing conditions in the state?

You can find these and other current agricultural statistics in PENpages, a computer-based library of consumer and agricultural information operated and maintained by Penn State's College of Agriculture.

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service (PASS), a division of the state and federal departments of agriculture, is a new contributor to PENpages. PASS compiles information on all major Pennsylvania agricultural commodities and relays it to USDA's National Agricultural Statistics Service for inclusion in national statistics. PASS also compiles data for state and county analyses.

"PASS puts statistics on PENpages in a very understandable format, making it easy to find up-to-date agricultural data," said Debbie Shaffer, computer training and support specialist with the college.

PASS provides PENpages with a variety of statistics, including a weekly summary of weather conditions relative to crops; monthly updates on milk, egg, fruit, vegetable, and potato production levels; and quarterly updates on grain stocks and livestock production.

"By making our statistics electronically accessible, people can get information the same day it's released," said PASS statistician Wally Evans. "It used to take several days for mailed copies to reach the farmers, teachers, reporters and others who use them."

PASS is one of four PDA bureaus that place information in PENpages. The Bureau of Plant Industry puts a monthly plant pest update on the system, and the Bureau of Market Development posts current market and auction prices for livestock and produce. The PDA press office adds news and current information to the database.

PENpages contains helpful information on topics ranging from accounting to youth development. Most of the information is generated by Penn State's College of Agriculture. Other contributors to PENpages include Penn State's College of Health and Human Development and Nutrition Center, Cook College of Rutgers University, and national poultry and family living specialists.

PENpages is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. All it takes to access the free information is a computer, communications software, and a modem connected to a telephone line. In Pennsylvania, PENpages is accessed by dialing a special telephone number in each county. Most users have toll-free access, while others pay only the toll charge to their local Penn State Cooperative Extension office.

People interested in using the system should pick up a free "PENpages User Guide" from the local extension office. The guide provides step-by-step access instructions and the telephone number you should call to get the lowest possible phone charges.

People who live outside Pennsylvania can obtain a user guide by writing to Computer Services, 405 Agricultural Administration Building, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 863-3449.

Northeast Santa Gertrudis Assoc. Elects Officers

ROPS Proves To Be Good Gift For Dad

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — When farmers received mail from Ford New Holland dealers this past Christmas, there was a non-traditional holiday card included. It read "Your life is the most valuable gift you can give your loved ones this year . . . and many years to come." Artwork depicting traditional gifts under the tree also showed a rollover protection structure (ROPS) tied with a red ribbon and addressed "To Dad, Because We Care."

The same message in poster format greeted customers who stopped in at Ford New Holland dealerships during the holidays. And a full-page, colorized version of the message reached hundreds of thousands of farmers in the company's December issue of "Ford New Holland NEWS" magazine.

"Not many farmers put a ROPS at the top of their Christmas gift list in the past, but we want to make farmers and their families think of farm safety every opportunity we can. We were kicking off our new safety program, and Christmas provided a great opportunity to get the message home," said Caressa Robert, who coordinates Ford New Holland's safety communications program.

For farmer Gerald Legault, of St. Hermas, Ouebec, the message (produced in French as well as English) did get home. It was, in fact, strong enough to make him do something he said he never did before. "I have never written to comment on advertising before," he wrote to Ford New Holland, "But I want to congratulate you for making us think about safety."

Legault and other farmers will continue to get safety reminders from Ford New Holland, according to Hugh Cotcamp, vice president of the company's North American sales organization.

"We're serious about safety and working with our dealers," he said. "We're generally using the same tools and techniques to promote safety as we use to promote our products.

"The Christmas safety message was just the first in an ongoing Ford New Holland program we have planned. We believe the dealership level is the place to promote, teach, and talk safety and we're going to provide the materials, the ideas, and leadership in making safety an everyday part of doing business," Cotcamp said.

The emphasis so far has been on ROPS because 44 percent of all farm-related deaths are caused by rollover accidents, according to the National Safety Council. Cotcamp, who grew up on a 50-head New York dairy farm, is a longtime advocate of ROPS.

Ford New Holland began actively promoting the use of retrofit ROPS more than a decade ago because turnover accidents generally involve older tractors made before ROPS became standard equipment.

In 1988, Ford New Holland produced a ROPS retrofit product data sheet made available to dealers for display with product sales literature. The company even provided dealers with a list of independent ROPS manufacturers who could supply retrofit ROPS for pre-1965 tractors. And there's more safety effort coming in the future.

"A part of the company's advertising budget has been set aside to address safety awareness," Cotcamp said.

Safety-oriented advertisements have been developed for use in dealer-oriented publications. The ads stress dealer involvement in making sure new and used equipment has proper safety items in place, including shields, ROPS, and decals. Cotcamp said that, on used equipment, safety decals often are painted over and should be replaced before the farm machinery leaves a dealership.

He is also aware of the customer-resistance problems dealers face when selling tractors equipped with ROPS devices.

"Same farmers simply won't purchase a tractor that has a ROPS in place," he said. "They have a variety of reasons and really put dealers in a tough spot by refusing ROPS. I believe every dealer should explain the importance and availability of ROPS to customers, and possibly even have those who refuse sign a statement that this was done."

Cotcamp said the Ford New Holland safety advertisements have brought growing awareness to dealers about substantial jury awards against dealers. Even industry competitors have requested permission to use the ads in their safety discussions with dealers, he said.

As part of the safety effort, every Ford New Holland dealer has been provided with a special "Think Safety" poster frame reserved for safety messages. New posters will be produced regularly and supplied to dealers and others who request them.

While ROPS messages have been the dominant theme so far, Robert said other important farm safety topics will be part of the ongoing Ford New Holland program. The company is currently exploring ways to get total farm family involvement in future safety projects.

1991 BARN PAINTING
Aim For The Best - In Coating Film Thickness

To do it right use the finest kind of bristle brush evening out the coating into a film thickness that does not peel in normal moisture stress (found on most barn siding from outside and inside by livestock or stored animal feed.)

1. PREPARATION. Peeling old coatings (improperly brushed) needs to be removed. The best method is simply water blasting or power washing! High volume of water - medium pressure is best! Done professionally or do it yourself, especially on the easy to reach areas This is resurfacing!!!
2. BEST NEW START ON RESURFACED WOOD SIDING After spraying on this kind of barn paint or stain, take time to pay attention to brush out in all directions to create a film thickness that will prevent future peeling & resurfacing costs & effort This film will let excess moisture breathe through it Depending on the amount of weather wear it can be recoated lightly in 10-15 years Southern exposures usually wear faster.

Pork Study Reaches Millions

CHICAGO, Ill.— According to the Pork Industry Group of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, about 90 million media impressions resulted from the announcement of pork's new nutrient profile. This equates to roughly one-third of the U.S. population having potentially seen the news.

The Pork Market Basket Study's announcement, spearheaded by the Pork Industry Group with cooperation from the National Pork Board, University of Wisconsin-Madison, NPPC, National Pork Council Women and the USDA, was held last October at the American Dietetic Association annual convention in Denver.

"This one study may be the most critical element in making pork the meat of choice," National Pork Board President Hilman Schroeder said during the study's release. The majority of the study and its announcement was funded by pork producer checkoff dollars from the National Pork Board.

The study, conducted by Dennis Buege, Ph.D, at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, found that today's pork (cooked and trimmed) has 31 percent less fat, 17 percent less calories and 10 percent less cholesterol than official USDA data released ir 1983. This study is the foundation data to revise USDA's official values, expected out this fall.

"Putting aside the impressive number of stories on the new data, I find it very significant that the stories were positive. In fact, of all the piles of press clippings I've read, only three stories had even a twist of negativism. This data is the basis for almost every healthcare professional, consumer and thought leader program the industry is launching. To have the data viewed as credible was vitally important," said Sharlet Brown of the Pork Industry Group, the industry's team leader in announcing the data.

"Just because we did receive such broad coverage, that doesn't mean we're done telling this story. We've got to keep telling it until it sticks and everyone knows that fresh pork is now nutritionally comparable to chicken," Brown said. In fact, the Pork Market Basket Study findings place seven fresh cooked and trimmed pork cuts between skinless, roasted chicken breast and thigh in terms of total fat, calories and cholesterol.

POWER IN THE PALM OF YOUR HANDS

Ever since Woods introduced the world's first successful tractor powered rotary shredder back in 1947, we've never handed you the same old line.

Instead we continue to innovate and improve our products to provide equipment packed with performance, reliability and more value.

The results: a line-up of over 50 powerful products including mowers, rotary cutters, rear scraper blades, backhoes and specialty machines. The best that money can buy.

What Happens When Plants, Computers Speak?

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — In the 1960s, some gardeners suggested we taLk to our plants to help them grow. Thirty years later, scientists in Penn State's College of Agriculture have discovered that plants grow better when computers do the talking.

Researchers in the department of horticulture have set up a high-tech dialogue between plants and computers in a newly renovated greenhouse. Through the use of electronic sensors and automated systems, the computer monitors the needs of the plants and delivers precise amounts of light, water, fertilizer, or heat.

The computer-controlled greenhouse is more than just an experiment in space-age horticulture. "We're evaluating new technologies that will benefit the fastest growing segment of Pennsylvania agriculture, the state's $500 million floriculture and nursery industries," said Dr. John W. White, professor of floriculture.

"Pennsylvania ranks sixth nationally in the production of floriculture crops and eighth in nursery crops," he said. "But to stay competitive with out-of-state and foreign producers, growers will need to adopt new technologies that help them cut labor and energy costs."

"Growers want to adopt production systems that require less manual work, but many can't afford to invest in these systems until they've been proven cost-effective," said greenhouse technician Mark Rose. "Our work should benefit all levels of the industry, from mom-and-pop operations up to the largest corporations."

Some of the Penn State research looks at ways to make greenhouses environmentally safe. The researchers are experimenting with new technology to contain and recycle water and pesticides to avoid groundwater runoff.

"In traditional greenhouses, 80 percent of the water and fertilizers applied to plants never even hits the soil media in the pots," said Rose. "The water and nutrients run off into the surrounding area, polluting groundwater supplies."

"In many states, greenhouse operators have been brought to court for allegedly polluting groundwater," said White. "It's clear that the greenhouse industry needs more information on water quality and management.

"We want to help growers adopt corrective measures before regulatory pressures become a real threat to the profitability and survival of their businesses."

Other research in the greenhouse evaluates the effectiveness of automatic fertilization and irrigation systems, electronic sensors for temperature and humidity, and sliding benches that provide more room for plant production.

Researchers also are investigating the use of new bench heating systems and double-layer plastic coverings that could result in significant energy savings if adopted throughout the industry.

Ag Advocates Promote Opportunities

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — What does the word "agriculture" mean to you?

People who work in Pennsylvania's number one industry understand its diversity, but many people without direct experience in agriculture may not know the vital role science plays in modern food production.

Penn State's College of Agriculture sponsors the Ag Advocate program to promote greater understanding of agricultural education and careers. Under the program, 13 select undergraduates in the college will be reaching out this year to inform prospective students of the many opportunities that agriculture offers.

"Tomorrow's agricultural leaders face more challenges and more choices than ever before," said Marianne Houser, instructor in agricultural education and adviser for the program. "New technologies, from artificial intelligence to genetic engineering, have made the field more specialized and demanding. The Ag Advocate program is a way to make people more aware of the opportunities agriculture has to offer."

By representing the college at major events, including the state Farm Show, the ag advocates support the college's efforts to enhance the image of agriculture and to recruit highly qualified students. They also help alumni and friends stay in touch with College of Agriculture programs and developments.

The 1991-1992 Ag Advocates come from both urban and rural areas of Pennsylvania and represent several academic departments in the College of Agriculture. They are:

- Mark Anderson of Dover, a junior majoring in agricultural education.
- Tammy Sue Balthaser of Bernville, a junior majoring in agribusiness management.
- Angela S. Bollinger of Newmanstown, a junior majoring in dairy and animal science.
- Garland M. Eicher III of Imler, a junior majoring in agricultural science.
- Aimee Eopechino of Hanover, a sophomore majoring in food science.
- Gretchen Frederick of Blue Ball, a junior majoring in agricultural education.
- Lynnette E. Goodling of Selinsgrove, a sophomore majoring in dairy and animal science.
- Bernadette M. Grosz of Wapwallopen, a junior majoring in agricultural economics and rural sociology.
- Richard R. Hissong of Mercersburg, a sophomore majoring in agricultural systems management and technology.
- Daniel Kirk of Collingdale, a junior majoring in plant science.
- Terri L. Packard of Troy, a sophomore majoring in dairy and animal science.
- Cherice Parker of Philadelphia, a junior majoring in agricultural economics and rural sociology.
- Rebecca A. Sonnen of Richland, a sophomore majoring in agricultural science.

Ag Advocates are selected on the basis of high academic achievements, interviews, and faculty recommendations. Dean Lamartine F. Hood initiated the program in the fall of 1988.

4-H Equine Expo

DOYLESTOWN (Bucks Co.) — 4-H members in seven counties making up the southeast region have the opportunity to participate in the Regional 4-H Equine Expo.

This event is scheduled for Wednesday, June 26 at the Delaware Valley College, located on Rt. 202 south of Doylestown.

Cosponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and Delaware Valley College of Science and Agriculture, 4-H'ers will have competitive contests such as hippology (the study of the horse) and the equine communications contests. In addition, there will be two educational clinics offered on horse-related subjects.

The Equine Science Organization, comprised of Del Val College's young equestrians, will help run the competitive contests with the Bucks County Cooperative Extension office.

Rodale Foundation Established In Soviet Union

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Rodale Institute and Rodale Press have signed an agreement to launch the first non-profit foundation in the Soviet Union for promoting independent farming and environmentally safe agricultural techniques.

The International Rodale Soil and Health Foundation will be based in the rural village of Kudinova on the outskirts of Moscow. It will include a scientific research and conference center and demonstration farm, covering 25 acres of fields and pine and birch forests on a former merchant's estate.

The establishment of the Foundation follows the inauguration by Rodale Press in February of "Novii Fermer" (New Farmer) magazine. Now in its third issue, "Novii Fermer" is a bimonthly practical how-to publication for the new class of independent farmers arising as Soviet policy shifts away from large-scale collective farms.

The magazine is a product of the Soviet-American commercial joint venture PTS (Periodicals, Trading and Services), which was established in Moscow last year. The partners of Rodale Press in PTS are the Soviet publishing house Vneshtorgizdat (VTI) and the 50th Anniversary of the October Revolution State Farm located in Kudinova. PTS, VTI, and Rodale Institute are the founders of the nonprofit agricultural organization.

"It was clear to me during a recent speech at the Russian Academy just how desperate the need is for agricultural reform in the Soviet Union," said Rodale Group Vice President Chuck McCullagh. "The formation of this unique foundation, and the information in 'Novii Fermer,' couldn't have arrived in the Soviet Union at a more needed time."

The American and Soviet founders will provide the initial funding for the operating foundation. Further support will be contributed by other foundations both in the United States and the Soviet Union. Corporate sponsorships, as well as individual donations, will also be accepted.

The Foundation is modeled after the Rodale Institute and Rodale Institute Research Center located in Maxatawany, Pa. Underlying its activities will be the Rodale philosophy of sustainable agriculture, emphasizing high-yield, low synthetic input techniques. Soviet experts regard such organic farming methods as particularly suitable to their circumstances because of the country's limited financial resources and severe ecological damage.

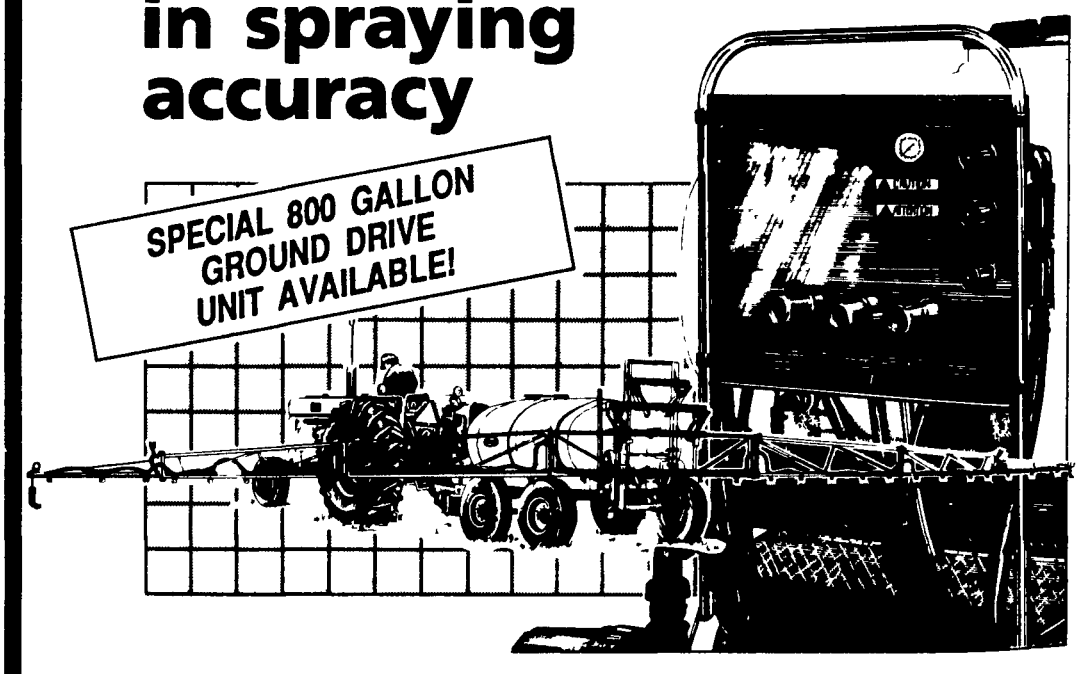
Breakthrough in spraying accuracy



Wasting chemical and yield on hills and headlands is a thing of the past with Vicon's new flow proportioning and boom compensation system. Application rate remains constant even when ground speed varies or individual boom sections are shut off. That means better coverage with lower input costs.

It is available on all Vicon trailer sprayers with tank capacities up to 785 U.S. gal. (3000 litres) and automatic stabilizing booms from 28' to 62'. There's also a choice of hydraulic or manual folding booms and a range of accessories that make crop spraying less of a chore.

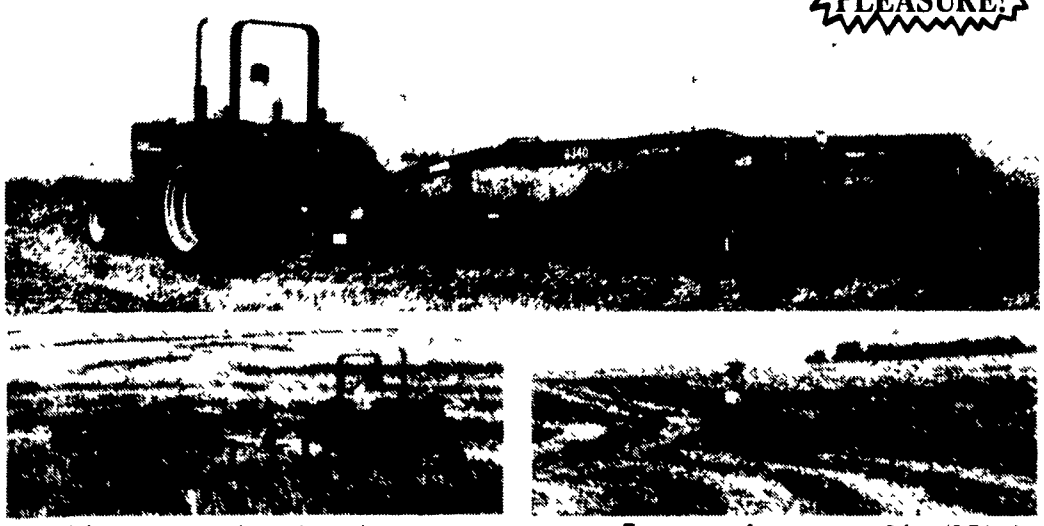
CASE INTERNATIONAL 8340

This 9 ft. 3 in. (2.82m) deluxe model includes all the operating and convenience features you need for fast, efficient crop processing.

IN STOCK FOR MOVING PLEASURE!



You don't have to worry about plugged conditioner rolls in heavy crop conditions, either Should crop slugs feed into the rolls, a unique eccentric linkage on the roll pressure spring assembly permits the rolls to temporarily separate allowing the slug to pass through The rolls then automatically return to the preset roll pressure

Outstanding vertical and radial flotation ensure the header hugs the ground through every contour Yet adjustment has never been easier Each wheel assembly on the 8340 is equipped with flotation springs that are easily accessible for initial adjustment Further adjustment can be achieved when cutting height changes are made at the skid shoes by simply inserting stop collars on the master and slave cylinders

The little touches that you expect on a deluxe machine haven't been left out, either Like an easy access compartment built into the frame so you can keep an extra sickle on hand at all times And a tool box for spare parts, guards, sickle sections and tools

Never has such a small investment brought so much productivity and convenience

For pure performance in a 9-foot (2 74 m) mower conditioner, you can't beat the 8340 from Case IH This model combines the productivity of a 9 foot 3 inch (2 82 m) cutting width with the deluxe features you'd expect to find only on larger machines

For starters, the heavy, box-beam tongue is hydraulically positioned from the tractor seat so you can switch from field to road position in seconds Plus, it lets you steer around field obstacles without driving over adjacent windrows

Plenty of crop gathering capacity begins with a low-maintenance sickle that runs at a fast smooth 1700 stokes-per-minute Bolt-on sickle sections are even standard equipment for quick, convenient section replacement

A five-bat, cam-actuated reel is another standard feature that provides maximum capacity In addition to ensuring uniform crop feeding to the conditioner rolls, the additional fifth bat allows the 42-inch (1 07 m) reel to take smaller bites of heavy, high-density crops If necessary, you can still adjust reel speed from 54 to 78 RPM for varying crop types

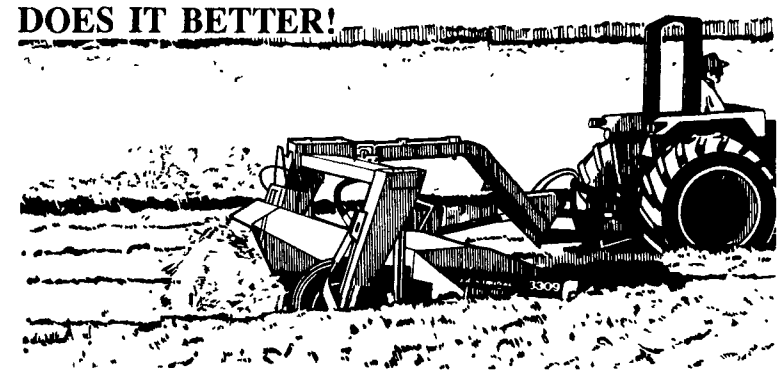
Keep going through the toughest mowing.

A case DISC MOWER CONDITIONER DOES IT BETTER!



Designed to keep going in the toughest field haying conditions, the CASE International 3309 Disc Mower Conditioner delivers fast, virtually nonstop cutting — with less plugging Whether the problems are wet, rank hay, tangled grass, fire ant hills or gopher mounds, the 3309 gets you through it in less time, with less trouble Seven oval discs spinning at 3,000 RPM — with two free-swinging knives apiece — help you slice through tangled grass, hay or legumes easily and efficiently, with a cut that's 9' 3" (2 82 m) wide The CASE IH patented roll separation lets you clear out slugs without leaving the tractor seat, and the hydraulic header lift and hydraulic tongue positioning provide extra operator convenience So, for the fastest cutting — even when conditions are tough — be ready with CASE IH 3309 Come in and see it today

★ The Patented Roll Separation Lets You Clean Out Slugs Without Leaving The Tractor Seat!

With Case IH You Have Grease Lubrication - NOT Oil Bath With Seals To Give-Out Like The Competition Offers... Also, With Individualized Case IH Components You Need Not Worry When Working On Slopes On Account Of Oil Lube Running To End Of Cutter Bar & Running Dry On Other End.

New! Precision Metering For Soybeans, Milo.

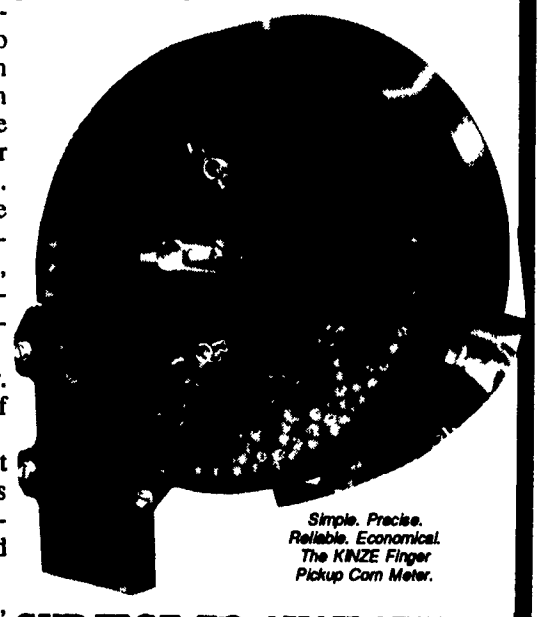
Imagine nearly perfect plateless metering for soybeans, milo/grain sorghum! Imagine the ability to plant varying seed sizes accurately — soybeans (from 2,200 to 4,000 seeds per pound); milo/grain sorghum (12,000-18,000 seeds per pound); — with the same meter and the appropriate seed disc. A precision meter with one moving part. One that costs little to maintain. One that eliminates the wasted overage and all the extra adjustments of conventional mechanical metering systems. One that doesn't require all the pumps, adjustments and maintenance of air and vacuum systems. One that's actually gentler on the seed than anything you've used before.

Meet the new KINZE® Brush-Type Seed Meter. Designed specifically to handle a wide variety of crops.

How does it work? Simply! It consists of a die-cast aluminum housing and a system of brushes that fills and gently retains individual seeds in a precision-molded seed disc with specially designed seed pockets.

As the disc rotates vertically within the housing, seeds gravitate toward the pedrimeter of the seed disc. Individual seeds are then picked up by the molded seed pocket and retained by the special brush system until they reach a point immediately above the seed tube where they are released and allowed to drop gently into the seed trench.

The result? More accuracy and control than you ever thought possible. Without all the adjustments. Without all the maintenance headaches.



Simple. Precise. Reliable. Economical. The KINZE Finger Pickup Corn Meter.

THE BRAGGING STOPS. . . . . IN THE FIELD

Axial-Flow Combines Are Simply More Productive

Over the past twelve years the Case IH axial-flow combines have proven themselves to be more productive than the combines previously owned by our customers. In tall crops, short crops or down crops; bumper crops or drought crops the axial-flow combines put more crop in the bin and, therefore, return more market dollars to you. The Case IH axial-flow is simply more productive in the field where the bragging stops.

HOOBER:

Axial-Flow production specialists

1. Every new combine Hoober sells is expertly predelivered and started in the field by a professional combine mechanic; experienced in setting and adjusting for all common crops.
2. Hoober's professional combine mechanics drive fully equipped combine service trucks, stocked with commonly used wearing parts. When called to service or repair an axial-flow combine, they carry with them the tools and equipment to do the job and get you back to the field fast.
3. Hoober's Parts Department has the largest combine parts inventory in the East. Daily pick-ups at the Case IH Parts depot help to provide fast emergency parts availability. Hoober's expert combine PARTS service provides you minimum downtime and maximum productivity.

See it to believe it!

The New Holland Model 408 and 411 Discbine® disc mower-conditioners handle the toughest conditions without plugging.

CASH PRICE $9,500 Limited Quantity!

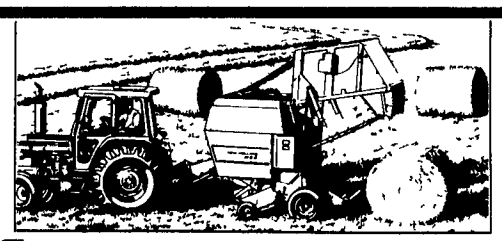
Out-bale'm all!

No matter how you look at it, the New Holland square balers from Ford New Holland top every baler in their class... for capacity, bale quality and reliability.

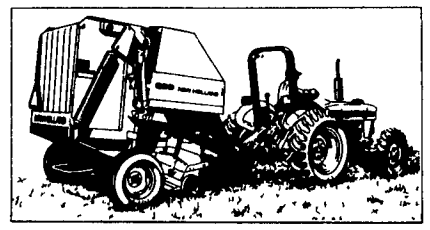
ALL MODELS IN STOCK!

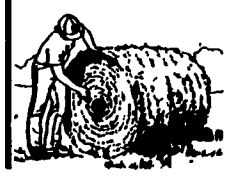


Fastnet™ ties bales 70 percent faster

Now you can tie bales at least 70 percent faster and make better looking bales, too, with a New Holland round baler equipped with the Fastnet net wrap system. The black plastic netting extends the entire width of bale, so you rotate a finished bale only twice. Compare this with the 12 to 18 revolutions needed for most twine-tied bales. Fastnet is an option available on Models 848, 853 and 855 New Holland round balers.

New Holland quality in easy-to-handle bales





When the crew is just you, the New Holland Model 630 round baler delivers quality hay in an easy-to-handle bale size. It makes dense, good-looking 650-pound bales measuring four feet wide by four feet in diameter. And a 35 horsepower tractor supplies all the power you need. The "630" handles delicate crops gently to reduce fines losses, so your bales retain more protein-rich leaves. Ask for a demonstration today.

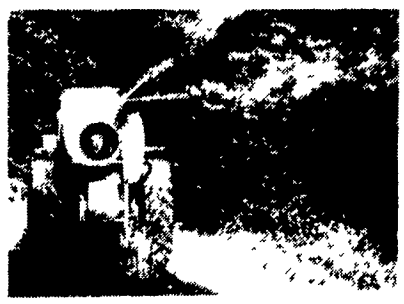
SUPER SAVINGS ON HARDI SPRAYERS

COMBI-1 & -2 and SUPER-5

High-power units

The COMBI series of mist-blowers utilizes the turbo-fan blower concept which has a proven high performance record. COMBI models are built around a basic blower on which it is possible to mount different spout combinations - one spout, two spouts, or five spouts



Ideal for tall trees, or for one sided applications in very dense crops.

LP/TP PNEUMATIC SPRAYERS

TP 250 Cannon Pneumatic Mistblower (Demo.)

$6,200

The LP (mounted) and TP (trailer) pneumatic sprayers are an excellent choice for a wide range of spraying jobs The pneumatic system uses low pressure nozzles combined with high air speed Atomization takes place only when the air blast meets the liquid from the nozzle (air shear system) This ensures uniform coverage of the complete canopy even when spraying at very low volumes

MINI-Variant A variety of uses

The standard MINI blower has been mounted on a high frame for the Variant mistblower range, and uses ten long flexible hoses with adjustable spouts mounted on a boom to maximize penetration in dense row crops such as strawberries, cabbage carrots, beans, onions, brussel sprouts, potatoes, lettuce, pea nuts, celery, soybeans, cotton, nursery stock, etc

HARVEST TEC SKID FEEDER-40

The SKID FEEDER - 40 is designed to turn your skid steer loader into a cross between a feed cart and a feed wagon Now you can move feed from your silos and storage bins to anyplace on your farmstead without making a major investment The SKID FEEDER - 40 discharges feed from the bottom of its hopper as you drive forward for efficient bunk or alley feeding. Consider the time and work the SKID FEEDER - 40 could save you in.

- Moving silage and other feeds to side buildings and pens
- Feeding in tight spots both inside and outside
- Transferring TMRs to locations not served by automatic equipment

FREE YOURSELF FROM SPREADER CHAINS AND SAVE MONEY

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the grief and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

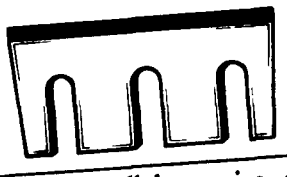
Pre-Season Savings - 10% on John Deere Haying Parts!

Your John Deere haying equipment needs John Deere parts—if you want to be sure you can make hay while the sun shines! Come in and save on guards, sections, knives, rubber-ball rake teeth, needles, knife arms and shear bolts, belts and roller chains. And, we can match some John Deere parts to other brands of equipment through our JD Cross+Search™ system. PHAC

Forage Harvester
John Deere knives are formed from high-quality alloy steel, then precision-ground for clean cutting.



Knotters, Bill Hooks and Needles
John Deere replacement parts are precision built to give you tight bales with non-slip knots that stand up to rough handling.

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
★ Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry. The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure. We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows.

*5 yr - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 yr - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit
Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and caries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.
* Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay out of $450.00
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's including ramp & carrier sets
NEW style on ramps & carriers $200.00

The industry's BEST warranties.

The best guidance system and the best gear drive, whether you choose planetary or worm gear.

✓ 7 Years Unlimited Hours on T-L's Guidance Valve.

If the pivot company you're working with now doesn't warranty the components in their guidance box for seven years (microswitches, contactors, fuses, etc.), maybe it's time to look at T-L.

Select T-L Planetary Gear Drive and get 6 Years or 10,000 Hours Protection.

T-L's Planetary Warranty doubles the hours compared to most gearbox warranties. No center pivot gearbox in the industry touches T-L's planetary drive life.

OR

Choose T-L Worm Gear Drive and get 5 Years or 7,000 Hours Warranty.

T-L's worm gear drive warranty is the longest in the industry. . . on top of that, you get continuous movement . . . made famous by T-L hydrostatic drive.

Stop by and see your T-L Dealer today. . . You'll see why the choice is simple.

"MAKING GOOD SILAGE"

Probably no other ingredient fed in cattle rations today varies so much in "quality" as silage. It takes common sense, attention to details, and solid management to make good silage.

At least nine factors affect silage quality Rather than acting independently, they interact to determine silage quality

"The 9 Factors"

1 The Crop
2 Stage of Growth
3. Moisture
4. Fine Chopping
5. Filling, Packing and Sealing
6. Silo Structures
7 Feedout
8 Weather
9 Additives

Since 1908, SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. has been providing the Silo Structures now in demand by more and more farmers concerned about "silage quality." "Nothing keeps feed better than our poured concrete silos."

PACMASTER

Surface Drive Silo Unloader

- Large Tri-Suspension frame provides proper balance for even silage cutting.
- 2"x2"x¼" angled steel frame has greater strength
- Forged ½" steel eye-bolts allow for individual cable adjustment and proper balance.
- Three, strong, ¼" aircraft-type cables provide high-tensile strength and dependability.

- Auger knives are sharpened, hardened and curved. Result: augers and chipper wheels maintain proper wall pressure for better cleaning and more aggressive cutting and digging of hard-packed or frozen silage.

LEAN GENERATION CHOW

NEW LEAN GENERATION™ CHOW® BRAND FEED PRODUCES LEANER PORK. FOR LEANER PEOPLE.

It's what packers want. It's what consumers want. Old-fashioned pork isn't right for today's marketplace. New Lean Generation Chow increases lean gain per day by up to 27%.

The secret? It's a research breakthrough that helps hogs reach their full lean gain potential because energy and amino acids are precisely matched to your hog's genetics.

Feeding trial results have shown up to:

- 27% IMPROVEMENT IN LEAN GAIN PER DAY*
- 7% IMPROVEMENT IN FEED EFFICIENCY*
- 7 DAYS SOONER TO MARKET*
- 1 TO 1½ POINT INCREASE IN PERCENT LEAN*
- 7% DECREASE IN BACKFAT*
- 2.75 MORE LB. HAM, LOIN, BOSTON BUTT & PICNIC AT 240 LB. LIVE WEIGHT*
